PREFACE

In a bid to rescue forgotten works of the scholars of yester year from total disappearance, we searched specimen copies of old publications available in the Museum. We came across a copy of the book 'List of Inscriptions on Tombs or Monuments in Madras' by Dr.B.S.Baliga, then Curator of Madras Record Office.

The work was first published by J.J.Cotton, I.C.S., in 1905. In 1943, a revised and enlarged edition with added information in two volumes was brought out by Dr. B.S. Baliga. The first volume contains information about the inscription found on the tombs or monuments in Madras City and a few other important cities in India and Sumatra.

In Archaeology, tombs are epitomes of human cultures and monuments depict moments of history. Inscriptions found on them render greater authenticity to them and provide better scope for evaluation of the past events with special reference to dating events. The present publication, which contains vital information about 19th century European personalities, has been brought out to provide source materials for historians and students of history.

PREFACE TO THE REVISED EDITION

THIS revised edition of the List of Inscriptions on Tombs or Monuments in Madras is based primarily on the notes collected by the late Mr. J. J. Cotton, I.C.S., after the publication of the first edition in 1905. These notes were purchased by the Government of Madras from the executors of Mr. Cotton in 1928 and were entrusted to the late Mr. C. W. E. Cotton, C.I.E., I.C.S., for the purpose of bringing out a revised edition. On the death of Mr. C. W. E. Cotton in 1931, the work was entrusted to Mr. P. Macqueen, I.C.S., my predecessor in office. And when Mr. Macqueen left the office in 1935, the work devolved upon me. In this edition are incorporated not only the notes left by Mr. J. J. Cotton but also much useful information collected from various other sources like the old Asiatic Journals, the Madras Almanacs, the old Military and Civil Lists, the List of Marriages by H. Dodwell and the List of Danish Marriages by the Rev. K. Heiberg, etc.

This edition is issued in two volumes. The first volume relates to the City of Madras, French India, Indian States and Fort Marlborough on the West Coast of Sumatra. The second volume relates to the districts of the Madras Presidency. At the end of each volume are printed an index to the names on the inscriptions and an index to the names occurring in the notes. As in the first edition, such of the inscriptions on monuments which are no longer in existence, but which are mentioned in Urquhart's "Oriental Obituary" (1809), have been printed within square brackets. It will be found that in a few cases under the column for inscriptions, certain particulars are printed within round brackets. This indicates that these particulars are not copies of inscriptions, but are only obituary notices collected by Mr. J. J. Cotton.

I have to express my thanks to Lt.-Col. H. Bullock, I.A., a Member of the Indian Historical Records Commission, who kindly read through the form proofs of the first volume and made several valuable suggestions. My thanks are also due to Rev. K. Heiberg of the Danish Mission, Madras, and to the Rev. Father A. S. Colas, the Archbishop of Pondicherry, for furnishing information regarding certain inscriptions, and to Mr. E. Divien, M.A., of the Madras Christian College, for correcting the proof of the matter in French in Volume I. I must also express my indebtedness to Rao Sahib N. Kalu Nair, B.A., and Mr. V. J. George, B.A., DIP. ECON., the former and the present Assistant Curators and to Mr. D. S. Dharmaraj, DIP. ECON., Senior Assistant, and Mr. M. Natesan, B.A., of the Madras Record Office, for helping me in seeing the publication through the press.

INTRODUCTION TO THE FIRST EDITION*

THIS volume contains a select list of monumental inscriptions relating to Europeans buried in the Madras presidency. It includes all epitaphs of adults earlier than 1800 and such entries of later date as possess historical or local interest. Numerous translations from foreign languages have been added, and attention has been paid towards annotating the names of persons and places of importance.

2. At the beginning of the last century an attempt to form a similar collection was made by William Urquhart of Madras in his "Oriental Obituary," printed at the Journal Press in 1809. This "Impartial Compilation," as it is termed on the title page, was originally projected in three volumes, but two only were published. An advertisement to the first number contains the announcement that "volume II is preparing and will be put to press so soon as paper can be procured, at present there being none in Madras which could possibly answer the purpose." It is believed that only two copies of this curious book survive, one in the library of the late Archbishop Goethals at Calcutta and the other in the private collection of Mr. Edward Wenger of the Bengal Secretariat, who has lent his copy for the purposes of the present work. The British Museum possesses only a copy of the first volume. Urquhart's precursor had been Asiaticus, whose "East Indian Chronologist" (1801) "from the commencement of the East-India Trade by David and Solomon," and "Monumental Register" (1803) were printed at the Hircarrah Press, Calcutta, by Mr. Hawkesworth. Many of Asiaticus' gleanings were reproduced in 1815 in M. DeRozario's "Complete Monumental Register of epitaphs in or about Calcutta." Lastly in 1848 appeared the time-honoured "Bengal Obituary" of Messrs. Holmes & Co. of Cossitollah. This book was the product of a firm of undertakers, who traced the origin of monuments to the Deluge, "when the rainbow was made or selected as a standing token," and encouraged the public to proper ideas of sepulture by the argument of the resurrection of the body. Since the appearance of this work, only occasional attempts have been made to preserve in print the crumbling memorials of European dead in India. In 1861 Mr. Augustus F. Bellasis of the Bombay Civil Service compiled a monograph on the old tombs at Surat, and in 1877 Mr. Leopold Ludovici, Editor of the "Ceylon Examiner," collected the Dutch inscriptions of that island into the Lapidarium Zeylandicum. Little was done in Madras till Mr. LeFanu in his "Salem Manual" (1883) set the example of registering the names of all Europeans who had found a last resting place in the cemeteries of his district. In 1880 facsimiles of the tombstones round St. Mary's Church, Fort St. George, were executed by the Survey department under the orders of the Duke of Buckingham, who was then Governor. This album was prepared for private circulation, and only two copies were left in Madras. Within the last few years a systematic recension of inscriptions from European graveyards throughout India has taken place at the instance of the Secretary of State, and lists have been published from every district in Madras. The present volume is a selection from those lists with additions and corrections. It is intended as a companion volume to the "List of Inscriptions on Tombs or Monuments in Bengal," edited by Mr. C. R. Wilson in 1896.

3. The history of old Madras is in no small measure written upon its tombstones. Especially interesting are the memorials of the Company's earliest servants. They and their families lie buried in every coast town, and often a ruined cemetery is all that remains of a famous factory. Their Puritan names such as Ordonicus and Tryphena are landmarks which bind together successive generations. Like the Pilgrim Fathers, who colonised America, our stout-hearted forbears in the Land of Regrets were all of them trueborn Englishmen of credit and renown. Indeed, pioneering would seem to be the peculiar province of the Anglo Saxon all the world over. The Scotchman follows at a later stage in the race. Our original Cape Merchants, Levant Traders and East India Venturers were typical sons of John Bull; men of London, Bristol, Devon, and the Home Counties. As we travel down the centuries, there are associations with many names that have won recognition at home. A descendant of Cromwell in the person of John Russell was President at Fort William in the days of Queen Anne. Another, Nicholas Morse, ruled as Governor in Fort St. George almost at the same time that Milton's grandson, Caleb Clarke, was parish clerk of St. Mary's, Madraspatam. In the shadow of the towers of the High Court sleeps little David, the four year old son of Elihu Yale. His father is remembered as the founder of an enlightened university and forgotten as the Governor of a benighted presidency. Every schoolboy knows that Thackeray was the son and grandson of Bengal Collectors; but the tomb at Ootacamund of Sir Henry Davison, the Madras Chief Justice, to whom he dedicated the "Virginians," is as unremembered as the grave of his uncle

* This introduction was written by Mr. Cotton in 1905.

Wahb Thackeray at Cuddapah. Another grave interesting to lovers of literature is that of Charles Reade's civilian brother at Calicut, laid to rest beside Collector Conolly who was hacked to pieces by Moplas in 1855. This presidency can also claim a brother-in-law of Sir Walter Scott in Charles Carpenter, a former Commercial Resident of Salem; while at St Mark's Church, Bangalore, is a tablet to the poet's son and heir, a Colonel of Hussars, who perished on his voyage to the Cape, and another son sleeps in far off Tabran. Trichinopoly has memories only for Heber, who, after three short years of India, died there in 1826; so that few visit its Fort Church, in the chancel of which reposes Rebecca Darke, a lady who has some claim on posterity as being the grand-mother of Juha, Lady Peel, wife of a Premier and mother of a Speaker of the House of Commons. In Madras the tombstone of Hugh Boyd, a reputed Junius, has entirely disappeared. There is no trace of any monument on the solitary Ganjam coast to Alexander Macrabie, the devoted brother in-law and adherent of Francis, an even better claimant to the authorship of "Woodfall's letters." A son in-law of de Quincey lies buried at Madras in the person of Colonel Baird Smith of the Bengal Engineers. Two of Addison's brothers, one a Governor of Madras, the other a free merchant, died at Fort St. George. It was the inheritance of the Governor's fortune that enabled the essayist to bring off his marriage with the Dowager Countess of Warwick, the "Chloe" of Holland House with whom he had so long been in love. A son of Charles Dickens, for whom a cadetship had been procured on the Bengal establishment, finds a last resting place in Calcutta. His godfather, Walter Savage Landor, in England paid the tribute of verse to Rose Aylmer, who came out to her uncle, a Judge of the Supreme Court at Fort William, and died there in her twenty first year "in the bloom of youth and in the possession of every accomplishment that could gladden or embellish life." The same writer in his "lines to Theodosia Garrow," the kinswoman of Anthony Trollope, celebrates a near relative of British Nabobs, of whom three repose in the cemetery beside the Cooum. Madras itself is not without a poet. In 1803 John Leyden, M.D, of St. Andrew's arrived on the Coromandel Coast as Assistant Surgeon and ended his life at Java in 1811, bewailed by Scott and Malcolm. Another well remembered lament is that of Matthew Arnold over his brother in the Punjab Educational Service, the author of "Oakfield or Fellowship in the East," who died at Gibraltar, on his journey home, and sleeps off his sorrows there beside "Lucknow" Kavanagh. South India has as many classic memories in her birth places as in her death places. Those who have read Lawrence Sterne and remember his heroine Eliza of the Sentimental Journey, the pure and sprightly Eliza with all her refined tastes and elegant accomplishments, will marvel to call to mind that it was in no more magnificent city than Anjengo that Elizabeth Draper, nèe Sclater, was born in 1744. Nineteen years passed and Tranquebar, the 'Queen of the Coromandel Coast, gave birth to Catherine Noel Werlée, "cette rare et nonchalante beauté indienne," destined to hewitch historical characters of high renown. Half a century later at Hyderabad in the Deccan was born Kitty Kirkpatrick, the heroine of one romance and the offspring of another. Other names there are that have made history as well as literature. More than one mouldering monument testifies to the men of the coast army who fell fighting the battles of the Carnatic under Lawrence and Clive and Dalton and Draper. Our public highways are strewn with broken down memorials to others who died on the march and made the roadside their resting place. Nor were all these heroes Englishmen. Upon Seringapatam tombstones may be read the foreign names of De Meuron's Regiment and its officers, names which have disappeared so long ago from the Army List that few of us know now a days that such a corps of Switzers ever formed part of our army during twenty most eventful years of India's Military history. Even in the paths of peace there are notabilities: the great and good Munro; Governors Morse, Ward, Adam, Lords Pigot and Hobart; Bishops Corrie, Dealtry and Caldwell, missionaries like Swartz, Ziegenbalg, Noble and the Jesuit Beschi; artists of the calibre of Colonel Swain Ward, Lieutenant Payne and the miniaturist Casselli; surgeons like Anderson, Harris, Griffith and Pasley, worthy followers of the succession which began with Hamilton, Boughton and Holwell and has produced in our own day warriors such as Brydon and writers such as Busteed; General Carnac, Clive's colleague at Plassey * whose wife's portrait by Reynolds adorns the Tate Gallery; the DeMorgans, father and son; Binny, Parry and DeMonte, founders of the three great merchant houses of Madras; the Palmers and Rumbolds of Hyderabad, and a host of others. The Civil Service is well represented by young Lushington, Heber's companion on his tour in Upper India, by a Roebuck, uncle of the Sheffield reformer; by F. W. Ellis, whose unassisted scholarship is so warmly praised by Burnell, the Prince of palæographists; by Josiah Webbe, by Rous Peter "the Pandyan", and by a multitude of once potent civilian names. Then was the Augustan age of John Company; and among its ruling families ran some of the bluest blood in the three kingdoms. Englishmen of birth were indeed no rare exceptions in India a hundred years ago. The most noteworthy feature in the Allahabad graveyard was a broken column over the resting place of a FitzClarence, brother of the Earl of Munster, and son of his

* This is contradicted in the revised edition—vide notes under item 1335 on page 62 of Vol. II of the revised edition

Majesty King William the Fourth. An old Bengal Civil List counts no less than nine baronets and eleven younger sons of peers in its ranks. The annals of the Indian Civil Service have yet to be written: but to their chronicler the "Book of the Dead" is likely to prove a genealogical paper of more than ordinary importance.

4. As the oldest European presidency, Madras is exceptionally rich in memorials of other Western nations than our own. The Portuguese entered India as far back as 1498 with (as has been said) the sword in one hand and the crucifix in the other; but their inscriptions are very few. If we except the epitaphs at Goa, San Thomé and Cochin, no monuments to the contemporaries of Camoens are traceable. The Cochin slab, dated 1524, recently disinterred near the new Port office, is apparently the oldest memento mori of this nation in the peninsula. The Linz tablet is older, but it commemorates, not a death, but the foundation of a Church to our Lady of Light, perhaps the Madre de Deos from whom the word Madras is sometimes fancifully derived. At Colombo in 1898 an even more ancient stone was turned up near the old breakwater, bearing the Lusitanian arms and the date 1501. It seems probable that in India, as in Ceylon, Portuguese monuments were destroyed wholesale by the Dutch. There is the recorded testimony of an early Dutch writer Saar that those at Jaffna were broken into pieces by the sailors with sledge hammers. In the south of the peninsula, Mylapore Cathedral and the Franciscan Church at Cochin contain the best collections. For a long time a Cochin stone bearing the name "Vasco" was regarded as commemorating Vasco da Gama's death, which occurred there in 1524, until the slab was properly examined by the late Rev. A. F. Sealy of Ernakulam College. But although the relics of their race may be few, the influence of Portugal upon Southern India was very marked, and it has contributed to the speech of to-day words that are in hourly use from Calcutta to Peshawar. The boat call of converted fishermen on the côte de la Pêcherie is still "Javier, Javier," though the cry has been less romantically interpreted as a corruption of the Hindustani "Jahiye, Jahiye." At one time Portuguese threatened to become the lingua franca of the Malabar and Coromandel Coasts, and as late as 1776 we find the epitaph of Danish Maderup at Tranquebar composed in that tongue. This circumstance takes us back to a period when Tranquebar Missionaries preached in a periwig in Portuguese, and read from their prayer books an "oraçao por a illustrissima Companhia da India Oriental." The altar text in their little church is written in Portuguese and the next village on the road to Karikal is called "la grande Aldée," aldea being Portuguese for village. A favourite Quetornum of the "naturals de Madrastapatam" was at St. Thomas' Mount, where it is recorded that one lady wished to be buried on the steps leading to the summit, because there the devout passer-by might read her epitaph and in his charity pray for the peace of her soul.

5. Mention of the Mount leads on to mention of the Madras Armenians, whose earliest inscriptions are found there. These merchants from Persia are a practically extinct colony now-a-days; but their little cemeteries are a witness that they once had a share in the commerce of the settlement. They settled permanently at Madras in the year 1666, and from 1688 are found in the service of the Company, who, for reasons of economy, had issued orders that, instead of multiplying European agents in India, Asiatics should be employed. In Madras the most notable "Armeniorum fautor" is Coja Petrus Uscan, the builder of the Marmalong bridge in 1726, whose documents regarding the Uscan charity are still to be seen in the Sadapet Collector's office. He lies interred at Vepery and the superlatives on his epitaph testify to his numerous virtues. The church of his countrymen in Armenian street, Black Town*, was erected in 1772 on the site of an old burial ground and replaced a demolished place of worship on the Esplanade which dated back to some sixty years earlier. Several of its pavement graves, such as the family vault of Shameer Sultan, are very remarkable. One slab within its recess bears the name of the Rev. Arratoon Shumavon, "by the grace of God a priest from Shiraz" and printer of the first known Armenian journal. In Fort St. George, at Masulipatam and Negapatam, are other slabs with metrical verses in Latin and the vernacular. The Armenians have ever been a purely commercial people in this country. They built no cities and carved out for themselves no empire; but to England they have rendered services which deserve remembrance and are fitly chronicled in Mr. Mesrovb J. Seth's "History of the Armenians in India." Their most remarkable tombstone is set not in the East, but at St. Denis in the West. "Cy gist le très noble et très excellent Prince Lyon de Lusignan, quint roy latin du royaume d'Arménie qui rendit l'âme à Dieu a Paris le XXIX jour de Novembre l'an de grâce MCCCXIII."

6. Of all the European powers that held sway in India, none more genuinely felt and observed the culte des morts than the Dutch. In his famous essay on the Tombs in Westminster Abbey (Spectator, No. 26), Addison has remarked on this characteristic: and Pepys' Diary contains a similar comment. Their regal mausoleums at Surat long ago attracted the attention of travellers like Dr. John Fryer (1682) and Ovington (1689); the latter of whom mentions a custom maintained by Dutchmen in his day of celebrating convivial feasts over the tomb of a toper of facetious memory where, remembering their departed companion, they sometimes forgot themselves." Of their disused cemeteries in South India, the Pulicat graveyard, which has a well preserved lychgate of 1656 flanked by two standing stone skeletons, is the most remarkable. Over one of its oldest graves may be seen inscribed the letters V.O.C. (Vereenigde Oostendische Compagnie), the familiar monogram of the Netherlands United East India Company. On another slab is a pictorial representation of the Fort of Castel Geldria, which Mr. Rea has reproduced in his volume of facsimiles. The Dutch stones here and elsewhere were elaborately carved by matselaars or masons, who graduated in their profession before coming out to India, and handed down much of their skill to Hindoo craftsmen. The only European relic at Cape Comorin is an imposing granite block to the perpetual honour of a faithful Dutch factor. At Porto Novo the bas-relief over the grave of Matthys Pfeiffer's wife gives a perfect picture of an eighteenth century piper playing on a recorder and dressed in a long-flapped coat with old fashioned stockings and shoes and armed with a rapier. Further north at Bunder is the figure of a bygone mynheer wearing a three-cornered hat of the kind in which Gulliver is usually represented, and closely resembling the famous European head in one of the upper niches of the Tanjore temple. In Wolfendahl's Church at Colombo are the state tombs of deceased Governors of that island, ornamented with heraldic emblems of the highest degree of excellence. Pieces of quaintly sounding rhyme are often added; and the structures themselves are more than emblematic of the words of the sculptors that they will endure to the "laaste opstaanding."

7. After Dutch settlements it is proper to speak of French, for the two nations lived close together. No trace can now be found of any tombs to the pioneers of French enterprise in India, though a broken Tamil tablet in the precinct of St. Mary's, Madras, records the name of a native Christian founder of the Pondichéry Company. Several of the English gravestones brought from the esplanade burial ground bear marks of the English cannon balls which helped to keep Lally out of Fort St. George in 1758. But the only extant memorial to a Frenchman of that period is Bussy's little known grave opposite Pondichéry Cathedral. Of the captains courageous who later sought service in the armies of native princes, many died in India. Charles Babel, dit Zephyr, general to the forces of Basalat Jung, was buried at Guntoor in 1770 and has these letters commendatory over his headstone: "Chéri de Fortune et favori de Mars, La Victoire anivit partout ses étendards; D'Hercule il égala les travaux et la gloire, Mais une mort trop cruelle a trompé notre espoir." A still more famous soldier of fortune is Raymond, the eponymous hero of the Nizam's Myseram (Monsieur Raymond) Regiment. He sleeps on a lonely eminence outside Hyderabad where the anniversary of his death is still celebrated by Mahomedans. Further south at Udayagiri is the family vault of Eustache De Launoy, who drilled the defenders of the lines of Travancore and may well have been a relation of the Governor of the Bastille. Even Ramnad, at the very end of the peninsula, possesses the grave of Manuel Martinz, a condottiere like de Boigne from Savoy, whose kindly eccentricities in his old age are amusingly recorded in the military reminiscences of Colonel Welsh. And here and there, as at Tummeracode in the Palnad, are the scattered sepulchres of adventurers who have left no other memorials of themselves than that they died there.

8. Cemeteries to-day are the only witness that there ever was a Danish East India Company. Tranquebar has become even more of a city of the dead than Serampore in Bengal; and is famous solely for its missionaries. No less than seventeen of these Halle magisters lie buried in its graveyards, and pious hands annually repaint the letters on their tombs. There rests Ziegenbalg, the father of Protestant missions in India, who died in harness at the early age of 35. There Swartz began the career which ended at Tanjore in 1798. There it was that Rottler, Gericke and Kiernander laid the foundations of their reputation. In latter days, the seniors of the mission turned their attention to scientific research, and this brought them wide celebrity even in Europe. An even more eminent name than theirs in science is that of the Frenchman Jacquemont, who was cut off like Csoma de Körös in the land of his sojourning. The French Academy conveyed home his remains in 1881, thus exemplifying the motto over Claude Lorraine's tomb in the Church of Trinità dei Monti at Rome; "La nation française n'oublie pas ses enfants celèbres, même quand ils sont morts à l'étranger." At Tranquebar two celebrated laymen found their last home: Colonel Mühldorf, from whose veins the blood-royal of Denmark has flowed into several Madrassi families; and Sundt, whose sister became the wife of Blücher's brother.

9. The Hebrew cemetery in Mint street and the Beth haim of the white Jews at Cochin preserve the epitaphs of another interesting community. America, which gave to India Ochterlony and Alexander Gardner, who lived for many years as a fighting Afghan chief, is represented in southern districts by a Bellary cotton-planter and a commandant of Ganjam pensioners; Italy, the mother country of Avitabile, Ventura and the Filoses, by Constantine Beschi and Nicolao Manucci, though the latter's gravestone at San Thomé is wanting; Greece by a seventeenth century Sindbad whose monument has found its way to the presidency Museum. Foreigners of every nationality occur in the old East India Company's service. In 1764, remarks Niebuhr (father of the historian), its army possessed Polish, Swiss, Dutch, and German officers. Among those buried in Madras are Count de Warren and Baron von Kutzleben; while the Bengal Native Infantry once contained the name of Captain Georges François Grand, afterwards a Writer and the first husband of the future Princesse de Talleyrand.

10. That "peculiar people," the Huguenots, sent no inconsiderable contribution to the ranks of South Indian notabilities. The Carnacs, Chardins, Torrianos, Trapauds, Mangins, Cauhers, Amsincks and DeVismes were all members of refugee families. Of these, the Carnacs became such a power in the country that according to a popular saying they were credited with being the origin of the name Carnatic. Lord Pigot had Huguenot blood in his veins through his mother Frances Godde, tirewoman to the Queen, who is misspelt in the Baronetages as Goode. Another Governor of Fort St. George, Charles Smith, was the descendant of a Huguenot emigrant Lefevre, who took the name of Smith (faber).

11. The literature of the tombstone may often be turned to capital account. Unlike the paper of the record room, these massive slabs, with their thick lettering, are practically indestructible, if they but succeed in escaping the privy paw of the native dhoby. For example, the Pulicat inscriptions are first hand contemporary authority towards the yet unwritten history of the Netherlands Company. Many an exact merchant inscribed his pedigree on his gravestone; and such statements of fact are important to genealogists. Some there are that have left more than a name behind them. Lawson's Bay, Vizagapatam, perpetuates the memory of a "country captain" of local renown. Robert Sloper, who rests at Tranquebar among the missionaries, founded Sloper street, Cuddalore, and there his wife Victoria reposes. One chief of a settlement "though without the wealth of a Governor, was rich in the real worth of a man." Others, like Paul Benfield and Mr. Snodgrass of Rambha, tasted more literally of the fruit of the pagoda tree. At Surat the Latin hexameters over Christopher Oxenden (1659), that most brotherly of brothers, tell us more of the factory life of our predecessors than many pages of history. "Do you ask, my masters, what is your profit and loss? You have gained sorrow, he has lost his life, but per contra let him write 'death to me is gain'." Often the cause of dying is described with old-fashioned quaintness. "1793, August 14th," records Asiaticus, "Mrs. Agatha Andrews. She died of pure sensibility." At Guntoor a young civilian fell a sacrifice "to the incautious use of castor-oil nuts." At Arnee two commanding officers departed this life "most suddenly" by reason of duels. At Nagapatam lies a fond wife "whose soul, perfect in all earthly ordained virtue, departed at the early call of its guardian author for its next assigned function in his eternal Kingdom." At another place an eminent lady's "smile was the beam of benevolence, her heart the soul of sympathy, and the uniform complacency of her temper illumined her countenance with the blended ray of sensibility and virtue." Even in their epitaphs do our ancestors give us a taste of their quality.

12. In the following pages, notes have been added, wherever possible, for the information of the reader. A number of these are by Mr. H. E. A. Cotton. Assistance has also been obligingly rendered by (amongst others) Rev. H. Jansen; Father van de Westelaken and Mr. R. Morris, Collector of Kistna; Rev. A. M. Teixeira; Mr. M. J. Seth; and Mr. H. LeFanu. The late Mr. A. T. Pringle, the Rev. Frank Penny and Mrs. Frank Penny have kindly read the proofs and made many valuable suggestions. The full names of officers, whose initials alone appear on their tombstones, have been traced, wherever possible, from old Army Lists. The index has been prepared by Mr. E. Gaudon and Mr. Coombes. Thanks are due to Mr. R. Hill and Mr. T. Fisher for the careful printing of the work.

COMPOUND OF ST. MARY'S CHURCH IN FORT ST GEORGE

(Consecrated in 1680.)

These tombstones were removed from a cemetery now occupied by the Law Courts, once known as the Monument Esplanade. In 1782 they were temporarily removed from the compound of St. Mary's Church to be used as gun platforms at the time of Hyder Ali's invasion and were not replaced until 1807, by which time many had been broken and others had disappeared.

1 5th Aug 1652. ELIZABETH BAKER. Memoriæ sacrum dominæ ELIZABETHÆ BAKER domini Aaronis Baker (Anglorum hisce locis negotiantium præsidis) uxoris dilectissimæ, quæ marito ad Indos [navi] ganti, relicto solo p[atrio] sese iungebat c[omite]m illunque proxime prom-[ontorium] bonæ spei spei optimæ marmo partu be[a]bat], sed tandem post longas pelagi minas, insalubremque Iavæ aream, quæ hibens unâ passa est, tristissimum pro cœlo (pro quibus solis vultat) morions relinquebat Augusti 5° An° 1652

The lower corner of the tombstone is worn away, and the missing letters are conjectured. It bears a coat of arms. Aaron Baker was the first President and Governor of Fort St. George. He arrived from Bantam by the Roebuck on September 1st, 1652. From the original correspondence collection in the India Office, 2274 and 2294, the Roebuck appears to have left England at the end of 1651, quitting the Isle of Wight on December 30th and clearing the Land's End on January 1st, 1651–2. She passed the Cape on April 22nd, 1652, came in sight of Java on June 17th, and anchored in Bantam Roads on June 26th. Having embarked President Baker, the sailed again on the 31st July, and reached Madras on September 1st, 1652. The date is confirmed by a letter from Bantam to Madras, dated February 15th, 1652–53 (O.C. No. 2284) which acknowledges the receipt of a letter from Fort St. George dated September 22nd 1652, stating the safe arrival of the Roebuck on the 1st idem. In a subsequent letter from the President and Council at Surat to the Company, dated January 17th, 1652–53 (O.C. No. 2297) mention is made of Mrs Baker's death during the voyage, but the date of the Roebuck's arrival is post-dated by one day. "Your ship Endeavour came from Bantam with the Roebuck, on whom went President Baker and his family to Fort St. George ..... The 2nd November from the coast were advised of the arrival of ships Roebuck and Bonnito and that President Baker by the way from Bantam lost his wife, who died about ten days after they came from Bantam. They arrived at your fort the 2nd September." The words of the epitaph suggest that Mrs. Baker died after childbirth. Her husband continued in office until 1655, when he was succeeded by H. Greenhill. "On the 20th January 1656, Aaron Baker sailed for England in the ship Katherine relinquishing the Government to Greenhill. After his retirement he married Anne Cobham ..... He survived his two sons, Thomas and Aaron, and died in 1683 at the age of seventy three. He was buried at the parish church of Dunchideock, near Exeter, and the bulk of his property passed to a nephew, the Rev. Aaron Baker of Alphington."

Greenhill's epitaph is largely copied from Breton's Tomb at Surat.

He had been Agent of Madras before it was raised to a Presidency under Baker in 1652 There is a document of that year signed "President Aaron Baker Agent Henry Greenhill and William Gurney" Greenhill administered the settlement until the 1st September 1652 when Fort St. George replaced Bantam as the Company's eastern centre of Government, and President Baker arrived from Java and assumed charge. Greenhill remained at Madraspatam, retaining the title of Agent throughout the period of Baker's rule. He was one of the first settlers in the Fort and built a house of his own on the river bank known as Agent Greenhill's House See Mrs. Frank Penny's History of Fort St. George, from which most of the information in the following notes has been borrowed.

5 9th Feb. 1680. JOHN AUGER .. [Here lieth the body of JOHN AUGER, who departed this life, the 54th year of his age, on the 9th of February Anno Domini 1679–80.]

This is the oldest inscription preserved in Urquhart's "Oriental Obituary" (1809) of those which have since disappeared. "John Auger, an antient man married to an English woman; keepes a house of entertainment upon sufferance, having been long a souldier and no other way to live." Pub. cons. 29th February 1676–6.

6 28th May 1680. JOSEPH HYNMERS. The following inscription is taken from the pyramidical monument on the north Esplanade.—Here lyes interred the body of JOSEPH HYNMERS who served the Rt Honble English East India Company several years as second in council of Fort St. George, in which station he departed this life on the 28th of May 1680.

The tombstone and that of David Yale (No. 15) are in the High Court compound.

Catherine, the widow of Joseph Hynmers, married on November 4th, 1680 Elihu Yale (Governor of Fort St. George from July 25th, 1687, to October 23rd, 1692), of whom it is recorded on his tombstone in Wrexham churchyard (July 19th, 1721) that he was "born in America, in Europe bred, In Afric travel'd and in Asia wed." By this marriage there was one son, who died an infant, and three daughters: the eldest married Dudley North of the family which later produced the famous Lord North and the present Earls of Guildford; the second, Anne, married a younger son of the first Duke of Devonshire; and the youngest, Ursula, died unmarried in 1721 a few days after her father at the family seat of her sister Lady Anne Cavendish in Bucks. The line of direct descendants of Elihu Yale terminated in 1820 with the death of his great grandson Dudley Long North, who had reached some distinction as a member of Parliament and a friend and companion of Dr. Johnson, and is therefore embalmed in the pages of Boswell. He was the donor to Yale College of Enoch Zeeman's portrait of Governor Yale, painted in London 1712.

7 14th Feb. 1682. ELIZABETH ALFORD Henry Alford's first wife Elizabeth died February 14th, 1682, his second wife Elizabeth died August 15th 1687, and his son Robert died 2nd September 1688 a year old.

A fragment to the memory of the first and second wives of Henry Alford. He married Elizabeth Mellish November 10th 1681; she died a year later; and was buried on February 18th, 1682. In February 1683 he married Elizabeth Lott who died in August 1687 and was buried on August 15 1687 (Thomas Lott Esquire died September 17th, 1682). In 1688 he married a third wife, Elizabeth Bourton. Alford who was a Company's servant, died in May 1692 and was buried in May 30 1692. His widow married Mathew Empson the following year. Empson was in Council with Thomas Pitt, Governor from July 7th, 1698, to September 16th, 1709. M. Empson died January 4, 1708 and his wife Elizabeth Empson died May 3, 1698. Pitt was succeeded by Gulston Addison, the brother of the Essayist, who died at Madras in the following month (on the 17th October 1709). No trace of his grave remains, nor of his brother's Lancelot Addison, fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, who came out with a licence to trade as a free merchant and was buried in the Fort Cemetary in August 1716. One Robert Alford was buried on September 2nd 1698.

8 6th Oct. 1683. THOMAS CLARKE.

Hic jacet THOMAS CLARKE filius Thomae Clarke Anglo olim praefecti Anglicae societatis in civitate Masulipatam obiit sexto die Octobris anno salutis millesimo sexcentesimo octogesimo tertio Requiescat in pace

6th October—"This evening Mr Thomas Clarke who have served the Honble Comp. many years departed this life" Pub. Consultations 1683.

He was Portuguese interpreter to the company. The northwest Gate of Fort St. George at Madras was long known as "Tom Clarke's Gate"

The slab is cracked, probably from the effects of a cannon ball when the Fort guns were turned on the cemetery against the French. Another broken stone bears the date 1684 and this inscription: "Memo Moyo aetatis suae LXXXIII. alter vero anno salutis MDCLXXXIV Octobris XII aetatis suae LXXXV transactis in hac Praesidio LII. Requiescant in pace"

Clarke's widow was Elizabeth daughter of Christopher Hartley of Masulipatam and Agnida Pereyra, his wife. She married the Venetian Nicolao Manucci, who died at Pondicherry about 1717 aged 74. Manucci lived at Madras from 1686 till his death. He had had a varied career as stowaway, Artillery captain to Prince Dara and physician.

9 8th April 1685. DOROTHY LUCAS.

Here lyeth interred the body of DOROTHY LUCAS who departed this life the 8th day of April Anno 1685 and near unto this place lyeth also four of her children viz: Catherine and Elizabeth which she bore to her former husband Charles Proby and Anne and Thomas the only children she bore to her last husband Thomas Lucas

Thomas Lucas came to Madras as a soldier in 1662, and was appointed writer by Langhorn. He married the widow of Charles Proby. He was a freeman from 1677 to 1681 when he went home. In 1683 he came out to the Council and served four years, when he again became a freeman. He finally left India in 1688. H.D. Love's Vestiges of Old Madras vol. 1, p. 450, No. 2

At the proclamation of "our dread sovereign King" James II, August 13th, 1685, "a troop was commanded and led by the President (Gyfford), Mr Thomas Lucas, Cornet, and the rear was brought up by Mr Elihu Yale." Dorothy Lucas was the sister of George Torriano (No. 114). She married first Charles Proby, the heir of Sir Peter Proby. Her son, William Proby came out to Madras in the Company's service, was discharged and married Frances Gray (see No. 27). William Proby returned to England as heir to the Proby estates, taking two children with him, John and Edithe. Edithe married Sir John Osborne. John Proby became M.P. for Huntingdon. He married Jane, daughter of John, first Lord Gower and had issue John, who became Baron Carysfort of Carysfort, Co. Wicklow. His son John Joshua was created Earl of Carysfort in 1789.

septimo Octobris die 1696. Mementote præpositorum vestrorum qui vobis locuti sunt verbum Dei; quorum imitamini fidem, contemplantes quis fuerit exitus conversationis ipsorum. Heb. 13, 7.]

The tombstone has disappeared since Urquhart recorded it.

RICHARD ELLIOTT was appointed chaplain for Masulipatam in 1677 and succeeded Richard Portman at Fort St. George in 1681. Here he remained till 1690 when he died—the fourth Chaplain to die at the Fort. He was educated at Eton and King's College Cambridge; he was elected King's scholar 1666, graduated B.A., and elected to a Fellowship in 1669, proceeded M.A. 1674; ordained 1675. He is said to have been born in London. He was unmarried and therefore remained a Fellow of King's until his death. When the Company wrote to King's College to announce his death, the Secretary was instructed to say that Mr. Elliott had been 'the instrument of great good in his place'. In a letter which he wrote to the Provost of King's in Feb. 1693–4 he mentions his brother in London. By will he bequeathed £1,500 together with all arrears of college dues at the time of his death to the College for the purchase of advowsons. The bequest amounted to £1,681 13s. 11d. Amongst the livings purchased was that of Great Greenford, Middlesex, which was held for many years by Edward Terry an earlier Company's Chaplain. Richard Elliott and his benefaction are still duly commemorated on Founder's Day at King's.

He was drowned and his body recovered at Covelong and brought to Madras for burial.

34 | 29th Dec. 1697. | CHARLES TAINTER. | Here lyes interr'd the body of CHARLES TAINTER, who departed life the 29th Decemr. 1697.

35 | 3rd Oct. 1699. | ROBERT TRENCHFIELD and FAMILY | Sacrum memoriæ ROBERTI TRENCHFIELD, mercatoris olim melioris notæ, qui post longam in his terris peregrinationem in hac ultima peregrinantium domo domum invenit tertio die Octobris 1699. Hic etiam asceti ex liberis infantes duo viz THOMAS ET JUDITH, qui suum obierunt diem altera 25 Octobris die alter 3 Novembris die 1696.

This stone is now a fragment, but may be read in full in Urquhart. Trenchfield married a sister of the Rev. John Evans, the first chaplain in "the Bay," and afterwards Bishop of Bangor and of Meath in succession or so is more probable since Trenchfield's wife in the Government records is invariably called a castee (pure Portugese). Evans married Trenchfield's sister Bridget who was in the fort in 1680. It was probably this "heresy politick padre" who wrote his epitaph which resembles that over Job Charnock in Calcutta: qui quinquennium in sola non sine peregrinatus esset die, reversus est domum suam æternitatis 1692. Trenchfield is repeatedly mentioned by Hedges and was a member of his Council at Hooghly. He was with Charnock through the events of 1686–88.

36 | 8th Jan. 1701. | MARY PARHAM | Here lies interred the body of MARY PARHAM, relict of the late Captain Jno. Parham, mariner, and eldest daughter of Stephen Poirier, Esq., Governor of the Island of St. Helena, who departed this life the 8th day of January 170⅞.

She was married November 10th, 1698. Her father Captain Poirier was Governor of St. Helena from 1697 to 1707 (see No. 66).

In the beginning of the year 1705 he removed for the sake of his health to this place and departed this life [the 7th] July 1705]

John Beard the younger was twice President of the Old Company, and superseded at the time of the Revolution Government. "Governor Pitt and the Council, with all the inhabitants and a company of soldiers, accompanied the corpse to the burying place, when the soldiers fired three volleys and afterwards 40 great guns were discharged." Beard is called the brother of John Pitt, Consul at Masulipatam, perhaps through Pitt's first wife Elizabeth Northey. The tombstone has disappeared. The following epitaph on a son of this Mr. Beard is one of three in St. John's churchyard, Calcutta: "Here lies the body of Charles Beard, who departed this life. the 30th December 1747, aged 49 years. He was the son of John Beard, Esq., formerly President of this place."

was baptized in December 1707. His widow married William Jennings, June 24th, 1711, and died in childbirth in 1719. Sir Nathaniel Wrighte (1654–1721) was junior counsel for the Crown at the trial of the seven Bishops. He became King's Sergeant in 1686 and succeeded Lord Somers as Keeper of the Great Seal. By his wife Elizabeth Ashby he had six sons and four daughters. Robert was the 3rd son of Sir Nathan Wright by Elizabeth Ashby his wife. His wife was daughter of Sam and Elizabeth Hart. Two of his sons were factors in Madras: Robert and Thomas (see No. 42).

54 — 9th Dec 1709 — Catherine Nicks and Family — [Here lyeth interred the body of Catherine Nicks, wife of John Nicks, Merchant, some time of Councell of this place, who departed this life the 9th of December 1709: also five of her children, John, Isabella, Sibella, Catharine and Mary.]

Her name is mixed up with Elihu Yale's. "Mrs Nicks then lived with Mr Yale at his garden house, which she and Mrs. Fevin have and do frequent to the scandal of Christianity among the heathens." She traded at Commere on her own account, when her husband was chief of that place, and there are many pungent remarks in the Court's letters on her mercantile propensities. Two daughters, Betty and Urus, are mentioned as being in England in a letter to her sister Mrs. Dionesia Tombs, February 24th, 1700. Another daughter Jane married, April 23rd, 1702, Richard Cary, Merchant, who has buried at Calcutta, November 16th, 1708.

Now, who has strength t'oppose ye Almighty's hand,
None can against his deadly terrors stand,
At length the Archer grim his arrow shott,
He sev'd from her what she from God had gott,
Such moves our minds his greatness to adore,
Even love his goodness and revere his pow'r.

On high with God this heavenly soul remains,
No return thence till all is into flames.

In 1710 Capt Seaton was residing in Madras with two unmarried daughters Mary and Hannah.

Capt Seaton whose daughter had married in 1700 Anthony Eltenck, was charged by Govr Pitt with villainous and scandalous reflections on him.

56 — 14th Mar 1711 and 27th Mar. 1711 — John Nicks, Anne Warre — [Here lieth interred the body of John Nicks, Merchant, some time of Council in this place who departed this life the 14th March 1710–11, aetatis 62. Here also lieth interred Anne, daughter of John Nicks, aforesaid and wife of William Warre, Merchant and of Council of this place, who departed this life the 27th of March 1711 in the 24th year of her age.]

John Nicks went out to India in 1668. He married Catherine Barker, November 11th, 1680, and their marriage is the second recorded in the registers, Yale's being the first. They had nine daughters and one son born at the Fort, the latter died December 6th, 1686. In his capacity as Secretary, Nicks accompanied Streynsham Master on his second tour of inspection to Bengal in 1673.

Two of the last lines are illegible. Mrs. Carvalho died in Madras 6th June 1791 Her aged mother (Mrs. Holcombe) having paid the great debt of nature, the daughter said she had lived enough. Mrs. Holcombe died at San Thome on Friday the 13th March 1790. There are Carvalhos buried in the Mazphihatta Cathedral, Calcutta; Anna Sb. Rosare, born in Madras "ex patre nobili Gallo matreque Angla oriunda," who married Alexander de Carvalho and died October 29th, 1747, aged 30; and John and Claud sons of Antony Barneval (Nis 94) and Antonia Carvalho, who died infants in 1715. The Horatian quotation which begins this epitaph is also found at Calcutta on the tomb of Mr. John Ross, merchant, where an English version from "Francis' translation" is appended

Mr. Augustus Carvalho married Maracia De Monte November 6, 1784.

Company's service, and many in Council at Fort St. George, with the general character of an honest man.

Fowke married Anne May, December 21st, 1712. Their son Joseph, born October 1716, married Elizabeth Walsh May 7th, 1750. Her mother, Elizabeth Mackelyne, was aunt to Clive's wife, whose brother was a civil servant. Clive's marriage entry runs: "Robert Clive, Esq., and Margaret Mackelyne, February 18th, 1753, by Mr Fabricius."

Randall Fowke, who was "discharged from the Gunroom crew" in 1703, was appointed Factor in 1711, and a Councillor five years later.

109 5th Oct. 1734. MARIA MENDES .. Christians lector oculos et pium animum huc vertere ne graveris, defuncte animæ maximum factumus levamen. MARIA HENRIQUES, quam ab Emmanuele Hauriques et Felippa Botelha progenitam Dominoque Mendes connugatam Iafanapatam in locum edidit lucis usura orbata hoc clauditur sub marmore. Obiit tertio nonas octobris Ano Dñi MDCCXXXIV ætatis suæ XXXIV.

Domingo Mendes had a house in York street, rented at one pagoda in 1688. The coat of arms bears a curious picture of a church, probably St. Andrew's in the Fort, shortly afterwards demolished.

110 1734 .. ISAAC SEABSIMAN. In clara Cherimanorum stirpe quam ex Zacchæi Rosaque patribus vitam duxit annos 39 natus hanc deo solvit his pactus ISAAC ARMENUS mercator, qui vere phs, vere deo datus, labili fortunâ non captus, in cœlo sibi fecit loculos, quo fur non appropriat neque tinea corrumpt, anno 1734. Lector quid cumulas argenti pondus et auri, Virtutes veras accipe divitias, Omnia cui vivunt ora me cernere regem.

The use of the rare Latin word "labili" is noticeable. The Cherimani or Xerimani are the famous Armenian family of Shahruman. They profess the Catholic faith "ex illustri Xerimanorum stirpe in Persia ortum sed vera fide magis laudandi" as recorded on a Calcutta tombstone. In Julfa they built their own church and a Hammam known as Shahruman's Hammam. A branch of the family is settled in Venice. The translation of the Armenian part of this epitaph is as follows:—"This is the tomb and resting place of one of noble birth; his name is called Sahak, son of Khojah Zacharah, who is of the family of Shahruman of Julfa, and he was 39 years of age when he delivered his soul to the Lord. In the year 1184 of the Armenian era, 8th Dawah."

111 2nd April 1738 FRANCIS ROUS .. [FRANCIS ROUS]

Is a brother of Sir William Rouse, Chairman of the Directors in 1740, married Margaret Mansell on Feb 10, 1732-3. She remarried Rev. Robert Wynch.

Francis Rous who had long been a free merchant, appears to have joined the service as ninth member of council.

112 28th June 1738 JOHN GOULDING .. The Burial Register simply describes him as gunner of the place, by which is meant commandant of the Fort artillery, but he had evidently made himself useful in other respects to the two Governors mentioned in the inscription, George Morton Pitt (May 14th, 1730, to January 23rd, 1733) and Richard Benyon (January 23rd, 1735, to January 17th, 1744)

113 | 12th Oct. 1739 and 26th Jan. 1742. | Ann Plumb, Henry Crawford. | Here lies the body of Ann Plumb, daughter of William and Ann Plumb who departed this life the 12th day of October 1739, aged 12 years. Likewise the body of Henry Crawford, late of this place, Merchant, who dyed the 26th day of January 1741 [1742 ?] aged 53 years.

Though after my skin worms destroy this body yet in my flesh shall I see God. Job, chap. 19, V. 16.

Crawford is entered in the Burial Register as a free merchant. He married Ann Plumb, May 13th, 1730. (See No. 84.)

114 | 16th May and 15th Sept. 1741. | George and Susanna Torriano. | Here lyeth the body of George Torriano, Esq., late of Council of this place, who departed this life on the 16th day of May 1741, aged 41 years. Also of Susanna Catharina his wife, who departed this life on the 15th day of September following aged 37 years

George Torriano was the son of Nathaniel Torriano and his wife Elizabeth Renaut. He was the brother of Dorothy Lucas, Mrs. Charles Proby (No. 9). When supercargo, of the China ship Hertford, he was admitted factor in 1719 "as being well skilled in both the French and Portuguese languages." He married Susanna Catharina de Derpere, April 4th, 1725. The Richard Torriano writer, among the Black Hole victims, must have been his son. Another of the name, Charles, was in the Madras Artillery in 1753, and was probably related to the Bombay officer Captain John Samuel Torriano, who successfully defended Onore against Tippoo in 1783. Another Torriano, William Harcourt, was in the Madras Civil Service, 1766 to 1807. His wife Lydia died at Negapatam, October 17th, 1795, aged 30 (No. 2511)

116 | 6th June 1741. | Edward Michell. | In memory of Mr Edward Michell, son of————Michell of Chiltern in the county of Wilts, Esq^r, who after having served the Honble English East India Company upwards of nine years departed this life on the 6th day of June 1741 in the 28th year of his age. This monument is erected in compliance with his last will by his Executors

Henry Cholwich Michell Esq, a covenanted civilian of seven years' standing who filled the post of Company's undertaker in 1764 married Miss Catherine Anne Finley December 15, 1785. He was married at Maddapolam by William Duff Commercial Resident

Mr. Thomas Michel Secretary to the East India Company died on February 1, 1751

130 — 12th Feb 1769 and 4th Oct 1780 — Edward and Isabella Croke — Here lieth the body of Edward Croke, Esq., who departed this life on the 12th day of February 1769, also the body of his consort Mrs. Isabella A. Croke, who departed this life on the 4th day of October 1780, aged 69 years, and at her request this monument is erected

Edward Crake or Crook married Isabella Benzo on January 16th 1725/6. He was Governor of Fort St. David. Hickey's 'Gazette' October 14th 1780 says "Mrs Crook fell out of her window at her house in the Fort and broke her legs. It is thought she will not recover." (The same letter from Madras conveys a list of the officers killed, wounded and taken in the last battle under Colonel Baillie with Hyder.)

Mrs. Isabella Croke left a bequest of 150 star pagodas to the Vepery Mission (Taylor's History of the Vepery Mission p. 48)

He lived and died with the reputation of an honest man Coat of Arms. The date of his arrival in India is 28 April, 1749. In 1754 he was under the Land Customer and Register of the Choultry. In 1759 he was in Council. In 1761 he was Land Customer Military Storekeeper Rentall General and Scavenger at Masulipatam. When a Police Board was formed in 1770 he was one of the members of it. It was dissolved on 1st March 1771. Robert Alexander Ardley son of Samuel Ardley, of Madras, arm., matric. Oriel, 14 December 1791, aged 21.
134	28th May 1772.	Nicholas Morse ..	Here lieth the body of Nicholas Morse, Esq, once Governor of Fort St. George, who departed this life on the 28th May 1772, aged 72 years. The shield on his tomb is not a real coat of arms, but a trade mark, such as merchants often used. The Morse family were cloth makers of Dedham in Essex and had no arms. Nicholas Morse was the Governor alluded to by Macaulay, who befriended Clive and gave him the run of his library thereby enabling him to acquire the only book learning he ever possessed. In 1746 he surrendered Madras to La Bourdonnais and was sent to Pondicherry where, according to the story, he and his council were marched through the streets in triumphal procession. This humiliation is commemorated in more than one French pictorial print of the period; and the keys of Fort St. George were to be seen till recently at Pondicherry. Morse was the son of Nicholas Morse by his wife Jane Lloyd granddaughter of Henry Ireton and the great great grandson of Oliver Cromwell, through the Protector's daughter Bridget who married Colonel Ireton. Bridget Ireton's grandaughter, Jane Lloyd, married a Morse and became the mother of Nicholas Daniel and three daughters. Daniel came out to Fort St. George in 1731; but not as a servant of the Company. He died October 6th, 1761. Nicholas arrived in India in 1718 and was married by Schultze to Jane Goddard on December 21st 1730. Mr Charles Peers gave her away. Gentleman's Magazine, January 1780 p. 476 records the death of Mrs. Morse relict of the late Governor of Fort St. George in the East Indies, mother of the late lady of Charles Boddam, Esq. of Rolls Cross East India Director and of the widow of the late Governor Vansittart. The daughter of Nicholas and Jane, Emilia married, June 1st 1754, Henry Vansittart, Governor of Bengal who was lost at sea in the frigate Aurora in December 1769. She died in 1818. Their son Nicholas Vansittart born in 1766 became the first Lord Bexley in 1823 dying in 1851 at the age of 85. He married on July 22, 1805, Catherine Isabella, daughter of 1st Lord Auckland,

Mr William Cator, Factor, married Miss Sara Morse on 4th November 1780 (See No 1516).

135 8th Nov. 1773. THOMAS MADGE . Here lieth interred the body of THOMAS MADGE, Esq, late Major in the Honourable Company's Service, who departed this life the 8th of November Anno Domini 1773, aged 31 years

The streem that winds majestic'er the plain,
Adrns the prospect and delights the swain,
If chance the Summer leaves its channel dry,
The village mourns its absence with a sigh.

Such sighs, alas!, with Anguish fraught prevail'd,
When Life's warm stream in MADGE's bosom fail'd,
No more his course shall Friendship's eye pursue.
No more be brighten'd with the pleasing view]

Here MADGE, thou sleep'st; where now unconquer reign
Thy darting Spirit and thy Martial vein?
Ah! what avails that covetous of praise
Thou twind'st the Scholar's with the Soldier's bays

Major Madge was in Command of the 12th Sepoy Battalion of th Madras Army His relative, Captain E H Madge, of the 19th Foot commanded at Fort MacDowall, Kandy (1803) and is mentioned in MacFarlane's "Indian Empire," Tennent's "Ceylon," Pridham's "Historical Sketch," Cordiner's "Description of Ceylon," and other works. The latter's sons, John and James are said to have given its name to Madge's Lane, Calcutta

In the Asiatic Annual Register for 1807 at page 203 is an account of the C. in C's (Frederick Augustus Prince Regent), 13th January 1806) in the final orders on the Court martial held on Captain Madge in Colombo, H.M. does not consider him a fit person to bear H.M.'s Commission. The order is that he should retire from service, selling his commission at the regulated price.

136 3rd July 1774. JOHN WOOD . JOHN WOOD, Esq. late a Lieutenant-Colonel in the Honourable Company's Service, aged 48 years.

There are verses on his tombstone by his wife who was a Miss Elizabeth Owen married July 28th, 1762. Wood was tried by court-martial in 1769 for misappropriating stores and for faulty disposition of forces in the field against Hyder. The decision was sent home to the Directors who ordered that he should be dismissed Wood commanded the garrison at Trichinopoly and was a very distinguished soldier.

Christian Frederick Swartz and William Chambers were the executors of his estate

Two of the daughters one of whom was married to the Rev. Basil Wood died of a decline. The son who followed the profession of his gallant father is now a Lieut. General in the Army and still retains a pleasing remembrance of his venerable friend.' (Pearson's Life of Swartz, pp 213, 305)

137 27th Aug. 1776. ANNE DUFF .. Here lieth the body of Mrs ANNE DUFF, wife of Major P. Duff, of the Honourable Company's Artillery on the Bengal Establishment. She died on the 27th August 1776 aged 26 years.

144 23rd Sept 1781. 17th Feb 1782. GILBERT and SUSAN PASLEY. This stone will not want power to melt or virtue to amend the heart. It marks the grave of the common friend of mankind It records the memory of the skilful physician GILBERT PASLEY; and SUSAN HANNAH, the only daughter of Gilbert and Hannah Pasley Gilbert Pasley obit 23rd Sept 1781, ætatis 48 His daughter 17th Feb 1782, aged 5 months and 4 days

Gilbert Pasley married Miss Hannah Dashwood September 6th, 1778 It was on his recommendation that Lord Pigot was moved from St. Thomas' Mount to Government House, Madras, shortly before his death in 1777 He was brother of Admiral Sir Thomas Pasley, Bart., and of Margaret, mother of Sir John Malcolm Gilbert Pasley's sister Margaret married George Malcom, and it was to the care of the Pasleys at Madras that her son the famous Sir John Malcolm was consigned when a cadet of 13 years old. His diminutive appearance on entering the service led one of the Directors at the time of his application to ask him "what would you do if you were to meet Hyder Ali?" "Do," he replied, "why, Sir, I would out with my sword and cut off his head" This show of pluck was deemed sufficient and he was passed in spite of his youth Sir John was one of sixteen children, and it is a remarkable occurrence that three brothers Sir John (1769–1833) Sir Pulteney (Admiral, 1768–1838) and Sir Charles (Vice Admiral 1782–1851) were honoured on one and the same occasion with the dignity of Commander of the Bath Pasley's widow married May 27th, 1782, Thomas Elliot Ogilvie, C. S

Another George Pasley married at Poonamallee Anne Gee on February 28, 1798 He died on March 13, 1798 (He was a civil servant He was in June 1794 Coroner of Madraspatnam). Mr Robert Campbell was married to Miss Elias Pasley at Ittchapore on 2nd August 1798, by Thomas Snodgrass, Collector On 21st June 1816 at Marylebone Church, Charles Pasley of Gloucester Place Portman Square Major in the service of the East India Company and late Chargé d'Affaires at the Court of Persia married Mary, eldest daughter of Simon M'Tavish of Montreal in Canada and of Dunardry, North Britain (Asiatic Journal, July 1817)

145 *27th Sept. 1781. WILLIAM ROXBURGH, son of Dr. W. ROXBURGH, aged 4 months and 20 days

This is a child of the famous Indian Botanist, to whose memory stands a stone pillar in the Calcutta Botanical Gardens with the following beautiful inscription from the pen of Bishop Heber: "Quisquis adeas si locus suavitate mentem permulcet aut pulcritudo de dee, hubeudis in honore tui ROXBURGHIUS horum hortorum olim praefectus vir scientiae botanicae laude florens plusquam annotatum agrestium summus artifex, conservat cinerem patria hic vigil ingenium tu fave et perfruere. Postere superstites, anno MDCCCXXII A.D"

Maj General Burton in his Reminiscences of South India who was stationed with the 13th N.I. at Samulcottah in 1842 or 3 and lived in the house which had once belonged to Dr. Roxburgh states:

"and the garden which was a very good one held many rare and valuable trees, fruit bearing as well as others. There was one thing on the premises which might had better been away—no other than the tomb of the Doctor's wife, which stood exactly opposite to the front door and not 8 yards away from it! A strange and unpleasant crotchet of the Doctor to deposit the remains of his deceased spouse in such a place! To remove the tomb (an oblong stone structure) would have shocked the prejudices of many of my neighbours; I therefore did the next best thing, and trained a fine Rangoon creeper over the tomb which in a few months was completely hidden by the pink and white flowers of the fast growing plant."

* Rev. C. H. Malden's List of Burials at Madras gives 23rd September 1781 as the date of his burial.

204 19th Oct. 1794. HUGH BOYD .. [HUGH BOYD, Master Attendant of Madras, aged 48 years.]

"Mr Boyd left an amiable and accomplished widow and two promising and affectionate children to lament his loss"

Lo I beheld in robes of woe
Genius, wit and learning go:
Genius sad no longer smiles,
Wit distressed forgets his wiles
Majestic learning in sober state moves.

Hugh Boyd, the reputed Junius, was the second son of Alexander Macauley of county Antrim and Miss Boyd of Ballycastle. He was born at Ballycastle in October 1748. He was a school-fellow of Grattan and a protegé of Flood. Left nearly destitute by the death of his father at an early age, he chose the law as his profession and went to London, where he became acquainted with Goldsmith, Garrick, Armstrong and the celebrated Mrs Macauley. He was most familiar with Mr. Laughlin McLean, the accredited agent of Mahomed Ali, Nabob of Arcot, who instructed him in the details of the dispute between his client and the Company. Boyd then took up the Nabob's cause in a series of letters that appeared in Woodfall's "Public Advertiser" in 1777, and this led to his accompanying Lord Macartney, Governor of Madras to Madras, as Second Secretary in 1781. Before he left England the Junius controversy was at its height and his letters to Woodfall gave rise to a widely indulged opinion that he was Junius. Pitt stated his strong belief in it, and recounted an incident of their having jointly reported an Irish debate where Boyd's account of Colonel Barré's speech reminded him in spirit, point and sarcasm so strongly of Junius that he always retained the conviction that the piece proceeded from no other pen. Boyd accompanied Sir Edward Hughes' Expedition to Trincomalee and conducted a mission to the King of Kandy. On his way back from Ceylon he was captured by Suffren's fleet and imprisoned at the Isle of Bourbon for several months. After his liberation he lived for some time at Calcutta, but was recalled to Madras as Master Attendant in 1781. In 1792 he started the "Madras Courier" and in the following year projected the "Indian Observer", a series of papers on morals and literature, and founded a weekly journal 'Hircarrah' (i.e., messenger) as a vehicle for the essays. In spite of his Master Attendantship, which brought him 200 star pagodas a month and the profits of his literary work, Boyd became involved on account of his convivial habits and want of prudence. In 1794 he proposed to publish by subscription an account of his embassy to Kandy, and had actually begun the work when he was carried off by an attack of fever. His claims to a place in the History of English literature rest very much on the assumption, maintained by Almon and by George Chalmers, that he was the veritable Junius. It is remarkable that he never contradicted this conjecture. Letters reached him addressed "Junius Boyd, Esqr" and a copy of Junius so perbly bound was kept upon his table, with its pages filled with pencil marks and references to living names and characters. In 1787 he married Miss Frances Morphy, and on the death of his maternal uncle assumed the name of Boyd. His tombstone has now disappeared, but Urquhart devotes five pages of prose and verse to his memory.

There is an interesting article styled Hugh Boyd of Madras, the Reputed Junius in the Asiatic Journal of October 1834.

Miss Maria Rosalie Boyd married on 9th October 1816, James Baillie Pender, Surgeon. [Asiatic Journal, July 1817].

from England 1780, lived at Mahratta Town. He died at Conjeveram by a fall from a curricle. His wife was the daughter of Sir William Thomas, Bart., and died on Christmas Day, 1787—vide ante, No. 167. Urquhart praises his exertions in extending the cultivation of cotton of his southern farms, where he employed daily no less than 1,400 persons, and quotes these verses from the "Madras Courier" of November 14th, 1794:

"Thus blades innumerous grace the vernal store,
Which scarce one blade—or foliage deck'd before;
Thus diamonds, forc'd to quit their sandy beds,
Proclaim the pain which cultivation tends:
And swelling sails expand—Augusta's boast—
And homeward waft NEW treasures of the coast."

Samuel Humphrys, Esq., was married to Miss Popham at Bombay on May 13, 1800. At Kew December 22, 1818 aged 84, Mrs. Popham relict of the late Joseph Popham, Esq., father of Lieut.-Genl. and of Rear Admiral Sir Home Popham died.

Later on he was appointed a Chaplain in the Royal Navy and happened to be in the neighbourhood of Fort St George when a chaplain was required there. The death of William Bambrigge in 1783 made the vacancy which Leslie was invited to fill. (Penny's Church, p. 278.) He was Minister of Fort St. George for more than twenty years. He died of heat apoplexy. His parishioners erected a monument to his memory in the Fort Church. It is by Flaxman. Leslie was co-chaplain with the well-known Dr. Bell, founder of the monitorial system of teaching in schools. He is described in Gardiner's Registers of Wadham College, Oxford, as Archdeacon of Aghadoe, deprived for non residence in 1793.

One Mr. Jos. Leslie was married at St. Mary's Church, Madras, to Miss Margaret Jones. (Asiatic Journal, June 1816.)

		ST MARY'S CHURCH, FORT ST GEORGE
396	11th May 1777.	GEORGE LORD PIGOT	"In memoriam"

A granite slab bearing this inscription was placed by order of the Duke of Buckingham over a grave and lead encased coffin discovered in 1873 while digging the tomb of Lord Hobart in the church The coffin is supposed to be that of Lord Pigot, who died while a prisoner in the hands of his Council. The vestry records prove that permission was given to bury his body in the church. He had been confined under care of Major (afterwards General) Mathew Horne, R.A., at St Thomas' Mount, probably in the Mess House and was brought to Madras for change of air. George Pigot joined the service as writer in 1736 When serving at Fort St David he was sent with Clive to Trichinopoly in charge of a convoy and both narrowly escaped capture He succeeded Thomas Saunders as Governor in 1755 and successfully defended the city against Lally. In 1763 he retired upon a fortune of 40 lacs, and purchased an Irish peerage He was persuaded by the Directors to return to Madras as Governor for the second time in 1775 and found himself at variance with his Council over the reinstatement of the Tanjore Rajah. The notorious Paul Benfield who later on in his career is credited with having returned nine members to Parliament) demanded settlement of a claim of 23 lacs, which by a majority of seven to five the Council decided to be valid Pigot thereupon suspended first two and then four more of his Councillors and ordered the arrest of Sir Robert Fletcher, Commander-in-Chief The opposition immediately assumed the Government and Pigot was arrested by Colonel James Stuart on the 24th April 1776 He died in confinement the following May He was owner of the celebrated Pigot diamond, of which there is a model in the British Museum. This stone was sold in 1819 for 220,000 to Ali Pasha, who when mortally wounded by Reshid Pasha (February 5th, 1822) had it crushed to powder in despair. There is a curious picture of Lord Pigot signed by G. Williams 1777 in the Durbar room of the Tanjore Palace. Fame is blowing a trumpet, which she holds with one hand, while she supports on the other a portrait of Pigot Below her is a cartouche bearing four shields. On the pedestal which supports the oval frame of the portrait is inscribed, "Siege of Madras raised February 17th 1759. Died May 11th, 1777."

Born on 4th March 1719 the eldest son of Richard Pigot of Westminster by his wife Frances, George Pigot joined the East India Company's Civil Service at the age of 15 and arrived at Madras in July 1737. His securities were his two brothers, Robert and Hugh Pigot who entered the army and navy respectively. The former rose to be General and the latter Admiral There was also a Captain Charles Pigot who was commander of the Dolphin

			George Pigot appears to have been in 1740 a clerk to the vestry of St. Mary's Parish in addition to being a merchant in Company's service. The duty of the vestry clerk was to record the minutes of the vestry meetings, to draft the letters, to keep a record of all receipts and payments of money and to balance the accounts monthly. (pp. 534–5 of The Church in Madras, by Rev. Frank Penny.) Pigot was unmarried. On his death the Irish barony became extinct, while the baronetcy devolved upon his brother Robert Pigot. He left several natural children among others (1) Sophia Pigot who married on 14th March 1776, the Hon. Edw. Monckton of Somerford, Staffordshire, and died on 1st January 1834, (2) Richard Pigot (1774–1868) General in the Army and Colonel of the 4th Dragoon Guards (3) Sir Hugh Pigot, K.C.B. (1778–1857), admiral of the White and (4) Leonora, who married 17th October 1777 Claud Russel member of the Madras Council. To the memory of her and her husband there is a tablet in Marylebone Church.

Seventh baronet and cousin of Sir John Burgoyne, K.C.B., dramatist and General, who surrendered in 1777 at Saratoga. In 1781 he was commissioned to raise a regiment of light dragoons for service in India the first European cavalry sent out to that country. This corps, originally known as the 23rd Light Dragoons, was formed out of drafts from other regiments. Standards now in possession of the 19th Hussars, were presented to it by George III. and early in 1783 it embarked on board the East India fleet under convoy of Admiral Sir E. Hughes and landed at Madras towards the end of the year. Under its changed name of the 19th Light Dragoons it subsequently won great renown in Indian battlefields. Colonel Floyd, father-in-law of Lady [Robert] Peel was its most celebrated commander (see No. 1093). In September 1783 when General Stuart was dismissed from service for systematic disobedience of orders Major-General Sir John Burgoyne, who was the next Senior Officer was appointed to command the Bengal forces but he declined to recognise Stuart's disposition and Colonel Hugh Lang was appointed to the command of the army. Burgoyne, refusing to obey, Hugh Lang was arrested and subsequently tried by military court-martial which was eventually acquitted [Love III.–244].
398	7th Mar. 1791	JOSEPH MOORHOUSE	By order of the Court of Directors of the East India Company to commemorate the distinguished Services of the late JOSEPH MOORHOUSE, Esqr., Lieutenant Colonel of the Coast Artillery, who was killed at the Attack of the Pettah Gate of Bangalore on the seventh day of March Anno Domini MDCCXCI. Musgrave, the 'Grand Lodge of Madras with their Jewels', the Chief mourners, Pall bearers and members of the Grand Lodge wearing black silk scarves and Hat Bands. Forty-seven minute guns corresponding with the age of the deceased were fired. Party of 100 Manoeuvres under Major De Spangenberg fired 3 rounds. Cortege entered Fort by Wallajah Gate. Chaplains were Millingchamp Senior, Archdeacon Leslie and Dr Bell.

Calcutta Gazette, Thursday May 27th 1784: Private letters from Madras mention that the Cavalry at Arnee had sustained but that Captain Moorehead (sic) and forty artillery having boldly rescued the guns under a heavy fire from the enemy, there was no doubt of their being soon reduced into submission. The Nabab's troops are taken into the Company's Service. The European Officers come in the youngest of their rank.

Moorhouse is said to have risen from the ranks, and had greatly distinguished himself at the siege of Carangoody (January 1781), at the battle of Porto Novo (July 1781) and at the siege of Cuddalore (June 1783). His services were so highly thought of by the Madras Government that, on receipt of the news of his death the following General Order was published, March 22nd, 1791:—'Government having received advice of the death of Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph Moorhouse, who was killed in the assault of the Pettah at Bangalore on the 7th instant, it has been resolved as a testimony of respect to the memory of an officer who has served the Company many years with zeal, spirit and ability, that his remains, with the permission of the ministers and churchwardens, be publicly interred in the Church of Fort St. George, at the Company's expense, and a marble tablet fixed over his grave with a suitable inscription in commemoration of his merits.' The monument was executed in England by C. Peart, London (sans of battering ram). It is of white marble and represents Britannia seated on a lion, crowning a medallion head of Moorhouse with laurel. His death at the storming of Bangalore forms the subject of a picture by Robert Home. "Colonel Moorhouse, beyond comparison the most valuable officer in the army received 2 wounds the last of which proved mortal and put an end to his life in half an hour." Munro Vol. 1 p. 115, Gleig's Life. Moorhouse was married on October 31st, 1783, at St. Mary's Church to Augusta, second and youngest daughter of the Rev. André Boudaune. His age at the time of death was 47. His widow became the 3rd wife of Lord Audley who died 24th August 1818 at Sunbridge Lodge in Wiltshire, aged 60 and was preceded by his only son Hon. John Tuchet.

309	7th Aug. 1796.	MARGARETTA BARONESS HOBART and JOHN HOBART	Sacred to the memory of MARGARETTA BARONESS HOBART, and her infant son JOHN HOBART, whose remains are here deposited in the same grave. The doom of the affectionate mother was irrevocably fixed, when her child expired, and having struggled for a few months on account of those, whom She has left to deplore her loss, She departed this life on the 7th of August 1796, in the 41st year of her age.

Lord Hobart, who gave his name to Hobart Town, Tasmania, was Governor of Madras from 1794 to 1798. He married on January 4th, 1762 Margaretta, daughter and co heiress of Edmund Bourke, Esq., of Urrey, and widow of Thomas Adderley, of Innishannon, County Cork. Their daughter became the wife of the first Earl of Ripon. On March 30, 1786 Captain Allan Hyde Gardner afterwards second Lord Gardner married Margaret, daughter of Thomas Adderley of Innishannon County Cork by Margaret daughter of Edmund Bourke of Urrey. She divorced him and married secondly Henry Juris. In 1799 Lord Hobart married secondly Eleanor Eden, daughter of the first Lord Auckland. Her sister the Hon. Emily Eden, wrote the well known Letters "Up the Country" and gave her name to the Eden Gardens at Calcutta. Lord Hobart's portrait is in the drawing room of Government House, Madras.

400 | 13th Feb 1798 | Frederick Christian Swartz. | Sacred to the memory of the Rev Frederick Christian Swartz, whose life was one continued effort to imitate the example of his Blessed Master. Employed as a Protestant missionary from the Government of Denmark, and in the same character by the Society in England for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge, he, during a period of fifty years, "went about doing good," manifesting in respect to himself the most entire abstraction from temporal views, but embracing every opportunity of promoting both the temporal and eternal welfare of others. In him religion appeared not with a gloomy aspect, or forbidding mien, but with a graceful form and placid dignity. Among the many fruits of his indefatigable labours was the erection of the church at Tanjore. The savings from a small salary were, for many years, devoted to the pious work and the remainder of the expense supplied by individuals at his solicitation. The Christian seminaries at Ramanadpuram and in the Tinnevelly province were established by him. Beloved and honored by Europeans, he was, if possible, held in still deeper reverence by the natives of this country of every degree and every sect, and their unbounded confidence in his integrity and truth was on many occasions rendered highly beneficial to the public service. The poor and the injured looked up to him as an unfailing friend and advocate. The great and powerful concurred in yielding him the highest homage ever paid in this quarter of the globe to European virtue. The late Hyder Aliy Cawn, in the midst of a bloody and vindictive war with the Carnatic, sent orders to his officers "to permit the Venerable Father Swartz to pass unmolested and show him respect and kindness, for he is a holy man and means no harm to my Government." The late Tuljajee, Rajah of Tanjore, when on his death bed desired to entrust to his protecting care his adopted son Serfojee, the present Rajah, with the administration of all the affairs of his country. On a spot of ground granted to him by the same Prince, two miles east of Tanjore, he built a house for his residence and made it an orphan asylum. Here the last 20 years of his life were spent in the education and religious instruction of children, particularly those of indigent parents, whom he gratuitously maintained and instructed. And here on the 13th of February 1798, surrounded by his infant flock and in the presence of several of his disconsolate brethren, entreating them to continue to make religion the first object of their care and imploring with his last breath the Divine blessing on their labours, he closed his truly Christian career in the 72nd year of his age. The East India Company, anxious to perpetuate the memory of such transcendent worth, and gratefully sensible of the public benefits which resulted from its influence, caused this monument to be erected. Ann. Dom 1807

The monument was erected by J. Bacon, Junior Sculptor, London 1806. Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature—Mark Ch. XVI—Verse 15.

Swartz was one of the most devoted missionaries India has ever seen. C. F. Schwartz was a native of Sonnanberg in Brandenburg; graduate at Halle; arrived 1750, went to Trichinopoly

1762; in Tanjore 1778 where he died. A monument by Flaxman at Tanjore represents Rajah Serfojee holding the dying man's hand and receiving his blessing. Below are the following lines composed by the Rajah himself. They are the first attempt at English versification by a Hindoo prince (see No. 2846) —

"Firm wast thou, humble and wise,
Honest, pure, free from disguise,
Father of orphans, the w dow s support,
Comfort in sorrow of every sort,
To the benighted, dispenser of light,
Doing and pointing to that which is right,
Blessing to princes to people, to me,
May I, my father, be worthy of thee;
Wisheth and prayeth thy Serfojee"

Serfojee died on the 8th March 1832 in his fifty fourth year

"Gericke and most of the missionaries usually termed Swartz "our good and venerable father." In 1793 he paid his last visit to Madras, left it on 20th September 1793. He seldom spoke of Madras but as Sodom and Gomorrah." (Taylor, p. 77). Swartz was successively Chaplain, Vakeel, guardian, envoy and political commissioner. About me who may, I will maintain that he was not the model of a good missionary. He was a great and good man, born for great things and singularly made use of in Providence to accomplish them. (Taylor, p. 25)

For a sketch of his life and works see Asiatic Journal of July 1834.

401 | 2nd Oct 1803. | CHRISTIAN WILLIAM GERICKE

Sacred to the memory of the Revd CHRISTIAN WILLIAM GERICKE. Destined to labour in a peculiar vineyard (that of the conversion of the natives of office) he fulfilled his sacred office with primitive simplicity and purity. Worthy associate of the Venerable SWARTZ, like him, he toiled thro' life with sedulous but temperate zeal, to plant in every accessible soil the pure spirit of Christianity. Pagans, uninstructed Christians, and especially their children, were the object of his unceasing labours of faith and love. He was called to receive the eternal reward of his patient and unwearied course of usefulness, in the year of our Lord 1803, aged 62 years

The monument is by Flaxman and represents Gericke teaching. The monument is a most unpretending work by Flaxman. It represents a minister addressing a native in a pensive attitude from an open book, and the word 'believe' is above. Three children of different height are looking up to the speaker. The inscription is beneath and the whole in white marble. It is in the north west corner of the building and ceases to be in the proper place.

He was a native of Colberg in Pomerania; graduated at Halle, arrived 1767; joined Hutteman at Cuddalore 1767, succeeded Fabricius at Madras 1788. He died at Vellore, October 2nd, 1803, and is buried in the family vault at Vepery. He left 1,800 pagodas besides valuable house property to the S.P.C.K. His daughter Dorothea Sophia married John Hunter and died May 22nd, 1793, in her 20th year (No. 629). Gericke says in his will "My greatest troubles have occurred during the last seven years. My daughter Dorothea Sophia Hunter died aged 20 and my son Captain George Frederick aged 30" (at Ongole, May 16th 1801). Gericke's wife was a Miss Soph a Hutteman who died 12th July 1807 (see No. 1827)

Swartz called him a sincere Christian and a Nathaniel in whom there is no guile. Swartz and Gericke were in a manner sort of way Luther and Melancthon. As a preacher in various languages perhaps none in the country exceeded him. He went up the country on his travels as he used, once a year, at a considerable expense to himself, to diffuse the knowledge of the gospel of Christ and save his fellow creatures and while thus serving his Creator the King of Terrors seized him and without a groan translated him to a happy eternity. He died on the road a short distance from Vellore in the 38th year of his missionary life and 62nd year of his age. Soon after his return from the South he had been attacked with fever of which he recovered. He was taken with a bowel complaint which he thought might be removed by change of air. But returning from Bayacottah to Vellore, his disorder increased, rendering him unable to proceed.

402 — 28th June 1804 — RICHARD LESLIE

The Reverend Archdeacon RICHARD LESLIE, M.A., departed this life on the 28th day of June 1804, aged 58 years. His remains are interred in the burial ground of the parish and this monument is erected by the unanimous voice of the parishioners of Madras as a token of respect to his memory. He discharged the office of a minister in Fort St. George for more than twenty years with fidelity and correctness and during the whole period enjoyed the confidence and esteem of the community at large. His gentleness of manners, his modesty and humility were exemplary, and his whole deportment such as became the character of a true minister of the Gospel of Christ.

See No. 268.

The monument is by Flaxman. It was sent out from England by the express order of the Vestry of Madras. Piety is exhibited by a female figure with the Holy Bible in her hand which she is attentively studying under which is the inscription. His father was James Leslie Bishop of Limerick and created him Archdeacon of Aghadoe in the diocese of Ardfert on 4th October 1769. He matriculated at Wadham College, Oxford, in 1765 but did not proceed to a degree.

403 — 9th Nov. 1804 — JOSIAH WEBBE

To the memory of JOSIAH WEBBE, Esquire, for many years Chief Secretary to the Government of Madras, and afterwards Resident at the Court of Scindia, where he died the 9th of November 1804, aged 37 years. His mind by nature, firm, lofty energetic, was formed by classical study to a tone of independence and patriotism not unworthy of the best days of Greece and Rome. Disdaining the little arts of private influence or vulgar popularity, and erect in conscious integrity, he rested his claims to public honours on public merit. An extensive knowledge of the Eastern languages forwarded his rise to stations of high trust, where his ambition was fired to exalt the honour and interests of his country. But in the midst of a career thus useful and distinguished, preferring the public weal to personal safety, he fell a martyr to an ungenial climate in the prime of life, beloved with fervour by his friends, particularly lamented by the Governors of India, admired and regretted by all. To his public and private virtues this monument is dedicated by his friends.

A fine monument by Flaxman representing an officer a civil servant, a Mahomedan and a Hindu mourning over a portrait medallion of the deceased. At the base is a recumbent tiger. "Sree" Webbe was the one of most famous "politicals" Madras has produced. He entered the service as writer on July 26, 1783 and for several years filled the office of Chief Secretary. 'A statesman, a scholar and a friend.'

In 1802 he was Resident at Mysore and in 1804, Resident at the Court of Scindia. He died at Hussungabad on the banks of the Nerbudda. The well-known Purnaiya, Dewan of Mysore,

And now, Lord, what wait I for ?
My hope is in Thee.
Could I, dear Saint, to this cold Stone impart
Each deep Impression on thy Husband's Heart
Could I in Language to my Sorrow just
Record this last Sad Tribute to thy Dust;
E en Strangers then, who read the faithful Line
Should pause in solemn Silence at thy Shrine;
Should mourn with me my late espoused Bride,
Untimely severd from her RUSSELL's side.
In Joy's first Dawn, in early Beauty's Bloom,
Torn from the nuptial Altar to the Tomb.
Then should they see thee, lovely in thy Youth
Serene in Virtue dignified in Truth,
Firm without Rashness gentle without Fear,
Sedate tho' cheerful polish'd yet sincere
So wise, so soft! so gay, yet so resign'd
So fair in Person and so pure in Mind
Should here contemplate with admiring Eye
A Model how to live alas! and how to die.

408	18th April 1813.	SIR BARRY CLOSE, Bart	This monument was erected by the Honourable East India Company to the memory of Major General SIR BARRY CLOSE, Bart, in testimony of their gratitude for his ardent zeal, and entire devotion to their service, equally manifested in the application of high Military attainments, and of profound political knowledge His character derived its brightest honors from that union of conciliation and firmness, which after contributing to terminate a successful war, was eminently displayed in diffusing the blessings of peace over a numerous native population, who without being subject to British rule, felt the protecting influence of British counsels in the mild administration of authority which succeeded the usurpation of Mysore. He departed this life April the 18th 1813 aged 56 years Close entered the Indian Army in 1777 At the final siege of Seringapatam he was Adjutant-General to General Harris, who stated in despatches that his successes were chiefly to be attributed to him. He was Resident at Mysore till 1801, being then transferred to Poona, where he concluded with the Peshwa the treaty of Bassein, the ultimate consequence of which was the destruction of the Mahratta power He retired in 1811 Mountstuart Elphinstone wrote of him: " I doubt whether such an assembly of manly virtues remains behind him. A strong, erect and handy frame, a clear head and vigorous understanding, fixed principles, unshaken courage, contempt for pomp and pleasure, entire devotion to the public service, formed the character of Sir Barry Close-a character one would rather think imagined in ancient Rome than not within our own age and nation." Close was an intimate friend of Wilks, who dedicated his history of Mysore to him and there describes him as " having mastered the logic, the ethics and the metaphysics of Greece through the medium of the Arabic and Persian languages." The town of Closepet in Mysore was so called in honour of him. There is an engraving of this monument in Neill's " History of the First Madras European Regiment," page 404. It is by Flaxman and the finest monument in the church He was made Lieut. on October 2, 1778, Capt December 18, 1793, Major June 1, 1796 Lieut.-Col. will live for ever in the annals of his country, but in the affectionate memory of his friends were lost in the recollection of his private virtues.

Cousin of Lord Hood and younger brother of Captain Alexander Hood, R. N., who fell in action between the Mars and the French seventy four Hercule off the Ile du Raz, April 21st, 1798 In Butleigh Church, Somerset, is a very long and not too fulsome epitaph upon the three Hood brothers by Southey, whose brother Thomas, a midshipman on board the Mars had been severely wounded in the engagement. In 1831 a column 130 feet high was erected on a hill near Butleigh to the memory of Sir Samuel Hood. The lines of Southey which refer to him are—

"One brother yet
Survived with Keppel and with Rodney train'd
In battles with the Lord of Nile approved,
Ere in command he worthily upheld
Old England's high prerogative. In the east,
The west, the Baltic and the Midland Seas,
Yea, wheresoever hostile fleets have plough'd
The sanguined deep, his thunders have been heard,
His flag in brave defiance hath been seen,
And bravest enemies at Sir Samuel's name
Felt fatal presage in their inmost heart,
Of unavertible defeat foreboom'd
Thus in the path of glory he rode on,
Victorious always, adding praise to praise;
Till full of honours not of years, beneath
The venom of the infected clime he sank
On Commander's coast, completing there
His service, only when his life was spent."

Lady Hood was a daughter of Lord Seaforth. In August 1811 Sir Walter Scott sent out by her a long letter of introduction to his brother-in-law Charles Carpenter, then Commercial Resident at Cuddalore [No 2315]

410 | 26th Nov. 1816. | CHARLES ROBERT ROSS

CHARLES ROBERT ROSS of the Madras Civil Service departed this life on the 26th of November 1816, at the early age of thirty-three years. "But wisdom is the grey hair unto men and an unspotted life is old age." He filled his station with dignity and honor, yet, humbly exercised himself "to have always a conscience void of offence toward God, and toward men," charitable, benevolent, frank and generous, his breast glowed with universal philanthropy. He was a dutiful son an affectionate brother, a sincere friend; an unspeakable kindness flowed from his heart, regulated his actions, and inspired reciprocal goodwill. In his public and private affairs, integrity was his guide, and while he did justice to his employers, he protected and supported the fellow creatures committed to his charge. The natives of the Kurpah Collectorate will long cherish his memory and mourn his loss. Deservedly distinguished by his superiors, he advanced rapidly on the road to preferment; but in the midst of health and in the bloom of life, he was called to a better world. A consistent Christian, it is humbly hoped he is gone to receive the reward promised by the Redeemer to his faithful servants. This monument is erected by a friend, to whom the remembrance of his virtues will ever be dear and sacred.

The monument is by J. Bacon. It bears masonic symbols and the pelican representation of self-sacrifice. Ross, Zillah Collector third son of General Patrick Ross died at Masulipatam at the house of G. E. Russell the Collector. He entered the service in 1806—and was for six years Collector of Cuddapah.

He was in 1800 writer, in 1804 Register of the Southern Division of Arcot, in 1805 Sub-Collector in the Southern Division of Arcot, in 1808 Head Assistant to the Collector in Arcot, and in 1810 Collector of Cuddapah. The old spelling Kurpah still survives in the expression "Kurpah indigo." George Edward Russell, whose mother was a daughter of Lord Pigot, acted as Governor of Madras in 1837 and he died on 20th October 1853 (see Nos. 1806, 1808).

411 | 18th May 1818. | THOMAS JOHN WILLIAM DAVIES NATTES. | To record the loss of Lieutenant THOMAS DAVIES who fell at the siege of Mallegaon in Candeish on the 16th of May 1818, and of Lieutenant JOHN WILLIAM NATTES, killed at the same siege eleven days afterwards, this monument was erected by their brother officers of the Madras Engineers. The first of these brave men intrepid and indefatigable, had displayed on this as on former occasions at Mauritius and at Naugpoor, a courage which no peril could abate, while he evinced great judgment and resource in difficulty and danger. The latter of tenderer growth succeeding to the same department, has testified the same zeal for the service, and had obtained the admiration of those who witnessed in him professional acquirements and early maturing talents with a coolness and resolution that would have honoured age and experience

The monument is by Bacon and represents the siege of Mallegaon. Captain Kennedy 17th Native Infantry, and Lieutenant Wilkinson and Ensign Eagar, 13th Native Infantry, were killed on the same occasion. On 23rd October 1818 died at Mallegaum near the Camp in Kandeish Lieut. James Anderson M. E. R. eldest son of the late Rev. John Anderson, minister.

412 | 1st Mar 1819. | MARGARET ELLIOT. | To the memory of MARGARET, wife of the Right Hon HUGH ELLIOT, Governor of Madras. She died March 1st 1819.

Bishop Middleton arrived on his second visitation from Calcutta to Madras on 27th February, "the very evening Mrs. Elliot the Governour's lady died". "A Corpulent Clearful very influential lady" "It is out of my province to add more". The Bishop offiuated at the funeral the following evening. (Taylor, p. 182.) The date given by Taylor seems to be a mistake. The date of death given in the Madras Almanac is 1st March and Rev. Malden's List of Burials gives the date of burial as 2nd March 1819. She was a Miss Jones and his second wife. A description of her funeral is given in the Asiatic Journal of September 1819.

The Right Hon'ble Hugh Elliot, the younger brother of the first Earl of Minto, Governor-General of India, was the second son of Sir Gilbert Elliot, third Baronet. Among other children of Sir Gilbert's was Eleanor who married, in 1776, William first Lord Auckland and was the mother of George second Lord Auckland, who was Governor General of India (1836–1841). Mr Hugh Elliot entered the diplomatic service in early life. He soon attained the rank of a Privy Councillor. He was appointed Governor of Madras in 1814 the year after the brother's retirement, in succession to Sir George Barlow. Mr Elliot was married twice. Firstly to a foreign lady, Charlotte, widow of M. von. Kraath, from whom he obtained a divorce in 1793; and secondly to Miss Margaret Jones. She died in Madras. By his first wife Mr. Elliot had one daughter, Isabella, who married Mr George Payne in 1810 and died in 1826. By his second wife he had six sons and three daughters. The sons were (1) Henry, who entered the Army and died in 1842, (2) Edward Francis, a former Chief Magistrate of Police, Madras, who was a terror to the rowdies of his time. In the early thirties he brought to book three notorious burglars and saw them hanged Tradition gives their names as Bava Sahib, Dasari Munian and Rettikara Venkatachalam. The road from the Mount Road to the Beach, between the Cathedral and Copper House, is called after this gentleman, "Edward Elliot's Road." Mr Edward Elliot retired in 1806 and died in 1866. (3) Gilbert Dean of Bristol died in 1851. (4) Charles, K. C. B. was Admiral and some time Governor of St Helena, he died in 1875. (5) Hugh Maxmulian, was a Captain in the 17th Lancers, and died in 1826. and (6) Thomas Frederick, K. C. M. G., was one time Under Secretary of State for the Colonies. And the daughters were (1) Emma, who married Sir Thomas Hislop, G. C. B., Commander in Chief of Madras in 1823 they and an only daughter, Emma Eleanor Elizabeth who married William Hugh, 3rd Earl of Minto, in 1844 and was mother of the Viceroy, Earl of Minto; thus Lady died in 1852. (2) Harriet Agnes married Admiral Sir J. H. Plumridge in 1835 and died in 1845; and Caroline married General Sir W. F. Forster, K. B., and died in 1878. "Elliot's Beach," on the south side of the Adyar River as so named, not from Mr Hugh Elliot the Governor of Madras, but from Mr (afterwards Sir) Walter Elliot, who was a prominent member of the Madras Government, during the Administration of Lord Harris (1854–59). Sir Walter belonged to the same stock and was probably descended from Gilbert Elliot of Stobs, the common ancestor of the Elliots of Minto and of General George Elliot, Baron Heathfield, the gallant defender of Gibraltar against the united fleets and armies of France and Spain. Sir Walter wrote on a vast range of subjects, archæology, natural history and numismatics, and was in correspondence with the celebrated Charles Darwin. The Amravathi marbles in the British Museum were presented to that institution by Sir Walter. He died in 1872.

The Countess of Minto, the distinguished recipient of the Kaisar i Hind Medal in recognition of her charity and benevolence towards suffering humanity, comes from a fine stock. She is the grand-daughter of Charles second Earl Grey, who was first Lord of the Treasury (1830–34) during the first Administration of King William IV. Lord Macaulay writing in 1840, refers to this eminent statesman, in the following words. "But those who, within the last ten years, have listened with delight till the morning sun shone on the tapestries of the House of Lords to the lofty and animated eloquence of Charles Earl Grey, are able to form some estimate of the powers of a race of men among whom he was not the foremost."

413 | 11th Dec. 1824. | Sir Alexander Campbell, Bart. | Here are deposited the remains of General Sir Alexander Campbell, Bart. and K. C. B. Commander in Chief of the Madras Army. Died 11th December 1824 aged 64 years. Also of Olympia, his first wife daughter of Sir John Morshead, Bart. of Tremant Park, Cornwall, who died 24th December 1794, aged 38 years. The tablet was erected by their grandsons, Sir Alexander Cockburn Campbell, Bart., and Lieut.-General George Alexander Malcolm, C. B.

He entered the British Army as early as the year 1776. He was appointed an ensign in the Royals, and was promoted to the rank of lieutenant in the same corps, 25th December 1778. In the month of April 1780, he obtained a company in the 97th Regiment of Foot, and served in that corps at the celebrated siege of Gibraltar, in 1782. He was soon afterwards placed upon half pay, but in December 1787 he was attached to the 74th regiment. He became major by brevet in 1794, and obtained a majority in the before named regiment in the succeeding year. Soon after he had risen to the rank of lieut.-colonel (4th December 1795), he accompanied the 74th to India, and rendered himself very conspicuous in the Mysore war, and at the capture of Seringapatam in 1799. One exploit which he performed upon this occasion, and which created great confusion in the Sultan's army, was an attack upon a circular work, from which he dislodged the enemy with great gallantry, pursuing them across the bridge of communication, and entering the island with the fugitives. He came upon the right of the Sultan's entrenched camp, where he bayonetted some of the enemy in their tents, and spiked several guns.

He attained the rank of colonel in the army in September 1803, and when the present Duke of Wellington commenced his campaigns in Spain, Col. Campbell served in his army with the rank of brigadier general.

In the arduous conflicts which attended the commencement of that war, so gloriously terminated, Brigadier Campbell greatly distinguished himself; but particularly at the severe and well contested battle of Talavera, 27th July 1809.

Upon that occasion he was posted in a commanding spot of ground between the two armies. When the enemy had been defeated on other points, he commenced a desperate attack upon General Campbell's position. The result is best expressed in the concise but flattering words of the Duke of Wellington:—"This attack was most successfully repulsed by Brig. Gen. A. Campbell, who took the enemy's cannon, and I was highly satisfied with the manner in which this part of the position was defended."

In the general orders published at home soon after this action his Majesty, in communicating his approbation of the conduct of the several general and other officers at the battle of Talavera, observed that the instances of their previous gallantry had not escaped him; and a comment upon this remark subsequently appeared in a list of the names of officers, to whom a medal was awarded for their distinguished services at Roleia, Vimiera, Corunna, and Talavera, among which we find that of Brigadier General Campbell.

In December 1809, Col. Campbell obtained the colonelcy of the York Light Infantry Volunteers; and in July 1810, he was advanced to the rank of major general.

At the actions of Casal Nova and Foy d'Aronce, in March 1811, Major Gen. Campbell found new opportunities of distinguishing himself, and his name is mentioned in the despatches of the commander of the combined army with commendation.

Next year he was appointed to the command-in-chief of the forces at the island of Mauritius; and was made lieut. general in June 1814. He returned to England in 1819; and was appointed, in the latter end of 1820, to the post of commander-in-chief of the army at the Presidency of Fort St. George, with the rank of full general in the East Indies.

In November 1824 General Campbell suffered an attack of apoplexy, he partially recovered, and great hopes were entertained that he would be enabled to overcome the effects of it; but a further attack terminated his life on the 11th December, in the sixty fifth year of his age.

Every testimony of respect towards his memory was manifested by the Government and the army. At the funeral, which took place in the ensuing day, the governor and members of council at Fort St. George officiated as pall bearers; minute guns were fired from the fort battery, and nearly the whole of the gentlemen of the society of the presidency joined the procession, which was accompanied by a vast concourse of natives.

The Government General Orders, dated the 11th day of December, contained the following tribute to the memory of the deceased general:—

"With much grief the Hon. the Governor in Council announces to the army the demise of His Exc. General Sir Alexander Campbell, Bart., K. C. B., Commander in Chief at this Presidency, which took place this morning at eight o'clock a.m. Sir A. Campbell's close connexion with the army of Fort St. George, and his cordial attachment to it, which had subsisted for a period of thirty years, were confirmed by his share in some of its most honourable achievements, and completed by the high station which he filled at the termination of his distinguished career."

General Campbell was a Baronet, and a Knight Commander of the Most Honourable Military Order of the Bath. He was twice married; first to Miss Murchead, sister of Sir John Morshead, Bart., of Trenant Park Cornwall, by whom he had two sons (both of whom fell in action) and three daughters. The eldest daughter Olympia married Alexander Cockburn, Esq., of Madras and perished at sea. The second daughter Charlotte married Major General Sir John Malcolm, G. C. B., of Hyde Hall Sawbridgeworth. The youngest married Lieut. Col. Macdonald Rimmer. Sir Alexander's second wife, was a daughter of the late Rev. Thomas Pemberton, and by her he had a daughter. The baronetcy descended by special provision to the issue of his daughters successively. (Asiatic Journal; June 1828.)

414 | 25th July 1826. | H. H. PEPPER, EDMUND CONBY, J. CURSHAM, J. C. STEDMAN, T. J. ADAMS.

To Lt.-Col. HERCULES HENRY PEPPER, 34th Light Infantry, who died at Fort St. George, 25th July 1826, aged 42, distinguished on various occasions by a rare energy of character and ardent zeal and devoted gallantry. These qualities he particularly displayed whilst commanding a brigade of the Madras Army in Pegu in the Burmese war. And to Lt.-Col. CONBY, 3rd Lt. Infantry, Captain CURSHAM 1st Eur. Regt., Captain STEDMAN, 34th Lt. Infantry, Lieut. ADAMS, 8th Lt. Infantry, who animated with the same spirit and emulating the example of their intrepid leader were killed at Setong in January 1826. This monument is raised by several of their friends in the Coast Army.

The monument was made by Mr. George Clarke of Covent Garden a young artist of great merit. The monument is a military figure larger than life in the uniform of the Light Infantry of the Madras army with a cloak thrown loosely over the shoulder. (Asiatic Journal; Aug. 1830.)

Captain John Cambridge Stedman of 34th Regiment, Chuncole Light Infantry, commanding centre column of attack and Captain Curshaw were killed at the capture of the Setong stockade (midway between Shwegun and Martaban) on the 11th January 1826. "The fire from the enemy was most heavy and destructive and the obstacles to be surmounted by our troops were of no common kind, every man having been up to his neck in water while crossing the creek." Colonel Conby and Lieutenant Adams were killed on the 7th in a preliminary attack which failed. Colonel Pepper was slightly wounded and died in Madras six months afterwards. This monument is a statue of him by G. Clarke, "the Birmingham Chantrey." Stedman was son of Lieutenant-Colonel John Gabriel Stedman (1744–97), author of the well-known work on Surinam, who married firstly Joanna, a native of Surinam and secondly Adriana Louisa, daughter of Adrian Wierts von Cochorn, grand-daughter of General Baron Wiertz Van Cochorn, the celebrated military engineer. John Stedman's daughter by his second wife Sophia Charlotte married John Cotton C.S. October 10th 1807, at Negapatam and their son Captain J. S. Cotton died at Chittoor October 17th, 1843 (No. 1157).

Of 25 officers present, 2 were killed and 5 wounded, one dangerously shot. Our gallant leader Capt. Curshaw fell outside the stockade shot through the heart by a musket ball.

The two officers killed were Captains Curshaw and Stedman, both Commanding columns. I must not omit to mention that both the columns did their work admirably throughout especially 415 6th July 1827. SIR THOMAS MUNRO, Bart.

Near this stone are deposited the remains of Major General SIR THOMAS MUNRO, Bart, K.C.B., Governor of the Presidency of Fort St. George, who after 47 years of distinguished civil and military services, seven of which he passed at the head of that Government under which he first served as a cadet, was suddenly called from his labours on the 6th of July 1827 at a moment "when" in the language of the Honorable Court of Directors, "he was on the point of returning to his native land in the enjoyment of well-earned honors from his Sovereign and from the Company, having recently manifested a new proof of his zeal and devotion in retaining charge of the Government of Madras after he had intimated his wish to retire therefrom and at a period when the political state of India rendered the discharge of the duties of that high and honorable station "peculiarly arduous and important." Aetat 65. Sir Thomas Munro was from the earliest period of his career remarkable amongst other men. All those who were associated with him at the commencement of his service many of whom have since become illustrious in the annals of India and of their country, yielded to him with common consent that pre-eminence which belonged to the ascendency of his character. The resources of his mind rose superior to every emergency of civil government or military enterprise, and he united to these great qualities an unpretending modesty (that exalted sign of innate worth) which courted no applause and which would have obstructed his advancement had not his transcendent merits in the cabinet and in the field forced him into public notice and elevated him to the highest office of this Presidency.

Of him Canning said "Europe never produced a more accomplished statesman nor India, so fertile in heroes, a more skilful soldier." He died of cholera at Petticondah, near Cooty, when making a farewell tour through the Ceded Districts on the eve of his retirement from the Government. His remains were brought to Madras in 1831 and re-interred in St. Mary's Church, Fort St. George on 21st April 1831. There is an equestrian statue of him by Chantrey on the Island, and a portrait by Sir Martin Archer Shee in the Banqueting Hall. For an account of the Sepoys' Salute to this statue, See H. Harvey's 'Ten years in India' III p. 257. He married June, daughter of Richard Campbell, of Craigie, county Ayrshire, whose picture by Lawrence hangs in the drawing room of Government House. Munro's father was a Glasgow merchant trading to Virginia. His nephew John Collins Munro, Sub-Collector of the Southern Mahratta Doab, was killed together with St. John Thackeray, Principal Collector, at the reduction of Kittoor October 23rd, 1824 (see No. 1661).

Munro Bridge, Chetput, was named after Sir Thomas Munro, during whose Governorship it was built.

430	7th Nov. 1847.	SIR JOHN DOVETON	Sacred to the memory of Lieutenant General SIR JOHN DOVETON, G.C.B., of the Honorable East India Company's Service who departed this life on the 7th November A.D. 1847 aged 77 years in the hope of a blessed immortality. Of the many Anglo-Indian Families closely connected with the city of Madras, the Doveton family is one of the most well known. This is partly due to the magnificent style in which Sir John Doveton, the Commander-in-Chief, lived, and partly to the association of his name with the Doveton College. Born in 1770, the son of Mr. Frederick Doveton, a merchant of London, John Doveton arrived in India in 1783, when only 13 years of age. He was present at most of the important actions that were fought during the wars of the eighteenth century in Southern India. He assisted Colonel Wellesley in the pursuit of the notorious brigand, Dhoondia Waugh, for which he received the Colonel's thanks. Another pursuit in which he distinguished himself was that of the Peshwa, Baji Rao, in 1818 which led to his surrender. This march produced a profound impression at the time. "The long and close pursuit" wrote Sir Thomas Monro "by the Force under Brigadier General Doveton was the immediate cause of the breaking up of his (the Peshwa's) army. He was not allowed time to rest or to feed his horses." Baji Rao was heard to say to his Minister something more than that.—"As for General Smith" (who had been pursuing his defeat at Ashtee in 1817), "I don't care about him. I can turn him and drop him when-ever I please; but as for that little fellow, General Doveton, he keeps so close to me that I can scarce call half my own." The last great military service Doveton rendered was in the taking of the hill fortress of Asseerghur, in 1819 in which he was assisted by Sir John Malcolm. Doveton being the senior of the two, settled the plan of attack, which was completely successful. For this he received the thanks of the Governor General who requested him to accept his "warmest thanks for the vigour, spirit, skill and judgment of his operations" to which His Excellency mainly attributed his rapid success. He also received the thanks of the Commander in Chief of Madras and of both Houses of Parliament. He was created a C.B.—on the 14th October 1815—and a K.C.B. on the 26th November 1819. On the 12th August of the latter year, he was promoted Major-General but resigned the Command of the Hyderabad Contin-gent, which he was instrumental in raising and returned to Madras in the following year, when the Governor General issued a most flattering General Order to the troops of the three Presidencies. In 1821, Doveton was placed in Command of the Ceded Districts and not long afterwards commanded the Centre Division of the Madras Army, with Cuddalore as his Headquarters. The Judge's bungalow at the latter Station is still known after him—and was built by him about 1828. Be-tween 1832 and 1833 he occupied what are now the Tindivanam Sub-Collector's office and bungalow which latter he built. From January to March 1826 he acted as Commander-in-Chief of Madras, pending the arrival of Sir George Walker. He resigned his Command in 1828 but early in 1837 he was pro-moted Lieutenant General and on the 10th March following created a G.C.B. After his retirement, he lived in these fine building in Nungambaukam, which is now known after him as Doveton House and was the residence of Sir Ralph Benson. It is said to have been built by Mr Benjamin Roebuck, a former Madras Civilian and uncle of the great Parliamentarian. Many of the older Indians in and around Egmore still remember the magnificent style in which the General lived here. He lived, it is said, the life of a Brahmin though he received European visitors and was President of the Madras Club for two successive years (1834–1835). He had a complete establishment including an Apothecary in his own house and several Brahmin families lived in the grounds and all the children born in it bore and their descendants of to-day still bear, Doveton as a suffix to their Hindu names. He was a highly charitable man, and when he died, on the 7th November 1847, his house was filled with all classes of Indians, and the funeral procession, it has been remarked, was swell d to unmanageable proportions by them. It was attended by the leading citizens of Madras, including the Marquis of Tweeddale, the Governor and Commander in Chief. He was buried in St Mary's Church, Fort St George, between Sir Alexander Campbell and Sir Thomas Munro and the inscription on his tomb-stone is a simple one, recording nothing more than his age and date of death. The major portion of his property he left to his Brahmin Steward, who had accompanied him in all his wanderings, and whose many descendants still retain the premises of Doveton.

A cousin of Sir John, usually styled "Senior" was the other Sir John Doveton, the son of Sir William Webber Doveton, who is described in old Madras Almanacs as "Junior." He was born about 1783, and joined the East India Company's Military Service in 1798. He became A.D.C. to the Marquis of Wellesley, while Governor General of India, and saw service in the campaign of 1799–1803 against the Mahrattas, as also in that of 1817. In 1833 he commanded a Division in the Nizam's Contingent—raised by his cousin—and was created a K.C.B. in 1836, and a General in 1854. He died on the 23rd September 1857. Sir John (Senior) had a brother in the Madras Military Service. This was Sir Michael Doveton, who raised the 7th Madras Cavalry, through his brother's influence. While a Major, he distinguished himself greatly in the earlier stages of the pursuit of the Peishwa by Brigadier General Smith. He also took a prominent part in the cavalry combat at Ashtee on the 20th May 1818 in which Gokla was killed, with immense loss, and was thanked in the Orders of the day. He successively became C.B. and K.C.B. and retired to England where he died. Another brother of Sir John (Senior) was Sir William Doveton a Governor of St. Helena, when it was a possession of the East India Company.

Sir Michael Doveton's natural son was John Doveton, the name-father of the Doveton Colleges of Madras and Calcutta. So little is known of this member of the family that it is necessary to set down a few details about him. He was educated at the "Egmore School", the old name for the Military Male Orphan Asylum which was established in 1781 in the old Egmore Redoubt by Dr Andrew Bell—about whom the particulars given by Sir Charles Lawson in his "Manners of Madras". When he grew up he through the influence of his uncle (Sir John, 'Senior'), who had succeed n finally into office in the early training and education received in 1817 the Bengal Horse and rose to be a Captain. He commanded a squadron of Horse in the retinue of Gokula the Agent Capital of Nagpur in April 1818. About August of the same year he garrisoned the Nagpur country evacuated by his uncle just before the battle of Asseerghur. An unfortunate circumstance soon afterwards led to his resigning the Nizam's Service.

His economical habits allowed him to save a little money in the Nizam's Service, which was augmented by a subsequent legacy left to him by Sir John (Senior). After resigning office he returned to Madras and lived a quiet and retired life. Mr Peter Cantaire, a Eurasian gentleman of exemplary character, induced him (as his business manager) to divide his fortune between Madras and Calcutta for the support of Eurasian education. This advice was followed, and John, after appointing as his executors Mr. Cantaire and Mr Byrne of Calcutta, with whom he had corresponded for some time, left India and "distinguished himself in London by his penurious habits on the one hand and his ultra-radicalism in Indian matters on the other". He died on the 15th October, 1834 and his bequest of about £30,000 became at once available for equal division between the Calcutta Oriental Academy (now called the Doveton College) and "a similar institution on the Coast of Coromandel, to be established within two years of his decease, failing which the money was to lapse to the Calcutta institution. On the 5th May, 1864, the Madras Parental Academic Institution and Doveton College was founded and in March 1855 the Captain's endowment was increased by Rs. 1,23 000 subscribed by the public for a Protestant College and the name of the institution was changed to the "Madras Doveton Institution and Protestant College". John Doveton had two brothers, Henry Bazett and Edward, both of whom died young. The former was a Captain in the 4th Regiment Light Cavalry, and was buried at Wallajahbad, and the latter was A.D.C. to his uncle Sir John ("Senior") and died in Calcutta on the 10th April 1823, aged 22. Both of these figure in this "List of Tombs", with John Rudwyrt Doveton, who rose to be Colonel of Madras Cavalry, and later British Consul at Pondicherry, where he has buried

The Officer in charge of Tipoo's sons when they were hostages in 1792 was Captain Gabriel Doveton, another nephew of Sir John (Senior). He was also the person who conducted the boys back to Tippu who received them in his camp at Devanhalli. An exceedingly interesting account of the interview that Tippu granted to him at the time is to be found in Wilks' "History of Mysore" while a contemporary description of it may be read in the pages of that old Madras paper, the Hircarrah. The hostages were sent back on the 26th February, 1793, and the Hircarrah gave the following account of their ceremonial reception by Tippu :—

"There was nothing pompous or magnificent about the tent not even a single ornament in it; notwithstanding there was something charming and agreeable in the plain and neat aspect it wore. The Sultan sat in the centre between the pillars of the tent, reclining a little with his right side on a very low masnad or cushion covered with red velvet, embroidered with gold. His seat was not much above the level of the floor, covered like the cushion. At his right hand lay his sword with an enamelled hilt and in a red velvet scabbard. The Princes sat at a little distance behind him on his right. His principal ministers and officers ranged in two lines, fronting each other. Captain Doveton, to whom the Sultan was very attentive, on the right, and Ghulam Ally in his silver chair, very near him on the same side. The two Princes made a very interesting appearance, elegantly and neatly dressed. The Sultan's dress was perfectly plain, without jewels or any ornament. He wore a deep red turban of the same form worn by the Princes, his gown of plain muslin and a dagger in his girdle. All his great men were in the same style of dress and no reserve or timidity among them, but all perfectly at their ease and cheerful."

The presents given to the Princes in Madras before their departure were many and varied. One of these, given by Sir Charles Oakley, the Governor, was "a very complete and comprehensive philosophical apparatus procured from the Rev. Dr Bell, who sent also the person hitherto employed by him in the management and use of it" Two very elegant pocket books from Lady Oakley were, we are told, received with particular pleasure by the young Princes The Nawab's present included two palankeens finished in the most costly manner and of the finest workmanship This palankeen was taken at the fall of Seringapatam and became part of the prize money The above Officer—Captain Gabriel Doveton—was deputed by Lord Cornwallis to interview Tippu on the eve of the last Mysore War, and it was he whom Tippu wanted to be despatched to him, "slightly attended or unattended"

Near Raymenta in Salem district may be seen Doveton's well, close to the mausoleum built by Major Glover Doveton House Nuggambakkam, otherwise known as Commander-in-Chief's House, where the Gaekwar of Baroda was confined (see No. 1471), belonged to him and was named after him. In the Dictionary of National Biography he is said to have been born in 1768.

A sculptured figure of Faith leaning over a cross, by Flaxman. The charter Act of 1813, which gave an episcopate to Calcutta, provided an Archdeacon for Madras as well as for Bombay. John Mousley was the son of John Mousley of Boswell in the county of Warwick. Born 1771; Matriculated at Trinity College, Oxford, 28th January 1793; graduated B.A., 1800, M.A., 1802; Fellow of Balliol 1802—18; B.D. and D.D. (by decree) 28 May 1818. He was appointed Chaplain in 1810, served with the Arcot Brigade in 1811 and officiated as Junior Presidency Chaplain at St. Mary's Fort St. George. In 1812 he became the 1st Archdeacon of Madras.

There is a tribute to his memory in the Asiatic Journal of March 1820 and it is stated in it, that at a meeting of gentlemen who knew him well, held on 24 September 1819 with Sir John Newbolt in the chair it was resolved that a monument be created to commemorate the public and private virtues of Dr. Mousley. A Committee was appointed to complete the design and subscription opened for receiving sums of not less than 20 nor more than 500 rupees. The Asiatic Journal of June 1820 records that another meeting was held on Saturday November 20, when it was reported that the subscriptions amounted to 3115 rupees. The Committee resolved that 500 rupees should be appropriated to the erection of a plain granite tombstone and pedestal over the grave. It was also resolved that application should be immediately made to John Flaxman, R.A., to furnish the Committee with two or three designs of Mural Monument to be placed in St. George's Church. The tablet was to be graced by a Latin inscription from the pen of the Bishop of Calcutta.

460 — 21st Mar. 1821. — FERDINAND DE MIERRE. —

Sacred to the memory of FERDINAND DE MIERRE, Esq., of the Madras Civil Service, who departed this life at Bombay on the XXI of March MDCCCXXI, aged XXIV years and V months.

Pause here and think; a monitory rhime
Demands one moment of thy fleeting time;
Consult life's silent clock, thy bounding vein,
Seems it to say—"health here has long to reign?"
Hast thou the vigour of thy youth? an eye
That beams delight? a heart untaught to sigh?
Yet fear, Youth, oft times healthful, and at ease
Anticipates a day it never sees;

His mother was daughter of the third Duke of Buccleuch.

462 — 18th July 1824 — CHARLES HARWOOD HIGGINSON. — Sacred to the memory of CHARLES HARWOOD HIGGINSON, Esq., Senior Judge of the Court of Appeal and Circuit for the Southern Division of this Presidency, who departed this life at Trichinopoly, aged XL years. Impressed with a deep sense of duty to his Creator, he discharged it in the true spirit of Christianity with meekness and humility. A pious and dutiful son, an attached and affectionate husband, a kind and generous master, a warm and sincere friend, these were his virtues in private life, in the discharge of his public duties he evinced a sound judgment, diligent and unwearied attention, a just but merciful consideration of the merits and demerits of those whom it was his duty to judge, pure and incorruptible integrity. His surviving friends have raised this monument in testimony of their love, esteem and respect for one of the best of men.

He joined the service as writer in 1799. The monument by C.H. Smith shows the shield, sword and scales of Justice and an open Copy of Manu "on Laws." He married, April 17th, 1806, Miss Frances Westcott. She died at Negapatam on 5th April 1822. (No. 2833).

463 — 25th July 1824 — JOHN WILLIAM FREESE. — Sacred to the memory of the late JOHN WILLIAM FREESE, Esq. Colonel commanding the Madras Artillery, in which corps he served with fidelity and honour for the space of 39 years. He departed this life at sea on board the H.C.S. "Duke of York" on the XXVth July MDCCCXXIV, Æ. LIV years. This tablet is inscribed to his memory by his afflicted family.

A neat perfect little tablet showing in the sculpture all the insignia of the old Madras Artillery.

He married Miss Mary Stuart, on August 12th, 1800 at Pennamalle.

He had a son born at St. Thomas Mount on 24th Oct. 1818 (Asiatic Journal, June 1817) and a daughter born on 14th Nov. 1817 (Asiatic Journal, July 1818).

468 9th June 1831. JANE KINDERSLEY.

To the memory of JANE the beloved wife of NATHANIEL WILLIAM KINDERSLEY Esq., of the Madras Civil Service, who died at Gotcamund 9th June 1831, aged 26. The universal prepossession excited by her gentle benevolent and cheerful demeanour ripened into love and esteem, as it was found to spring from christian charity, christian humility and that peace which the world cannot give. Strict integrity and singleness of heart marked her words and actions. Her warm affections and exquisite sensibility were controlled by sound sense. To be beloved, her only wish, was necessary to her existence. The removal of this amiable being was as sudden as it was premature. But in the remembrance of her unaffected piety and purity of heart she has left to her husband the consolatory reflection that though unexpected, she was not unprepared to attend the awful summons.

Mr. Nathaniel William Kindersley was Writer in 1814 and was second member of the Board of Revenue in 1843. In 1844 he proceeded on furlough and resigned the service on 1st June. He died in England on 3rd December 1844.

470	12th Sept 1832	JAMES STEPHEN LUSHINGTON	Sacred to the memory of JAMES STEPHEN LUSHINGTON, Esq., of the Bengal Civil Service, who died at the early age of 28 years second son of the Right Honourable S R Lushington, M.P. late Governor of Madras and of ANNE Elizabeth, eldest daughter of George Lord Harris late Governor of Madras. Distinguished on his first arrival in India by superior talents and acquirements and passing with rapid success through his studies in the College of Fort William, he gave early promise of that intellectual and moral worth which is recorded with admiring friendship by the pious and accomplished Heber and which his short but brilliant career in this Presidency developed and matured as the Private Secretary of the Governor H. acquired by his impartial courtesy the esteem of every branch of the public service, while his many virtues and endearing qualities secured the approbation and realized the hopes of his affectionate and bereaved father This monument is erected by the society which he adorned as a just tribute to his departed excellence A fine marble statue of a young man by Flaxman, and the most noticeable monument in the Cathedral Lushington died at Laulpet near Arcot after a lingering illness. His father Stephen Rumbold Lushington was Governor of Madras (1827–1835) and had previously been in the Civil Service (1790–1807) He served as Private Secretary to General Harris, whose daughter he married December 8th, 1797 and whose life he wrote in 1840. He represented Rye and Canterbury in Parliament and died in 1868, aged 92 He was a cousin of Henry Lushington, of the Bengal Civil Service who owed his escape from death in the Black Hole to the "refreshing draughts" he drew from Holwell's shirt sleeves Henry Lushington was afterwards Clive's Secretary, and in that capacity was the author of the Lost Cypher[s] the famous duplicate treaty in red ink, at the foot of which Admiral Watson's signature was forged by order of Clive, for the deception of Omichund. When Watson was told of the forgery on his death bed, he is reported to have replied that as there was so much iniquity among men, he did not wish to remain any longer among them. Henry Lushington fell in the Patna massacre of October 1763. Lushington (Charles) bar. 1785, ob. 1858 Third son of Stephen Lushington first baronet of the name Mr Lushington received a writership in 1800. His service was chiefly spent in the secretariat On his return to England he stood for Ashburton, and sat on the liberal benches in the reformed parliament, afterwards he was member for Westminster. He was the author of some treatises on church politics, and his first wife (née Greenlaw) wrote a narrative of her journey from Calcutta to Europe, by way of Egypt, in 1827–28 (London, 1829).

480 9th Feb 1845. WILLIAM GRIFFITH. Sacred to the memory of WILLIAM GRIFFITH, Esq., F.L.S., Madras Medical Service, born at Ham in the county of Surrey, March 1810. He had attained to the highest eminence in the scientific world and was one of the most distinguished Botanists of the age. He acquired his knowledge by personal investigation in the different provinces of British India, and in the neighbouring kingdoms from the banks of the Helmund and Oxus to the Straits of Malacca, where in the capacity of Civil Assistant Surgeon he died in the 35th year of his age and the 13th year of his public service in India. His early death is deeply deplored by numerous private friends, and his loss to the cause of science elicited a public and emphatic expression of regret from the Governor-General of India. This tablet is erected as an humble tribute to his memory by a few of his medical brethren of the Madras Service.

Mr. Griffith was the first European to penetrate from Assam into Burma. In 1838–39 he accompanied the army which marched from Sind through Quetta and Kandahar to Ghazni and Cabul. His collections number as many as 9,000 specimens which is by far the largest number ever obtained by individual exertions. There is a monument to him in the Botanical Gardens at Calcutta and a tablet in the great theatre of the Medical College here. He came to India on 24th Sept. 1832.

His valour, foresight and science mainly contributed to the success of the glorious defence of Jellalabad and in the ensuing Affghan Campaign he with his brave Corps of Mountain Sappers acquired enduring renown. His diplomatic and military services as Commissioner of the Trans-sutlej Provinces and as Governor-General's Agent on the North-West Frontier at a most important crisis of our Indian Empire called forth the eloquent eulogy of Sir H. Hardinge that "he was as brave as he was able and seemed to unite in all the great qualities of an accomplished officer." He fell at the battle of Ferozshahar in his 39th year acting as aide-de-camp to the Governor-General. "Though severely wounded he continued heroically to lead and animate the troops in the assault until mortally wounded in the Sikh camp at the moment of victory," the last of three brothers who died for their country on the

ST. GEORGE'S CATHEDRAL CEMETERY

533 | 14th Mar. 1818. | Elizabeth De Havilland | Elizabeth, the beloved wife of Major T F de Havilland of Engineers, and daughter of T de Saussmarez of Guernsey, Esq., Attorney General in that Island, died at the early age of 35 years. She is gone to her God whom she served with zeal and sincerity leaving an afflicted husband and four children to mourn her loss and to emulate her example; her enlightened mind was an ornament to society in which she stood highly respected, and in the social duties of wife, mother, daughter, sister and friend, she shone with superior virtue. These virtues emanated from a warm and affectionate heart and were confirmed in true piety—to charity ever disposed, the deserving were never sent empty away. The Almighty Disposer of events bade purity and virtue lead the way, the name of the recorded worth here sought repose ere the cemetery was completed, and the afflicted husband who was forming it for public use submitted with pious reverence to the inscrutable ways of Providence which thus made him her protector in death as in life. She stands first in the awful book and gives a date to the register.

Flott de Havilland was a distinguished civil engineer and architect. He was Civil Engineer and Architect to the Madras Government, between 1814 and 1825. He was, perhaps, the most original man of his time. He belonged to the Island of Guernsey, where he was born on April 10th, 1775 being the son of Sir Peter de Havilland and came out to India as a Cadet in 1793 and in the same year was appointed Ensign to the Madras Engineers. In 1799 he took part in the War against Tipu which ended in the restoration of the now ruling Dynasty of Mysore. He married Miss Elizabeth de Saumarez in 1808. (One of his children, a daughter, was born at Chittoor in Nov. 29, 1815—Asiatic Journal, July 1818.) He returned home in 1812 but came to Madras as Civil Engineer and Architect of the Presidency in 1814, in which position he continued till he left India for good in 1825. During a holiday at Guernsey in 1812, he built the Jeyberry Barracks. On his return to Madras he constructed several public works of importance, the sea wall of Madras, highly commended by Sir Thomas Munro, then Governor of Madras; the St. Andrew's Church (or Kirk) which was designed and built by him, was begun in 1818 (on the site of the old Ellis Catcherry) and finished about 1821, "remarkable for its beauty; both as to exterior and interior"; the St. Andrew's Bridge close by the Church and the Mount Road. He also built the St. George's Cathedral in 1816 and widened the Walajah Bridge in 1820. He had a son born on 22nd June 1817 (Asiatic Journal, June 1818). In 1808 while at Seringapatam he proposed to bridge the Cauvery by five brick arches 110 feet span with a rise of only 11 feet.

This proposal having been received with incredulity, he built an experimental arch in accordance with his design in his garden at Seringapatam It is still known as de Havilland s arch and e emants feature of it n that e man by leaping on the crown or keystone can cause the whole structure to oscillate

He appears to have lived in the building which existed in the site of the pre nt Madras Record Office He called his house "Egmore Retreat" and a retreat it must have been then when the S.I.R Co had not yet come into existence in this neighbourhood It is not known if he built it himself It is certain however that he owned it and lived in it up to 1813, when he advertised its sale in the Madras Courier It is also fairly certain that his wife Mrs De Havilland died in it. He was made Lieut Col. in 1824. He died at Guernsey February 23rd 1866.

539	8th Oct. 1820	RICHARD YELDHAM	RICHARD YELDHAM Esq, late Treasurer and Secretary to the Government Bank, aged 68 years. This monument was erected by his friends in India as a last tribute of their affectionate regard.
			He gave his name to Yeldham's Road, Teynampet which was laid out before 1816. He was a free merchant. He was the last of a long line of Mayors of Madras in 1801. In 1797, he was Sheriff of Madras and was also an Alderman. In 1803 he was a Commissioner for the Recovery of Small Debts and Muster Master of the King's Troops, and in 1811 was Treasurer of the Government Bank. He acquired one and a half acres of ground in Teynampet in 1796 and built the residence now called Lux House.
540	12th May 1821.	SAMUEL DALRYMPLE.	The remains of Lieutenant-Colonel SAMUEL DALRYMPLE, C B, of the Madras Artillery, are interred here. The memory of his worth is inscribed on a cenotaph erected by his brother-officers at the Artillery Cantonment at 'St Thomas' Mount, in testimony of their sense of his public services and private virtues.
			The Cenotaph stands on the East Corner of the Parade Ground, St Thomas Mount. 'Lieutenant Colonel Samuel Dalrymple who died 12th May 1821. This Cenotaph has been erected by his brother officers in commemoration of his valuable service and the esteem in which he was held both in his public character and as a member of the Regiment of Artillery in which he was universally respected and beloved.' His age is there given as 40 years. He was married to Miss Margaret Bell by Captain James A. Kirkpatrick in camp at Hyderabad, June 16th, 1801. On January 3 1809, on board the extra Ship Anne, at Sea the Lady of Major Samuel Dalrymple of the Madras Artillery, gave birth to a son and on 4th January, the next day, she died on board the same ship, at sea. On January 7, 1805, at Hyderabad, the lady of Capt. Dalrymple gave birth to a daughter.
			On Nov. 4. 1803 Lieut. Thomas Sampson of H M 84th Regiment married Miss Martha Dalrymple.
			At his uncle's quarters in Fort William, Dec. 18 1815, Hew Dalrymple son of Kirby Dalrymple, died. (Asiatic Journal, Aug 1816)
			James Dalrymple was of Nunraw, a seat in the parish of Garvald 7 miles south of East Lothian. He was a man of extravagant tastes, ran through his fortune and was obliged to run through his narrowed Estate. Kirkby, Samuel's elder brother was in the 74th Highlanders and Hew in a Scotch Regiment. All three brothers were present at the siege of Seringapatam in 1799. At home the toast then was "Here's to Kirby, Hew and Sam and may they take Seringapatam." One of the family traditions was that Kirkby was the gigantic Highlander (he stood 6 feet 7 inches) who cut down Tippoo Sahib at the Gateway as represented in the well known picture of the assault. The sword which Kirby is supposed to have taken from Tippoo, was in the possession of Major General W. D. Tompson, C. B., left to him by his grand uncle.
541	30th Aug 1821.	SIR GEORGE COOPER.	The Hon'ble SIR GEORGE COOPER Kt, Senior Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court of Judicature at Madras, aged 44 years.

CHURCHYARD OF ST MATHIAS, VEPERY.

622 15th Jan. 1751 PETRUS USCAN DE COJA POGUS — Etiam famâ in auras interque nubila caput condens, hic ingressus solo jacet discordium conciliator, jurgiorumque placator, Armeniorum fautor columenque firmum, indigentium præsidium fervidumque tutamen, in publica damna detrimentaque resarciendo impendiosus, largusque refector in divina, sedesque sacras propagando haud perparce strenuus impensor PETRUS USCAN DE COJA POGUS, Armenus, cujus cor Julfæ annos natus 70, e vita recessit 15 Januarii 1751

Pogose is the Armenian for Paul. Khojah is a corruption of the Persian 'Khwajeh," signifying a man of distinction Petrus was the son of Khojah Woskan or Uscan and a grandson of Khojah Pogose of Julfa. He was the most notable Armenian of his day in Madras and is said to have been at one time a Member of Council In 1725 he built the Marmalong Bridge and in 1726 placed steps from the foot to the summit of St. Thomas' Mount. The concluding words of his epitaph "cujus cor Julfæ' refer to the bringing of his heart in a golden casket from Madras to be buried at Julfa in Ispahan. An oil-painting of the Khojah was executed at Madras in 1737 and is now in All Saviour's Cathedral at Julfa. Upon it is painted a heart, with the following distich —

> ' My heart longs for home, where, should I be unable to go, I desire that when my last day comes, my heart be sent to my native land, so that I, Petrus Uscan, may have a grave there."

Uscan was a Catholic and had bought the ground where he lies buried and built a chapel upon it to our Lady of Miracles, making the Capuchin father Severin his executor After his death the Madras Government put the S.P.C.K. missionaries in possession of the Church and premises

In 1787 the Mission owned :—

"The Church at Vepery near Madras The Mission House and a Garden belonging to it. A burying ground adjoining to the garden. Two apartments for the Portuguese and English Schoolmasters A burying ground in the Black Town of Madras A small house near the Mission Garden the legacy of Mrs. Bouwyn and a small piece of paddy field." (The Garden then extended over what is termed Church Street, including the locality of houses on its southern side) Taylor page 54.

The paddy fields were resumed by Government and Gericke was put off with free postage and a bit of ground near Korka pettah, (the Washerman's gate); since resumed as being on the esplanade.

The place on which the new Church was built (in 1818) was a garden of plantain trees Not a trace of the old buildings remains save at the north-east corner of the premises in the form of outhouses (p. 133).

The first missionaries had acquired land on the western boundary of the Fort Esplanade The property there was damaged or destroyed by the French under LaBourdonnais The Government, at the instance of Admiral Boscawen gave to the Missionary the confiscated ground and Church and houses in lieu of the damaged property or that required for the Esplanade It has been made a question if it was given to the Mission or to the Missionary. The reply evidently is, it was given to the Missionary for the use of the mission (p 143) Pohle and Kohlhoff (15th November 1817 letter) never were missionaries at Madras and they had no power to

From Mr. Gericke's "Catalogus mortu or um in Congregatione Lusitana et Anglica," I had occasion, some years ago, at the request of the late Rev. F. Spring to make an extract of which, this is a copy

"1791—January 24th. The Rev. Mr. John Philip Fabricius, English missionary at Vepery, aged 81 years." By consequence he was born in 1710. There is a slab over his remains in the Vepery Churchyard. (page 66—Taylor)

629 | 22nd May 1796 | Dorothea Sophia Hunter | In memory of Dorothea Sophia Hunter, who was a dutiful daughter, a good wife, a devout Christian and became a happy mother, but departed this life thirteen days after the birth of her infant son John William Hunter, on the 22nd May 1796, aged 19 years 1 month and 10 days

"The sincerest friend, the tenderest mother and the most affectionate wife; to the distressed and unfortunate, a kind and liberal benefactress. In testimony of her excellence, and his irreparable loss, her disconsolate husband has erected this monument." (Urquhart, Vol. 1, p. 67)

She was a daughter of the Rev. Mr. Gericke who married John Hunter on July 24, 1794. John Hunter was a partner in the firm of Hunter and Hoy (see No. 401)

The firm of Hunter Hoy & Co. had an affinity with the Vepery Mission for many years. William Simpson was a relation of Mr. John Hunter who lived near the mission. John Hunter was the 1st Cashier of the Carnatic Bank, the first joint stock Bank founded in Madras in 1788. He was afterwards about 1795 Secretary of the British Bank and one of its Directors. He arrived at Madras as a free merchant in 1787. In 1796, he received a grant of an acre of land in Vepery and in 1803 was head of the firm of Hunter and Hoy whose offices were in Fort St. George. Hunter's Road, Vepery is named after him. His house was called Hunter House in that road, a building long since demolished. Mr. William Hunter was married to Miss Adelaide Desjardins on 11th September 1815.

630 | 15th April 1797 | Elizabeth Brei-thaupt | Sacred to the memory of Mrs Elizabeth Breithaupt, who departed this life the 15th April 1797, aged 25 years.

Conjecturably the wife of Christopher Breithaupt of the firm of Parry, Pugh and Breithaupt, who died at Vepery, June 10th, 1822, aged 61. In 1798 he was joint Collector and Surveyor of Madrespatnam with William Cockell, and gave his name to Breithaupt's Road, Vepery. Cockell of the firm of Stephens and Cockell was Sheriff of Madras and died at sea, March 1800. Christopher Breithaupt married Elizabeth Dieurstedt at Pulicat on January 15, 1788. He was a Conductor of Ordnance in 1777 and resigned in 1799.

Gerick's register commenced with October 1788 and the first baptism recorded in it is that of Eliza, daughter of Mr Christopher Breithaupt (Taylor page 63). Rev. Mr. John Christian Breithaupt, the Danish missionary died 17th November 1782 after a short but violent illness (Taylor, p. 49).

631 | 18th May 1798 | John Storey | Here hath interr'd the body of the late Mr. John Storey, a true British subject, who departed this life, the 18th of May 1798, aged 57 years.

He landed in Madras in August 1767 and served the Company as sepoy-serjeant for many years. He procured his discharge by finding a European substitute, and became farrier to the Company's horses. He resided at St. Thomas' Mount, where he dealt in horses and kept a livery stable.

643 21st Mar. 1825. ELIZABETH BARNFIELD. Within this vault lie interred the remains of Mrs. ELIZABETH BARNFIELD, wife of William Barnfield, Esq., late of Calcutta, merchant, who died on board the "Circassian" a few hours after leaving the roads on the morning of the 21st March 1825, aged 37 years. While indulging in the pleasing anticipations of spending her last days in the company of her relatives and friends, a period was put to her earthly career by violent spasms. How vain and easily destroyed are all the pleasures we promise ourselves in this world!

Mrs Ann Barnfield obiit 2nd December 1804 aet. 39 years (new burial ground, Calcutta)

644 24th Jan. 1836. JOHN ROTTLER . . Rev JOHN ROTTLER, D D, aged 86 years and 7 months and Clara Elizabeth his wife who departed this life 27th September 1827, aged 74 years and 4 months

Rottler was an eminent botanist as well as divine. He was greater still as a linguist, grammarian and translator. He resided in India sixty years, partly at Tranquebar and partly (1803–36) at Madras. He was a native and graduate of Strasburg and on April 27th, 1789, married at Cuddalore the widow of a Dutch sea captain, named Schaak. He arrived at Tranquebar in 1776; went to Madras 1803; was employed by the S.P.G. and subsequently by the S.P.C.K. 1817. He died of paralysis. (Asiatic Journal, Dec 1832). Rottler's Lane adjoins the Vepery Church and contains a bungalow still known as "Rottler's House."

Rottler's diploma in Natural Philosophy was granted to Dr John of Tranquebar and himself in common. It was issued under the imperial authority of Leopold Ist, by Christian Daniel Schreber, President of the imperial academy of natural curiosities and is dated at Erlangen, the 30th April 1795. Dr. Rottler was low in stature and of delicate make. A very pretty description of Swartz's garden was written by him and first appeared in Jaenicke's life. Dr. Claudius Buchanan, who saw him at Tranquebar mentioned him as a good man of retiring disposition and "deficient in energy" (Taylor's Memoir, etc., p. 111-112)

Rev Charles William Pascold died on the 4th November 1817 aged 53½ years and his remains were interred the following day, in the burial ground, adjoining the church by the Rev Dr. Rottler (W. Taylor's Memoir of the First Centenary of the Earliest Protestant Mission at Madras, p 133). His executors were Messrs. S. F. Zachenpel and John Heal (p. 134) Mr. Pascold lived in the Mission House (Gericke's bequeathed one) and Dr. Rottler tenanted another house at the back of the Vepery Church (to the northern end to the mission compound as I understand it) which is not now in being (Taylor's Memoir etc, p. 114)

TABLETS IN ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

The foundation stone of St. Andrew's Church, Madras, was laid on the 7th April 1818. On the 1st September 1815, a public notification was circulated in Madras that the East India Co. had resolved to build a Scottish Church in the Presidency town for the benefit of the Scottish employees and to establish there a Scottish Chaplaincy. The Rev. Dr. Allen who was to be the first Chaplain had already arrived in Madras with authority from the Assembly in Scotland to form a congregation. The site which St. Andrew's Church now occupies was purchased for Rs. 18, 846 and the work of building the Church was put in the hands of Major D. E. Haviland of the Engineers, who had already built St. George's Cathedral. The Church was built at a cost of about Rs. 2,50 000 and the finished building was dedicated in 1821.]

645 8th Dec 1824. JAMES WALKER . Lieutenant Colonel JAMES WALKER 3rd Regiment Madras Light Infantry, who was killed when leading a column of Madras Troops to the storm of the Burmese intrenched lines near Rangoon. Thus fell in the moment of victory at the age of 42 a man whose name is recorded in the annals of his country as "One of India's best and bravest soldiers."

D., Companion of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, formerly Physician-General of the Presidency of Madras, and for many years an Elder of this Church. The benevolence, uprightness and simplicity of his natural character were enhanced and sanctified by the benign influences of Christian faith; and to the exercise of the humane and peaceful duties of the physician, he added the high endurance and intrepidity of the soldier, signally evinced by the gallantry of his conduct in the heroic and memorable conflict of Corygaum. After a life of exemplary usefulness in the service of his country, publicly honored and privately beloved, he died at Ardean in Scotland, in the 63rd year of his age. His fellow-countrymen desiring to testify their sense of his worth have erected this monument.

Capt D. Bruce, Assistant Commissary General, Bengal Army, married at Nagpore on 29th July 1824 Margaret, fifth daughter of the Rev Dr. A. Duncan of Rathe, Midlothian. At the same time and same place John Wylie married July 29th, 1824, Susan, sixth daughter of Rev Dr A. Duncan of Rathe, Midlothian. Wylie was one of the heroes of Corygaum. The date of his arrival in Madras is 8th September 1813 by H. C. Ship Union. His mother died in London on 28th March 1821.

Thomas Wylie, Esq, Surgeon in the service of the Hon E. I Co. at Madras died on November 5, 1818 at Paulvlla, Ceylon. He married at St Mary's Church, April 17th, 1815, Helen, second daughter of T Allan of Lonehead, near Edinburgh. At Elliahpore. Mrs Jane Ogilvie, wife of Capt. Duncan Ogilvie, 2nd Madras Native Infantry and daughter of the Rev Dr A Duncan of Rathe died on 9th April 1821.

647 11th July 1852 GEORGE ADAMS .. GEORGE ADAMS Esq, late Physician-General Madras Establishment, who died in England on the 11th July 1852, aged 71 years, and whose mortal remains were deposited in the chapel of the Kensal Green Cemetery. This tablet is erected as a tribute of esteem and regard by grateful hearts.

He married, June 1st 1824, Mary daughter of G. G Ricketts, late Registrar of the Supreme Court, Madras, at the Residency, Nagpore. One sister Anne, (third daughter) (No. 2630) married Edward Swalley, C.S. on 2 February 1819 at St George's Church, Madras, another Emily Jane (fourth daughter) married John Dent, C S (No 468) on October 5, 1818 at St. George's Church and the youngest Louisa married, March 18th 1823, Captain Bayley, Assistant to the Resident of Nagpore.

648 5th Dec. 1852 WALTER COOK . Lieutenant WALTER COOK, 22nd Regiment, Madras Native Infantry, Sub-Assistant Commissary General in the Army at Ava, who fell mortally wounded in the assault on Pegue, and died at Rangoon in the 29th year of his age. One, who as a youthful soldier, gave high promise of future distinction, and who as a gentleman and Christian justly endeared himself to all who knew him. This tablet is erected by a few of his more intimate friends.

He joined the Madras army as Cadet in 1833 and was Lieut. on October 30, 1836.

This tablet is erected by her husband to whom for 24 years she was ever a most true and devoted wife. Safe in the arms of Jesus. R. W. Lodwick, Bo. C.S., Accountant General of Madras, was son of General Peter Lodwick (1783-1873). Second son of John Lodwick, Esq., of Shoebury, Essex. Peter Lodwick was Resident at Satara and here of Lodwick Point at Mahabaleshwar where his son erected a monument to him in 1874 [Murray's Guide to Bombay: 1881 Edition: page 262]. He entered the Bombay Army as a Cadet in 1799 and died at Bagnéres de Bigorre, France, on August 28, 1873, aged 90. General Lodwick was the first discoverer of Mahabaleshwar as a hill station and he had turned it to account as a Sanitarium. It was in 1824 that he was quartered at Satara when he undertook the difficult and dangerous task of walking alone and unarmed through the dense jungle to Mahabaleshwar. He got through safely but his dog was killed by a panther on the second day. Lodwick Point a fine spur on the hills near the town is named after him and a monument has been erected to his memory.

ROMAN CATHOLIC CATHEDRAL IN ARMENIAN STREET.

[Cathedral Church of St. Mary of Angels.]

The French Capuchin mission of Madras was founded in 1642 under the sanction of Pope Urban VIII by the well-known Father Ephraim. When the friars built their Armenian street church in 1675, they inscribed the date 1642 over the gates as a public record of their first establishment in Madras, and on a later occasion (1721) when the church was repaired and the gates widened, the date was retained. The earliest Capuchins in the city were Ephraim de Nevers, Zénon de Baugé, Cosme de Gien, Jacques de Bourges, Esprit de Tours, Laurent d'Angoulême Michel Ange de Bourges, Rene d'Angoulême and Thomas de Poitiers. The last named built in 1675 the church of St. Andrew within the Fort, which was confiscated and destroyed after Lally's siege (see No. 24). "On 11th May 1687 died Padre Zenone, one of the old French Padres aged 85 years, enterred in the Church" (Love II. Page 45). An interesting account of Father Ephraim will be found in Tavernier. Father Ephraim came from Auxerre in the northern part of the province of Burgundy, on the banks of the Yonne and was a brother of M. de Chateau Les Bois, Counsellor of the Parliament of Paris. In 1694 died Father Ephraim after no less than fifty two years of arduous and self-sacrificing service in Madras. In 1700 the Council dealt with a petition received from 'Padres Michel Ange, Jacques, Esprite and Renato' regarding the recent discontinuance of certain small doles from Government which for many years were issued. Padre Michel Angelus died about the beginning of 1706 and Padre Renatus succeeded him. When Friar Fabino das Bartolomeo went to Madraspatam in 1770–7 he stayed in the Church of St. Andrea in Ospigis dei Cappucini where were Padre Bonaventura of Foligno, P. Medard of Alsace and P. Marcello Allepino and 15 other friars.

691	22nd Feb 1783.	ADRIAN FOURBECK	Here lyeth the body of Mr ADRIAN FOURBECK, a merchant of this city of Madraspatnam, aged 71 years. Born in the East in 1712, he became in due course a member of the Gunroom Crew at Fort St. George. In 1740 when 'a hundred fanam men' he was reported 'disabled, and Superannuated' on a monthly pension of Pags. 1—14—0. He then turned his attention to Mercantile pursuits and in 1741 we find him, in company with Samuel Trentbuck, bidding for remnants of the Company's velvets and broad cloth. Becoming like Trentbuck a successful merchant, he left a legacy to build a bridge on the Mount Road across the Surplus channel of the Long Tank near Saidapett. Half way to the Mount outside the Collector of Chingleput's residence at Lushington's Gardens is a monument with four inscriptions in English Tamil Persian and Latin commemorating Fourbeck's philanthropy in building a bridge. "This Bridge erected as a public benefit from a legacy bestowed by Mr Adrian Fourbeck, a merchant of Madras, is a monument useful as lasting of the good citizen's munificent liberality."

It was erected by his executors, Thomas Pelling, a merchant of 1786, J. de Fries, and P. Bodkin a merchant of 1785 (who died May 1800) from the plan and under the direction of Lieut-Col. Patrick Ross, Chief Engineer in the year of Our Lord 1786, Major-General Sir Archibald Campbell, Knight of the most Hon'ble Order of the Bath, being then Governor of Fort St. George." "Hunc pontem publice commodo prospiciens magnatis ex testimonio pecunia fieri mandavit Adrianus Fourbeck de civitate Madraspatnam municipalis olim et mercator. Rite fieri fecerunt testamenti sua curatores Thomas Pelling, Johannes de Fries et Petrus Bodkin, rebusque hujusmodi suppeditante atque opus pro pontis sua ordinante Patricio Ross rei machinali apud arcem Sancti Georgii præposito A.D. MDCCLXXXVI. Archibaldo Campbell pramobilis ordinis Balnei consecrato milite et copiarum Britannicarum subpræfecto hanc provinciis sinperato præsidente." The bridge referred to is a small one over the Adyar and not the Marmalong bridge as stated in Murray's "Handbook to the Madras Presidency" (1876). The Marmalong Bridge dates from 1726 and was erected by Petrus Uscan as can be seen by the superscription upon it "hoce pontem ædificari curavit pro bono publico Coja Petrus Uscan natione Armeni anno salutis MDCCXXVI." Hodges' Travels in India, p. 8 (speaking of 1780–1) "I made however among others a drawing of Marmalong Bridge which is a very modern work built as I am informed at the private expense of an Armenian Merchant. It is over a small river that runs near the Mount and falls into the sea at a little distance before the village of St. Thomas, 4 miles to the southward of Madras. The church and the dwelling houses of a few Portuguese families yet remain here." "The houses on chunkey plain are many of them beautiful pieces of architecture the apartments spacious and magnificent—I know not that I ever felt more delight than in going on a visit to a family on chunkey plain soon after my arrival at Madras, in the Coal of the evening after a very hot day." Frequent passage of Gun carriages over it had worn away part of the stone pavement, 1785. Uscan's Marmalong Bridge.—Love III 294. Sir Archibald Campbell, Governor from 1786 to 1789, has a resting-place in Poets' Corner Westminster Abbey. His relict Johanna Maria (Mary) died at Madras July 1800 after a short and painful illness. Patrick Ross became M.P. for Horsham in 1802 and died August 24, 1804 (See No. 1008)

701 13th July 1839. ELIZABETH .. ..

Erected by T Chaverymootoo Moodelliar to the memory of his dear child ELIZABETH, god daughter of the venerable and illustrious Abbé Dubois, who departed this life on the 13th July 1839, aged 27 years, leaving her affectionate husband P. Suryahootamaraya Moodelliar with 5 children and numerous affectionate relatives to lament her loss.

The connexion of the Abbé Dubois with this family may perhaps explain the presence of his portrait in the Connemara Library, where he is painted as a white Brahmin from the West, wearing a flowing turban and holding in one hand the seven knotted bamboo staff that tradition assigns to every Hindoo pilgrim. In the presbytery of his former church at Sermapatam was preserved till quite recently the block of wood upon which this turban was daily rolled. Jean Antoine Dubois was born at Saint Remèze in 1765 ordained in the diocese of Viviers in 1792 and left France for Pondicherry in the same year He quitted India on January 16th, 1823 and died at Paris in 1848 His relations with the family of the deceased were very intimate as may be judged from the following letter :—

"Mon cher Chaverymootoo, J' ai reçu votre lettre du 12, et je suis bien sensible à votre souvenir. Je ne sais sur quel fondement s'appuyent les personnes qui soutiennent que la religion chrétienne proscrit la distinction des castes.

Je n' ai jamais vu des preuves de cette assertion vague J'aisoujours été persuadé que la religion chrétienne s'accommodait à tous les usages et institutions civiles des pays où elle s'introduisait; or la distinction des castes n'a toujours paru une institution purement civile dans son origine corrompue dans la suite par des fables absurdes. Cette distinction des castes n'a paru le chef d'oeuvre de la legislation indienne. C'est elle qui a conservé parmi les Indiens, les sciences, les arts et la civilisation, et qui les a preservés d'un état de barbarie. Sans la distinction des castes ces peuples ne seraient pas plus avancés dans la civilisation que leurs voisins les Malais et les autres nations d'Afrique et d'Amerique qui vivent sous la même latitude. Cette distinction des castes a tant d'avantages qu'elle a existé chez la plupart des anciens peuples tels que les Egyptiens, les Israelites etc, et qu'elle existe encore parmi les Indiens, les Arabes, les Tartares, et quant bien même la religion chrétienne deviendrait la dominante dans ces pays cy je pense qu'il serait de l'intérêt de ces peuples de conserver toujours la distinction des castes. Lorsque vous trouverez une occasion favorable, faites moi le plaisir de presenter mes complimente respectueux au Colonel Symons. God bless you all. Yours truly, J. A. Dubois, Pondicherry, 16th July 1814."

The Fennellys were brothers and natives of Cashel in Tipperary, and had been professors at Maynooth College before commencing their missionary labours in India. A nephew was appointed (1901) Coadjutor-Bishop to Archbishop Croke (of Cashel) with right of succession. The portrait of John was painted by Simon Fonseca, and that of Stephen by John Fonseca better known as a delineator of horses. Both pictures hang in the Archbishop's House in Armenian Street, together with the portraits of Dr. O'Connor, first Irish Bishop of Madras and of Dr. Patrick Joseph Carew, his coadjutor Bishop of Philadelphia in Isauria (Asia Minor), who was subsequently transferred to Calcutta and died there. In the same Hall is a large oil painting of St. Patrick, in the act of destroying the statue of Dagon and replacing it by an image of the Virgin Mary. In the foreground a snake-bitten child is held up to be healed by the Apostle of Ireland beneath whose feet the serpents and reptiles of the country are fleeing in confusion. The artist of this remarkable picture was an Italian lay brother employed as gardener in the mother house of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate near Milan. The society has a museum in Burmah and a curious story is told of a brother once arriving in Madras and recognising himself as having stood when a boy as model for the crozier holder to St. Patrick in this very picture.

704	14th Aug. 1888	MICHAEL GOULD .	Of your charity pray for the soul of the late MICHAEL GOULD, Esq., LL.D., Barrister-at-Law, Administrator General of Madras, aged 48 years.

Mr. Gould was a well-known member of Madras Society. He left considerable benefactions to the Roman Catholic community, and his likeness hangs in the Archbishop's House.

He joined service as acting clerk of the Crown and Crown Prosecutor on 1st March 1871.

CATHEDRAL OF SAN THOMÉ, MYLAPORE.

[' San Thome ', a large village situated on the sea-shore, 4 miles below Madras. When the Portuguese were powerful in India, it was a place of considerable consequence : no traces of its former masters now remain, but five or six desolate churches and the old casiga staff nodding o'er the beach!]

705 — 68 A.D. — Saint Thomas — Hic spectabili referente veteri traditione corpus est humatum B. Thomæ Apostoli, qui cum diceretur Didymus et unus esset de duodecim, lance transfixus in vastina vitam pro fide effudit Magistri, A.D. 68. In quorum fidem Henricus primus instauratae (A.D. 1886) dioceseos Episcopus Meliaporensis, cum ecclesiam vetustam hic existentem ampliandam ab imis fundamentis de nove erigendam curasset, opere feliciter completo tabellam hanc confidendam mandavit et ipse hic locavit 1896.

The tradition is that St. Thomas was martyred at the Mount, which bears his name, and buried at Mylapore. This memorial tablet was fixed by Monsignor Henry Reed da Silva in the centre of the new Cathedral over the crypt which is said to mark the site of the grave.

706 — 3rd Sept. 1557 — Ruivas de Sequeira. — Aqui jaz Ruivas de Sequeira, natural de Guimarais, faleceo aos 3 de Setembro de 1557 annos.

Guimarães is a town near Braga and the birthplace in 1094 of Affonso I, first king of Portugal, and founder of the Braganza line.

Guimaraens in Portugal is said to be the birth place in 304 of San Damasa Papa whose day in the Calendar is 11th Dec. He was the 38th Pope (Notis Virgilio Vescovo 27 Nove San Nap Oleons. Confessorio Martere 15 Aug. 305 Irsh.)

She was buried "in the Cathedral church of St. Thomé." Charles Smith, who was writer in 1753, became member of Council in 1774 and acted as Governor of Fort St. George from November 8th, 1780 to June 22nd, 1781. His ancestor was a Huguenot emigrant of the name of Lefevre, who took the name of Smith (Faber). Charles Smith's brother Culling Smith was a writer on the Bengal Establishment in the year of the Black Hole, but was away from Calcutta at the time. He was created a Baronet in 1802 and became the maternal grandfather of Hugh Culling Eardley Childers (see No. 2295). The parents of Charles and Culling Smith were Thomas Smith a London merchant, and Culling sister and co-heiress of John Horne, Governor of Bombay from September 1734 to April 1739. Charles Smith married first Elizabeth Carvalho on February 10, 1762 and secondly Miss Frances Law on Sept. 2, 1772. Mrs Maria Carvalho died at Madras 3 June 4th 1791 aged 75, and her mother Mrs Holcomb on the 18th March of the same year at the age of 94. 			An ancient looking black stone in one of the outer walls, commemorating the building of the church in 1516, by a Franciscan friar. The tradition goes that when the Portuguese first arrived on this coast, they were uncertain where to establish themselves; but at length saw a light which they regarded as a divine intimation. On settling they built a church on the site of the manifestation and called it Luz, that is the Light. This stone is the oldest European inscription in India.

The English Governor answered him as follows:—"I acknowledge your civility in giving me notice of your determination, but I admire at your usurpation of an authority which did not belong to your predecessor, nor to yourself and successors, viz., to appoint vicars in any place under the English Government. You have made a wrong account, and if you would reckon right, must begin again. In this case I ought to deal plainly with you, that no foreign Episcopal authority can be admitted within the limits of our jurisdiction, and that you are not Governor or Bishop of Cuddalore no more than of Madras. But as your reverence is Bishop or Governor of Mehapore, I congratulate your accession to that authority, and desire and embrace your friendly and neighbourly correspondence; in pursuance of which I acquaint your reverence that I have determined to permit Padre Guilelmus a Valle, of the order of the Theatines to reside at Cuddalore in the room of Padre Don John De Cierici deceased. ARMENIAN CHURCH IN ARMENIAN STREET

Erected in 1712, rebuilt in 1772 The bulk of the information in the notes below has been supplied by Mr Manuvk J Seth of Calcutta, author of the "History of the Armenians in India." The Armenians entered India in the wake of the Moghul emperors Some of the epitaphs in the old cemetery of Agra go back to the age of Akbar

754 11th June 1765 ANNA SHAMEER .. This room (Semeak) was erected in 1765 to the memory of the pious lady ANNA, wife of SHAMEER, aged 41 years. (Translation)

755 7th July 1787 ELEAZAR SHAMEER. In this tomb is interred the noteworthy ELEAZAR SHAMEER, an Armenian, who was born at Madras where he departed to life eternal at the age of 29, on the 7th day of July 1757 [sic] (Translation)

756 6th Sept 1787 ISABELLA BOX . Hic jacet the body of ISABELLA, the wife of JOHN CHARLES WILKINS BOX Esq , aged 18 years, 9 months and 10 days

"J C W Box formerly writer to Mr Porcher from England 1783, now in gaol" E I. Kalendar for 1791

757 13th June 1787. SHAMEER SULTAN Here lies interred the body of the noble SHAMEER SOOLTHANO MRAN, an Armenian, who was born at New Julfa on the 4th November 1723 and died here at Madras on Saturday the 13th day of June 1797, aged 74 years (Translation).

The site of the present Armenian Church, formerly a burial ground was granted by him in 1772 His wife, Anam, had been buried there in 1765 in the family vault. There existed at one time in Madras an oil painting of Agah Shameer Sultan, dressed in Armenian costume and in the national head gear with the following articles arranged before him a pair of scissors a yard measure , a pair of scales with small weights for weighing precious stones, and an ink pot and quill. This was adopted as the crest of the Shameer family, and is carved on all their tombstones He had three sons, Jacob, who died at Malacca on 7th July 1774 aet. 29 (See Blandi s Historical Tombstones of Malacca), Johannes, who died at Madras in 1834 aged 77, and Eleazar (No 755), who died in 1787 His youngest daughter Mrs Aratoon Jacob died at Madras on Sunday the 30th January 1796 and at the age of 46 years. Arrathoon Jacob died on 13th April 1804, aged 67 years and 18 days. Mrs Anna Seth of the Armenian Nation died on 4th March 1806, aged 48 years at George town, Lieut. David Chambers, H. M. 8th Regt., married Hosanna Arathoon on 17th Feb. 1814

Coja Nazar Jacob Jan an inhabitant of Madras since 1702, who is mentioned in 1740 as the owner of a house in Charles Street died leaving his estate to Coja Sultan David, father of Shawmier Sultan. Sultan David s house in Charles Street, which was doubtless the building owned by Jacob Jan is an historic edifice. As the Admiralty house it eventually became the town residence of the Governor of Madras and the scene of many public entertainments It is now the office of the Accountant General It passed on to Shawmier after the death of his father Coja Sultan David. Richard Prince while Deputy Governor of Madras lived in it Robert Clive also lived in it afterwards as a tenant. The house was ultimately acquired by the Company

1820. A Sarkies de Agavally died at Calcutta, February 7th, 1736, aged 48.

Robert Burn married Susanna Sateor at Chingleput, Dec. 30, 1778.

759 9th Feb, 1824. ARRATOON SHUMAVON. THE ARRATOON SHUMAVON, aged 74 years.

The Rev. Arratoon Shumavon (or Simeon), a native of Shiraz, published in 1794 when incumbent of the Armenian Church at Madras the first known Armenian newspaper, under the name of the "Azdarar" or Intelligencer which lasted for eighteen months. Its centenary was celebrated in 1894 by Armenian journalists throughout the world, and in the same year the Mekitharist religious society at Vienna published a life and portrait of the father of Armenian journalism. It was at the monastery of this order on the island of St. Lazard near Venice, that Byron studied Armenian in 1816 and wrote to Mr Murray, 'I find the language (which is twin, the liberal and the vulgar) difficult, but not invincible; at least I hope not. I shall go on. I found it necessary to twist my mind round some severer study, and this, as being the hardest I could devise here, will be a file for the serpent.' The quill pen and the inkstand used by the poet are still preserved in the monastery, and may be seen in "Byron's Room" where he studied.

There is a statue of Byron in the adjoining gardens of the Zappeion at Athens, which takes its scene from the two brothers Zappa, who gave the building for the purpose of holding exhibitions of Greek industries. Byron lived a stone's throw. The Franciscan convent whence he wrote "I am living with a friar (a capuchin of course), a friar (a handy-legged Turkish cook), two albanian savages, and a Dragoman" has long disappeared. Its site is an irregular open space surrounding the monument of Lysicrates, a structure which figures in manuals of Greek art as the earliest example of Corinthian. It is columnar and about six feet in diameter, with no means of access and isolated, so that the story that it served as a study would seem at first sight to be a myth. It is explained, however, by the fact that the monument was enervated in an angle of the convent, where it formed a sort of alcove and was used as a book closet. Dodwell who was there before Byron, has an engraving showing the arrangement in his "Classical Tour." It was a handy retreat, and there is little doubt that in it Byron wrote at least, "The Curse of Minerva" which he dated "Capuchin Convent, Athens, March 17, 1811." The scene of the depredations of the "Pictish peer" overhangs the spot. Lord Elgin in all probability saved those marbles for posterity, notwithstanding many a statue went into the lime kiln in those days.

760 21st May 1833. CORAMBEGUMEE LEEMBRUGGEN. MRS. CORAMBEGUMEE LEEMBRUGGEN who died at Negapatam. This cenotaph was erected by the Madras Armenian Orphans' fund in gratitude of her unparalleled benevolence towards it

She was born in 1778 at Surat, which at one time contained an influential colony of Armenians and where her husband was a Dutch factor. She left 40,000 rupees to the Armenian poor in Calcutta and has a monument in the Church of St. Nazareth of that place on which her Christian name is given as Hrip-simah, after a celebrated Armenian martyr.

She was the wife of Robertus Henricus Leembruggen, born 1780, son of Henricus Leembruggen of Leyden (chief of the cinnamon, (Mahabadde).

761 28th April 1835. .. ARCHIEPISCOPOS CATCHATHOOR. ARCHIEPISCOPOS CATCHATHOOR, delegate from the See of Etchmeatzen, aged 60 years.

The monastery of Etchmiatzin, the Vatican of Armenia and the seat of its spiritual head the Catholicos, was built during the reign of King Tiridates in the early part of the fourth century A.D at Valarshapat in the vicinity of Mount Ararat.

JEWISH BURIAL GROUND IN MINT STREET

The cemetery is at the Memorial Hall end of Mint Street. Urquhart calls it the Hebrew burying ground at Hoghill. His curious name has not survived, but there is a Hogtown (Pig village) in the Eurasian quarter of Vellore. A large spreading tree in this cemetery has caught hold of what is an apparent gravestone and lifted it bodily in the air. At Agra is a similar Phenomenon of a "skyed tombstone."

In the Cantonment cemetery at Agra among the quiet graves may be witnessed to-day the last act in Nature's grim outrage on the dead. In that hallowed spot where hearts have bowed in prayer, a giant peepul tree spreading its roots with unrelenting force has, after a hundred years, exhumed all that remains of the unknown sleeper. The story of Agra's great peepul tree and its captive is told in Capt. Kable's interesting poem, " A Wondrous Tree," from which the following is quoted :—

> " Beside a woman's sculptured tomb had grown
> A stately palm, that drooped high o'er the stone,
> Its plume-like crest, as though by grief distraught,
> Meanwhile, its stem a peepul seed had caught,
> Which, germinating, fragile tendrils bred,
> That crept to earth, took root, gained strength, and spread
> There, nourished well, they throve, waxed tough entwined,
> Climbed, coalesced, contorted, coiled, combined,
> Suppressed the palm till flow of sap was stopped,
> And reft of life, its branches—strangled—dropped!
> Anon, a peepul tree a huge trunk there stood,
> Of cording, curving, convoluting wood,
> With boughs and foliage ranged wide o'erhead,
> Whose girth, enlarging as the seasons sped,
> Transgressed the hallowed tomb's encircling zone,
> Until it touched and even grasped the stone.
> Then Lo! the tree—strange innate force applied—
> Enfolded in its embrace the sculptured wide,
> And marvellously raised both plinth and thron
> To where they gleam forth now, high in the stem!"

762 | 17th Sept. 1687. | Jaques de Paiva . | A. S. Do Bemventurado Barton Jaques de Paiva, falesco em 10 de Tesri 5548, anno A criaçã do mundo, Correspondeo : a. 17 : Setembro 1687.

James Faivs or Favis " a Hebrew diamond Merchant of Madras " is mentioned as "married" in a list of freemen living in Fort St. George 1686. His widow kept house for Elihu Yale during the latter years of his Governorship (1687 to 1692). Madam Hirrourra Favia is always called a Portuguese Jewess. She has buried at the Cape of Good Hope, beside her child Charles Yale, styled son of the former Governor of Madras, and it is recorded on her tombstone that the mother came from India to be buried by her little son's side, anno 1712. (Fennant's 'Tour in Wales' I; 401) The inscription "as copied by the Dutch Governor Letsn is as follows :—" Hic inest in tumulo Carolus Yale, filius Domini Yale, quondam Gubernator Madraes —spatamim reenon Jeronimus de Paibis, mirens admodum inclytus virtutes et etiam elegans, unigenitus sum maioris et sui patris filius unicus. Vivens ab omnibus amatus, nunc maximus deplorates, natus fuit in Madrassapetamia et hic obiit Junyr. Vicesimo tertio anno ætatis sum vicesimo secundo annoque Domini 17 $\frac{23}{12}$ Sepulta etiam est his mater cum Jeronima de Paibis,' quæ pro amore sui filii reliquit Indiam, ut cum illo hic iaceret." Elihu Yale occupied with this lady and Mrs. Nicks one of the old houses which may still be seen on the bank of the Cooum between Government House and the General Hospital. The houses stand back from the little frequented road which runs through Napier park and along the side of the river to Chintadrepet Bridge. There are remains of stone and, brick work which show that the gardens were once very extensive (see Nos. 15 and 712). Jaques de Paiva L. Domingo and De Forte, "Hebrew merchants," were among the Aldermen of Madras in 1688.

763 | 10th May 1709. | Isaac Abendana Sardo. | Here lies the body of Isaac Abendana Sardo of Madras, Hebrew merchant, who died the 10th of May anno 1709, in the 49th year of his age. (Coat of Arms.)

Abendana is referred to as a well known diamond merchant by Governor Pitt in a letter dated January 28, 1702–3 (Dalton's Pitt p. 274)

He is said to be a Dutch Jew He was a diamond merchant of Madras.

Abendana died, appointing Thomas Pitt trustee for his estate. The Governor who was about to leave India, declared the trust and as Mrs. Abendana was illiterate, four persons were nominated, two by her and two by the councils to go through the deceased merchant's papers (Love II, p. 7 and note 2.)

Mr Abendana's widow is referred to in the following general letter of Governor Harrison and Council to the Court of Directors, dated September 16th, 1713: "The design of erecting a charity school or schools at this place is a very noble one, and worthy of the Honourable Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge. We will not only be ready to adjust them with the power you have given us, but also with our purses, and do not doubt many of our inhabitants will do the same, if the persons they send out are of tempers and qualifications fit for the undertaking. But we hope they will be English and not foreigners. The Danish missionaries have not wanted for our assistance on all occasions, though we must still continue of opinion that they spend a great deal of the Society's money to little or no purpose; and though there may be some good men among them there is one very turbulent person, of whose principles you may please to judge by his contriving the escape of Mr. Abendana's widow from her creditors here to Tranquebar and marrying her though a Jew to a Christian by the way" The turbulent missionary was probably J. G. Bevingh whose acts and whose books troubled Fenger a great deal in writing his History of the Tranquebar Mission.

764	5th June 1745.	Abraham Salomons.	Here lieth the body of Abraham Salomons. His diligence, industry, honesty and punctuality in all his dealings justly gained him the reputation of a good merchant; his courtesy and benevolence to all degrees of mankind made him to be both beloved and respected. After a course of xix years residence in this place, he departed this life on the v June of the year mdcclxv of the Christian Æra. David and Solomon Salomons in public testimony and regard to the memory of their deceased brother caused this monument to be erected.

The name of the Salomons' firm crops up in the correspondence of the Nabob of Arcot. Solomon Salomons arrived in the Grantham 1733 Had free merchant's indenture. "Ephraim Isaac late a free merchant at Fort St. George complains of severe and illegal treatment received from Pigot and prays that Pigot may be ordered home in order that he may be sued in the English Courts Pigot is to reply by the first conveyance"—Company's Despatch to Pigot March 3, 1759.

765	11th May 1763.	Solomon Franco..	The body of Mr Solomon Franco, a native of Leghorn, and an eminent Hebrew merchant of Madras, lies under this stone He died on the 18th of the month Yiar, A.M 5523 (or the 11th May 1763).

Several lines in Hebrew precede.

Solomon Franco arrived in the Princess of Wales 17th January 1743 Had free Merchant's indenture A Franco died at Lucknow July 1, 1799 Garden Houses of Solomon Franco and Walsh were marked in maps of 1753 (map of 1753 for Fedalanuques Pedu) The small Portuguese Church near Franco's Garden (mentioned in the siege of "Madras 1758") is probably that of the virgin in Portuguese Church Street, which, like the Cathedral in Armenian Street, bears on its portals the misleading figures 1642. Solomon Franco's house in the Fort to be used for a Hospital (Mr. Call's Report on Defence Measures) Coral was consigned to Fort St. George in 1725 on the Lyons by the five firms:—Abraham Mendes, Abraham Franks, Moses Julian, Abraham and Jacob Franco, and John Baptiste Mayer. The principal merchants in Madras were Marcus Moses, Abraham Solomons and Aaron Franks.

MUSEUM COMPOUND, PANTHEON ROAD.

766 | 16th May 1727. | JOANNES CONSTANTINUS | Ecoute Kestal 'Iouvvas CONSTANTINUS qui consummatus in brevi explevit tempora multa, orundus ex Græca natus in Armenia obiit XVI May ætatis suæ LII. Grati animi laboris opus monumentum hoc posuit frater eius GEORGIUS CONSTANTINUS' Christianus anno domini MDCCLXVII.

This slab was found at Messrs. Arbuthnot's Cement Works, Perambore, and is now in the Museum Gardens. The inscription is most difficult to decipher, and several lines are not readable. The stone stands in two pieces, the upper portion containing the Greek words. Its interest lies in the fact of its being the only Greek tombstone found in South India. It is considerably more ancient than any of the Greek monuments in Calcutta. The oldest epitaph there written in Greek dates from 1777, August 5th, and commemorates Alexander Argery, of Philippopolis, the Arabic interpreter of Cuthbert Thornhill, who built a church for his countrymen in gratitude for his safe return from so many voyages. Another Greek monument of 1820 is to be found at Benares with these words: "The stranger Demetrius Galanus the Athenian to the stranger Peter Fedoroff, the Russian." Galanus died May 3rd, 1833, and is buried in Calcutta.

Another Greek monument of 1828 at Delhi, 16 August 1828: Michael Kozyack. "Sacred to the memory of Michael Kozyack 'shopkeeper in Delhi" who departed this life on the 16th day of August 1828. Born in Vienna of Greek parentage. Aged about 40 years, erected by his friend Manuel Athanne." (Graves in old cemetery by Post office, Delhi)

THE MANILLA TROPHY.

767 | 6th Oct 1762 | Monument to General Draper and Admiral Cornish. | Britannia Victrix. The emperial trophies of the success of the British arms at Manilha are erected by an order of Council in honour of the bravery of the land and sea forces on that expedition under the command of Brigadier General Draper and Rear Admiral Cornish. Manilha taken by storm October VI, MDCCLXII.

This stone originally stood in the Arsenal, where a number of trophies were arranged round it in a semicircle. It is now in the compound of the Madras Museum. Sir William Draper (1721–1787) erected a cenotaph on Chitan Dewas near his house to the memory of the officers of his Regiment who fell in the Carnatic and in Manilla. As several members of Draper's regiment lie buried in South Indian graveyards, the inscription finds place here. The monument consists of a raised tomb supporting a large vase surmounted by a funeral urn. On the ends of the vase are the following Latin verses which do credit to their author, who was an Etonian and a Fellow of King's College Cambridge :—

"Siste gradum, a quis est Britonum tibi cura, viator,
Siste gradum ; vacuo recline inscripta sepulcro
Trutra fata virûm, quos bellicus arsit Eoum
Proh dolor ! haud unquam redituros miseris in orbem
Nec tibi sit lugere pudor, si forte tuorum
Nomina sola legas, sed cum terroque marique
Invictos horum animos et facta revolvas,
Si Patriæ te tangat amor si fama Britannum,
Parce triumphales lacrymis aspergere lauros
Quin si Asiæ penetrare sinus, atque ultima Gangis
Pandere claustra pares, Indosque lacessere bello,
Ex his virtutem discas verumque laborem,
Fortunam ex aliis."

And beneath on a tablet : "Sacred to the memory of those departed warriors of the 79th Regiment by whose valour, discipline and perseverance, the French land forces in Asia were first withstood and repulsed, the commerce of Great Britain preserved, her settlements rescued from impending destruction. The memorable defence of Madras, the decisive battle of Wandewash, twelve strong and important fortresses, three capes, capitals, Arcot, Pondicherry, Manilla, and the Philippine Islands, are lasting monuments of their military glory. Their generous treatment of a vanquished enemy exhibits an illustrious example of true fortitude and moderation, worthy of being transmitted to latest posterity, that future generations may know humanity is the characteristic of British conquerors." The sides of the table are inscribed with the names of the officers of the 79th Regiment, who fell in Asia. "Field officers. Major Cholmondeley killed at Wandewash 22 January 1760 [He assumed command of the army after Lawrence's departure 1759 and pending the arrival of Coote], C Brereton, J Mare (buried at Gyretty near Chandernagore, 26th January 1758), Captains Kinlath, Steward, Wingfield, Delaval, Chisholm (buried at Cuddalore, 14th July 1761), Cheshyre, Upfield, Strahan, Muir, Moore. Lieutenants Whaley, Major George Browne (buried at Pullalore, North Arcot, 27th August 1761), Hopkins, Robinson, T Browne, LeGrand, Winchelsea, Renton, Campbell, Fryer, Turner, Kuhbell, Boucher, Burtsed Hardwicke; Ensigns. Collins, Vasleyte, LaTour, Harlar, MacMahon; Surgeons. Smith, Atherton." At the ends of the tomb in small oval tables are these words : "Siege of Madras raised, February 17th 1759. Conjeveram taken by storm, April 13th 1759. Battle of Wandewash gained, January 22nd 1760; Arcot recovered, February 10th 1760. Carical taken, April 8th 1760; the lines of Pondicherry stormed, September 10th 1760, Pondicherry surrendered, January 16th 1761. Manilla taken by storm, October 6th." (See "Asiatic Annual Register" for 1799, page 198; Urquhart, volume I at the end.), at Condore 7th December 1757 killed Capt Joseph Adnott; wounded, Donnell and Capts. Johnstone, Maguire, Lieut Moranwick.

"An attack of fever gave Draper so utter a disgust to the country that he would stay here no longer. His departure is much regretted." (Paget, July 28, 1759).

THE STATUE OF LORD CORNWALLIS.

768 Oct. 1805. Lord Cornwallis.

The Statue of Lord Cornwallis was inside the Fort St. George till 1906 when it was decided to remove it to a more appropriate place owing to the destructive effects of the sea air and red dust. It was at first decided by Government that the statue should remain in its former position as Mr Gajpar, a well known Bombay sculptor to whose care the work of repair was entrusted, assured them that it would be weatherproof after the surface of the marble had been renovated. But even after renovation it was found that the sea air was again attacking it and that the surface was decaying owing to exposure to rain. The Government after mature consideration transferred the statue from its position in the Fort to one end of the large and spacious reading room of the Connemara Public Library in the compound of the Madras Museum. The marble floor on which the circular pedestal of the statue is placed, stands on a strong brick foundation. The height of the pedestal is about 5½ feet, and it has four panels, one of which bears the following inscription :—

"The statue is erected by a general vote at the joint expenditure of the principal inhabitants of Madras, and of the Civil and Military servants of the East India Company belonging to the Presidency of Fort St. George as a grateful testimony of the high sense they entertained of the conduct and actions of the most noble Marquis Cornwallis during the time he held the high offices of the Governor-General and the Commander in-Chief of all the Forces in India."

The other panels contain an illustrated history of Lord Cornwallis's connection with the Mysore War.

The statue was the work of the sculptor Thomas Banks of London, in 1799 and is about 9 feet high.

About the Mausoleum and Altar Tomb erected over the remains of Lord Cornwallis on the left banks of the Ganges a little above Ghazeepore in the Benares district, information is given in Asiatic Journal of May 1824.

Karikal 14 January 1817.

Yanam 2 April 1817.

Mahe 22 February 1818, with difficulty because, as says Capt. Fraser, it was the army of Tippoo that previously occupied Mahe.

It is curious that the same Renault de St. Germain who made so gallant a defence of Chandernagore afterwards in 1780 surrendered Karikal after so feeble a defence or resistance that Lally the French Commander in Chief said he deserved death and he actually was tried and cashiered. (Crawford: History of Hughli Dt.).

Pondicherry: "Little or nothing of the fortifications of this once famous place is now visible; and a small remnant of brick work, on which stands a flagstaff, something like the portion of a tower is all that the traveller sees in any way resembling a military wall." (Hervey II—Page 378)

Vous qui lisez Cecy priez Dieu pour le repos de leurs âmes Requiem æternam dona eis Domine
896	7th Jan. 1785.	CHARLES MARQUIS DE BUSSY,	Cygit CHARLES JOSEPH MARQUIS DE BUSSY ET DE CASTELLENOU, lieutenant général, commandant des troupes de terra et de mer de tous les établissemens français au delà du Cap de Bonne Esperance, gouverneur des établissemens français de l'Inde, décédé à Pondichéry le 7 Janvier MDCCLXXXV.

Born at Bugy near Soissons in 1718. He lost his father at an early age and inherited nothing but his pedigree came out to the Ile de France at the time that Labourdonnais was Governor, and formed one of his expedition to India in 1746. When Labourdonnais returned to Europe Bussy remained behind as an officer of Dupleix's army. He accompanied Muzaffer Jung to the Deccan in his disastrous expedition against the insurgent Afghan Chiefs in which the latter was killed. After his death he procured the appointment of Salabat Jung to the vacant throne of the Nizam and practically made of him a French prefect. His handful of Europeans soon became the nucleus of a powerful army. Such ascendancy aroused many enemies. During his absence in January 1753 at the coast recruiting his health, the minister Said Lashkar withheld all allowances due to his troops with a view to breaking up the force. Bussy rose from his bed and marched straight to Aurungabad, where the Court was, and obtained a cession of four provinces (afterwards known as the Northern Circars) for the pay of his corps. The following year his astonishing military success at the siege of Savanore inflamed the old resentment against him, and in 1756 Bussy and his troops were peremptorily dismissed from service. The Nizam had meanwhile applied to the English for assistance to drive out the French and the request was about to be granted, when the news of the capture of Calcutta diverted every British soldier northward. Bussy, after staving off an attack from Salabat Jung, regained all his old authority. He had been seven years founding the interest of his nation in the Deccan, when Lally's advent destroyed his power. He was recalled from his territories to carry out Lally's views and operations further south, in 1758. Two years later he was captured at Wandewash by Coote, but liberated in consideration of his generous treatment to English prisoners. After an absence of twenty three years he returned to Pondicherry as Governor in 1783, but so many years of sloth and luxury had impaired his faculties and with the treaty of Versailles all military operations ceased. It was during his sojourn in France that Orme made his acquaintance. To quote his words, "the only man of distinguished capacity who served under Dupleix was M. Bussy, and his conduct to this officer showed that he knew the value of merit, and was capable of employing it to the utmost advantage, for although M. Bussy had, by his expedition to the northward, acquired much reputation and a great fortune, he beheld his successes without the least envy, and implicitly followed his advice in all affairs of which M. Bussy, by his situation, might be a better judge than himself."

Bussy when in France, married a niece of the Duc de Choiseul. He died on January 17th 1788 [sic], in the evening: as he was playing at cards. Barras in his memoirs draws a very uncomplimentary picture of him after he returned to India in his old age.

Anquétil du Perron refers to the death of Bussy on p. Historique et Géographique de L'Inde Vol. III.

Silvere Bruyloft gehouden op den 16de Jannuary en in de Heere ontslapen den 13de Maart Ao 1763 "Here lies buried Mr. Casper Conrad Smith of Hamburg in his lifetime book-keeper and first resident over the commercial factory here, who lived in this vale of tears 53 years 2 months and 16 days and held his silver wedding on the 16th January, and fell asleep in the Lord 13th March 1763." A huge granite slab 9 feet by 3½ lying at the entrance to St. Mary's Church and removed here from an adjoining graveyard. It is now used as a doorstep. The ground where the stone lies was registered previous to the last revenue settlement in the name of a Dutch firm of merchants. There are still ruins of old Dutch fortifications at the Cape. "Comorin" is a Portuguese corruption of Kaaya Kumari, the virgin goddess Durga, whose white temple crowns the extremity of the peninsula. It is one of the five renowned bathing places of India.

He built the famous Travancore times which were taken by Tippoo in 1790 and also the fort of Udayagiri, the walls of which enclose a hill, 38 miles south east of Trevandrum. He is still remembered among the natives under the name "Istash," a corruption of Eustache.

De Lanney has buried in the ruined Chapel of the Udayagiri Fort in South Travancore. "Lanoy" was a subher, probably a sergeant under the Dutch at Cochin or Quilon. he deserted in 1740 to Travancore. He was later appointed Commander in Chief of Martanda Varma's disciplined forces said to have amounted to 50,000 men and served that Government for 27 years, died at the age of 62 while giving the finishing touches to the famous Travancore Lines which checked Haider Ali and Tippu.

The Right Worshipful Adrian Moens while deprecating the desertion of De Lannoy and one Duyvenscht, considered it was due to their inability to rise to higher rank than Sergeant and blamed the system for depriving them of the services of good men and thus wing them into arms of their opponents—(Dutch Records by A. Galletti, Rev. A. J. Van Der Burg & Revd P. Groot, pages 28 and 236).

Orme in Vol. I, p. 400, under date 1755 writes "With the assistance of a French Officer named Lannoy the King (of Travancore) had disciplined in the method of European infantry a body of 10,000 nairs."

"With their right flank thoroughly protected by this work (The Travancore Lines) the Travancoreans in 1762 launched themselves under their General Eustachius Benedictus de Lannoy in three divisions on the Zamorin's garrisons, extending in a long weak line into Cochin Territory at Cranganore, Paroor and Verapoly. The defeat of the Zamorin was rapidly achieved and his troops were completely and finally driven from Cochin Territory."

The name D'Lanno, the great Dutch Commander who organized and disciplined the Travancore Army and fought with it against the ancient Rajahs and Chiefs of the Pandyan Kingdoms and won distinction for Travancore is a household word in Travancore and it must be added that the first attempt at the formation of a fighting force with Western arms of warfare was by Though a Dutchman by birth and education, after he took service under the Travancore Rajah he worked hard and well to keep up the prestige of Travancore and it was due to him that Travancore was saved on many an occasion from foreign invasion.

922	11th June 1813	JOHN PHILIP WINFIELD	Sacred to the memory of Major J. P. WINFIELD of the 2nd Batt., 11th Regt., who died near this place at Arungoulur, Quilon on the 11th of June 1813, aged 38 years. Never was a purer or more exalted mind that which once animated the dust that sleeps below, nor were the propensities he inherited from nature enfeebled by inaction or wasted by injudicious effort. He was a living spring of beneficence to all around him and feelings of esteem and regard were become inseparably associated with his name. In the enjoyment of honourably earned reputation and whilst fondly exulting in those newly formed ties which promised domestic bliss to his future years he sank into an untimely tomb. The officers of the corps which he commanded erected this monument as a faint tribute to his public and private worth and as a mark of their unavailing sorrow for his irreparable loss He married at Quilon, March 2nd, 1812, a daughter of Gen Hall (No. 2739) commanding the Travancore Subsidiary Force).

933	8th Feb 1847.	SIR WALTER SCOTT, Bart.	Lieut-Colonel SIR WALTER SCOTT Bart., of Abbotsford House, and of the 14th Hussars, who died at sea on the 8th February 1847, aged 45

Walter Scott the poet (1771–1832) married, December 24th, 1797, Margaret Charlotte (d. May 14th, 1826), sister of Charles Carpenter, M.C.S. (No 2315) The deceased was his eldest son born October 28th, 1801, and married, February 3rd, 1825, to Jane, daughter of John Jobson of Lochore, co Fife. He died without issue on board the Wellesley off the Cape, when the baronetcy became extinct. Walter Scott's other son Charles, godson of Charles Carpenter was educated at B.N.C., Oxford, and became attaché to the British embassy at Teheran, where he died unmarried October 28th, 1841. It is interesting to note in this connection that the second son of Dickens Walter Landor, died in Calcutta December 31st, 1863, of Mesenteric-mass, a cadet on the Bengal establishment On the new year's Day 1864 he was buried in the military Cemetry Bhowanipore The Burial Register gives his age as 24 but according to Forster's "Life of Charles Dickens" he was within a month of completing his twenty third year and had been doing duty with the 42nd Highlanders. Dickens' sons, all had literary names, Alfred Tennyson (in Australia) Edward Bulwer Lytton (also in Australia). Henry Fielding, K. C., and Sidney Smith (in the navy; died at sea)

Mr Henry Fielding Dickens, K C, is the 6th son of the famous novelist, and the latter at first thought of naming him Oliver Goldsmith. Dickens certainly paid tribute to literature in the names of sons. One was named Walter Landor; another Francis Jeffrey, third Alfred Tennyson, a fourth Sydney Smith Haldimand and a fifth Edward Bulwer Lytton. Henry Fielding was something of a favourite with his father who was particularly pleased when he gained a scholarship at Cambridge Mr Dickens, K. C., has a son who is a barrister Edward Bulwer Lytton, also was in Calcutta sometime. He died at Sydney at 51, after representing Wilcannia in the New South Wales Parliament for six years Alfred Tennyson also settled in Australia Sidney Smith entered the navy and at 20 was buried at Sea Francis Jeffery joined the north west mounted police. Charles and Henry Fielding remained in their native land.

947	13th Nov 1782	WILLIAM BAILLIE	To the memory of Colonel WILLIAM BAILLIE who, with a detachment of British troops under his command, after a noble and most gallant resistance to a superior force of the enemy on the plains of Perambancum was ultimately compelled to surrender to the united armies of Hyder Ally and Tippoo Sultaun on the 10th day of September 1780 and died in the fortress of Seringapatam on the 13th day of November 1782. This monument is erected and inscribed by his nephew JOHN BAILLIE Lieut.-Colonel on the establishment of Bengal and Resident at the Court of Lucknow A.D. 1816 Monument just outside the mausoleum of Hyder and Tippoo—Perambancum (see No. 1454), the scene of the most grievous disaster that has as yet befallen the British arms in India, is 16 miles north east of Conjeveram. The best account of Baillie's defeat is that given by the Hon. John Lindsay, who was himself captured, there in the "Lives of the Lindsays" volume III, page 256. The younger Lally, Pumorin and the other French officers serving with Hyder prevented much subsequent slaughter. The walls of the Darya Daulat Bagh (formerly Tippoo's favourite garden and subsequently the residence of the Duke of Wellington) are covered with grotesque fresco paintings of the battle. Hickey's "Gazette" of October 14th, 1780 gives the following return of officers killed, wounded and taken— "Killed Lieut.-Colonel Fletcher, Capts Phillips, Ferrier, Nixon Powell, Lieutenants & Ens. The late Lieutenant-Colonel John Baillie entered the service of the Honourable the East India Company in the year 1790, and arrived in India in 1791. He applied himself with great diligence to the study of the learned languages of the East, as a proof of which it may be mentioned, that in the year 1797 at the desire of the Governor-General (Sir John Shore) he undertook the translation from the Arabic of a copious digest of Muhammadan law, so arranged as to comprise the whole of the Imamea code, as applicable to secular matters. This work it was originally contemplated would extend to four volumes in quarto but of these the first only was ever published, and that without the preliminary discourse or table of contents. It comprehends only the laws of commercial transactions.

On the establishment of the College of Fort William, Colonel Baillie was appointed professor of the Arabic and Persian languages of Muhammadan law, a post which he filled with high credit until the year 1807, when he was appointed resident at the Court of the Nawab Vizir of Oude in place of Colonel Collins. During the period of his professorship, Colonel Baillie was twice called into active service as political agent to the Governor General in Bundelkhund, and for the zeal and ability displayed by him in this capacity he was honoured with the public thanks of the Government. In the year 1801 he published a series of sixty fables, elucidatory of the first part of his course of lectures at the College on the inflexions of Arabic Grammar, namely the Mint Amil; Shurhe Mint Amil; Mishah; Hedayet un Nuhvi; and the Kafeea of Ebn Hojeb. In consequence of his employment in Bundelkhund, the work was not completed and indeed all further literary exertion appears to have been put a stop to by his appointment to Lucknow, where he remained till 1815. In 1818 he retired from the service and in 1823 succeeded the late Mr Cotton as a Director of the East India Company. Colonel Baillie was a native of Inverness, and represented that district of burghs in Parliament.

On April 20, 1833 at his house in Devonshire Place Col. John Baillie in his 61st year died. He was M.P. for Inverness and succeeded John Cotton as a Director of the Company in 1823.

In Calcutta, Jan. 30, 1766 Hugh Baillie married Anna Pierre, Spinster

			Seven Years War, and was present in several sea-fights against the English in West Indian and American waters. The regiment's first western were the Dutch East India Company, under whom they served at the Cape and in Ceylon. They then crossed bayonets with the English at the French defence of Cuddalore in 1782. Among the garrison of that little fortress was a young Sergeant, named Bernadotte, the future Marshal of the Empire and King of Sweden and Norway (see No. 1206). In 1795 we find de Meuron and his men once more in Ceylon, and, on the conquest of the island by the English, they transferred their allegiance without difficulty to the British Crown. Colonel de Meuron became Brigadier-General in command of the troops in Ceylon and his officers were ranked with officers of the King's service. In the following year the regiment was transferred to the Madras establishment, and after being in garrison successively at Pondamallee, Arnee and Vellore, took part in the operations before Seringapatam, where it was brigaded with the 33rd and 73rd Foot under Colonel (afterwards Sir Arthur) Wellesley. A journal kept by Lieutenant Charles de Meuron Tribolet gives a graphic account of the campaign. The grenadier and light companies formed part of the storming column and lost 16 killed, including Lieutenant A. Matthey and Assistant Surgeon Lesser, and 60 wounded, including Captains Fischaut and Lardy. A descriptive panorama of the assault was exhibited in London at the Lyceum in which Captain Lardy, the leader of the forlorn hope, figures prominently. An engraving of this curious picture may be seen in the library of the Maharaja of Durbhunga. After the fall of the fortress the regiment was stationed on the Island and subsequently at French Rocks, 7 miles away. On February 10th 1806 it left Fort St. George for Europe and, after successively garrisoning the Isle of Wight, Guernsey, Sicily, and Malta, found its way to Canada, where it was finally disbanded the year after Waterloo, consequent upon the reduction of the English army to a peace footing. Eighteen members of the de Meuron family had held commissions in its ranks during the thirty-five years of its history. The Colonel commanding was always a de Meuron, and the Lieutenant Colonel generally one Yarck, the Prussian General who gained some celebrity in the Napoleonic wars, completed his apprenticeship to arms in this polyglot body, which at the time of its breaking up in 1816 was composed of members of almost every nationality in Europe.

Colonel Scott was placed in charge of the gun carriage works in 1800 and afterwards commanded the station. He is mentioned by Lord Valentia in 1804 as 'Captain Scott, who had just exerted himself with the highest credit to establish that manufactory.' His bungalow stands on the banks of the Cauvery not far from the English cemetery and is kept up almost in the same state as when he left it in 1817 after the loss of his wife and daughters. The story of this deserted house has formed the subject of a poem in the well-known "Lays of Ind" by Alph Chesra (Captain Yeldham).

"There stands on the isle of Seringapatam,
By the Cauvery, eddying fast
A bungalow lonely,
And tenanted only
By memories of the past
It has stood, as though under a curse or spell,
Untouched since the year that Tippoo fell
The mouldering rooms are now as they stood
Near eighty years ago;
The piano is there,
And table and chair,
And the carpet rotting slow.
And the beds whereon the corpses lay,
And the curtains half-mawed away."

Scott was a fellow officer with Wellington and fought with him in India. The bungalow has lately had several articles of the furniture taken out and has been cleaned up. The tradition is that Col. Scott came back to find his wife and 2 daughters dead of Cholera and threw himself into the river from the steps of his house. The truth is his wife died in childbed and Scott died in London in 1833. Wellesley was only prevented from going to Egypt as 2nd in command of Baird's expedition by an attack of itch (Kalji). He was detained at Bombay and the boat sailed without him. It was lost at sea with all on board. The story is told in G. W. Forrest's Sepoy Generals and in Major Price. In both books is to be found the story of the British Officer who cut off one of Tippoo's moustaches. 2 ladies in Surrey have the moustache preserved in a piece of red sash which Tippoo wore.

A lofty granite obelisk, without name or date, and these two letters only, standing at the end of a terrace, 180 feet long by 85 broad, on an eminence known as Mysaram Takedy or Monsieur Raymond's Hill, 3¼ miles from Hyderabad. At the south of the platform is an edifice like a Grecian temple in which are kept the lamps and other articles used to decorate the tomb. Reds crosses in red are painted on the basement of the platform, which commands a fine view of the surrounding country. The tomb is described in Warren's "Plnds Anglesse" (1843), and Durmsteter's Letters sur l'Inde (1889), p. 349.

His tomb lies on a hill near Umangarh on the way to Sururnagar. It consists of a granite obelisk 23 feet high standing in the centre of an oblong platform. No inscription but simply the letters J. R. The tomb is worshipped by both Hindus and Mahomedans by the former as Musa Ram and the latter Musa Rahim.

Michel Joachim Marie Raymond was born at Seringue on the 25th September 1755. His father was a merchant, and in January 1775 the son set out from Lorient to Pondicherry with the intention of starting a corresponding house in India, but soon abandoned trade for the more exciting profession of arms and entered a corps in the service of Tippoo commanded by the Chevalier de Lassé. In 1783 he became Bussy's Aide-de-Camp and on the latter's death two years later succeeded the younger Lally (see No. 1794) as commandant of the French cavalry, which Nizam Ali had taken over from his brother Basalat Jung and lent to Hyder for his Carnatic campaigns. Raymond gradually altered the composition of this force to an army corps of twenty sepoy battalions officered by Europeans and maintained by the revenues of an entire jaghire. His death occurred suddenly at the zenith of his fame, poisoned by his enemies at the Court of the Nizam when he was at the head of 15,000 disciplined troops with numerous magazines and gun foundries: one of which not unlike an immense rocket mort still stands near the Chuddergbaut Residency. Raymond used to make his own guns and construct the foundries, the most well-known being called Top-ke-Sancha near Fateh Maidan. The French gardens in which Raymond and his officers resided and close to which the troop lines are situated are about only a mile from the hill where his tomb is. These are now held in Jaghir by some Nawab. His successor Jean Henri Piron (born at Huningue, March 26th, 1753 died at Chandernagore October 21st, 1807) was a man of little ability and six months later James Achilles Kirkpatrick, the British Resident, was able to execute a treaty with the Nizam under the terms of which the entire foreign contingent was to be disbanded On October 20th 1798, 14 000 men and 124 officers laid down their arms to a force of British troops under Colonel Roberts, John Malcolm, Assistant Resident, and Kirkpatrick, and the celebrated French corps of Hyderabad passed into a tradition. The name of Monsieur Raymond is still kept up in the Mysorean Regiment of irregulars, and on every anniversary of Raymond's death the tomb and platform are brilliantly illuminated and a grand fair held, which is largely attended. Salutes are fired by the Irregular troops, many of whom are descendants of Mirza Rahim's famous fifteen thousand. 995 22nd Oct. 1807. FRANCES SYDENHAM. FRANCES SYDENHAM obit 22 October A.D 1807, aetat 31.

From thee, Great God, we spring,
To thee we tend,
Path Motive Guide, Original
and Friend. G. Smith Sc.

Her husband Thomas Sydenham, natus circa, 1780, was second son of Colonel W. Sydenham (No. 1366). After serving in the Mysore war as Captain of Guides, he was nominated Secretary to the residency of Hyderabad. He returned to England in 1802 and studied at Christ Church under Dean Jackson. In 1804 he again sailed for the east and was appointed first to the charge of the residency in Persia and then (1806) to that of Hyderabad. Resigning this office in 1810 he proceeded to England, was sent by Lord Wellesley on a confidential mission to the Peninsula, and became chargé d' affaires at Lisbon. In 1812 he joined the Earl of Wellington in camp, and served with him as a volunteer in the campaign of that year. He then repaired to the headquarters of the Russian army and took part in the company of his friend Count Woronzow in the battles of 1814. His gallantry at Craon procured him the cross of St. George from the hands of the Emperor Alexander, while Bernadotte presented him with the Swedish insignia of the Sword. On the conclusion of peace, Sydenham was appointed British envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary at Lisbon, but his career was cut short by an incurable illness at Geneva, August 28th, 1816.

There is a portrait of Sydenham in the Falaknama palace. He did not matriculate.

For a brief biographical Memoir of Thomas Sydenham, see Asiatic Journal, Dec. 1816.

996 20th Aug. 1815. WILLIAM JOHN DARBY. This monument was erected by the officers of the Russell Brigade in memory of their comrade Lieut. WILLIAM JOHN DARBY, who in an attack within the city of Hyderabad on the 20th of August 1815 fell at the head of a column as he was gallantly cheering on his grenadiers to the charge.

This chabuk originally stood near the present lawn tennis court.

997 14th Sept. 1817. C. R. F. M. GRANT. CHARLES RUSSELL FAIRLAND MURRAY GRANT, the only child of Lieut Charles St John Grant of the Resident's Escort, who died on the 14th Sept. 1817, aged 10 months and 19 days.

Madras Almanac 1818 gives 14 Aug. 1817 as the date of his death. Grant married Miss Mary Stoddard, December 12th, 1812.

On 24th July 1813, at the Residency the lady of Ensign Chas. St. John Grant, attached to the Escort was in consequence of a fall prematurely delivered of a daughter who died shortly after her birth.

998 16th Oct. 1818. ANNE RUSSELL .. ANNE, the infant daughter of Henry Russell, who died the 16th Oct. 1818, aged 3 months and 4 days.

Sir Henry Russell, second baronet (1783–1852) was Resident at Hyderabad in 1808 and again from April 1811 to December 1820. He married firstly Jane Amelia (No. 403) daughter of J. H. Casamajor, Member of Council at Fort, St. George who died at Madras December, 24th, 1808[1] and secondly on November 13th 1816, Marie Clotilde, daughter of Benoît Mottet de la Fontaine (No. 507) who survived him until 1872. Their eldest son, Henry (b. 1819) died at Cairo in 1847. The second son and third baronet Charles (1826–1883) was a Lieutenant-Colonel in the Grenadier Guards and one of the first recipients of the Victoria Cross for gallantry in the Crimea.

He was a Member of Parliament from 1865–68 and again from 1874–83 Sir George Russell, the third son and fourth baronet was a County Court Judge from 1874 to 1895, and subsequently M. P. for Wokingham. He died in 1898, and the present baronet is his son.

The first baronet, Sir Henry Russell (1751–1838), had been Chief Justice of the Supreme Court at Fort William from 1807–1813 He was knighted in 1797 on his appointment to be a Puisne Judge at Calcutta and was created a baronet on December 10th, 1812 He married as his second wife Anna Barbara, youngest daughter of Sir Charles Whitworth and sister of Earl Whitworth the British Ambassador at Paris, who was publicly insulted by Napoleon after the peace of Amiens He had a family of six sons and five daughters Three of his sons entered the Company's service Henry the second baronet, Charles who became M P for Reading after leaving India and died in 1856, and Francis Whitworth, who became Salt Agent at Chittagong and died there on March 25th 1852, in the forty fourth year of his service The Chief Justice named his youngest daughter Rose Aylmer, in memory of his niece, Leander's early love, who died at his house in Calcutta in 1800.

999 17th June 1820 GEORGE RUMBOLD.

GEORGE RUMBOLD, Esq., who died on the 17th day of June 1820, infinitely beloved, aged 26 years.

The Rumbolds furnish an apt illustration of Kipling's saying that certain families find their way to India generation after generation, as dolphins follow in line across the open sea. William Rumbold, of the Company's service who was buried at Fulham on September 19th, 1728, became the father of two sons Henry and William Henry was Secretary to the Council at Fort William and died in Bengal, September 1st 1743 He married Sarah Bagnet at Fort St. George, August 17th, 1731. William rose to be second at Tellicherry and died in 1745. Of his three sons, William, the eldest, entered the Company's military service and died at Fort St David on August 1st 1757, in his twenty-eighth year; and the second, Henry died at sea at an early age Orme has a letter from Lt Wm Rumbold dated Camp near Madura 22 May 1757 describing the state of affairs at Madura (Hill p. 100) ' The following have died on the Coast: Lieutenants William Rumbold and John Keith and Cadet Daniel Anthony Montach. Pigot's despatch to Directors Nov 15, 1757.

Thomas Rumbold, the youngest (1736–1791), is erroneously said to have begun life as a hosts at Arthur's, fashionable gaming house in St James' or as a tide-waiter at the London Docks In 1752 he entered the Company's service as a Writer, but before long exchanged the civil for the military profession as Clive had done After serving under Lawrence in the operations round Trichinopoly in 1754 he accompanied Clive to Bengal in 1756 and for his gallantry at the siege of Calcutta received a captain's commission. He was Clive's Aide-de-Camp at the battle of Plassey and was severely wounded. Permission was given to him to revert to the civil service, and in December 1760 he was third at Chittagong Subsequently he became Chief at Patna and from 1768 to 1769 was a Member of Council at Fort William. He had now made his fortune and returned to England On November 26th, 1770 he took his seat in the House of Commons as member for New Shoreham. Seven years later he was appointed to succeed Lord Pigot as Governor of Fort St George where he landed on February 8th, 1778 In the following October Pondicherry capitulated to Sir Hector Munro and Rumbold was created a baronet on March 23rd 1779 On April 6th 1780, he resigned his governorship and sailed for England On his arrival, he was held responsible for Hyder's invasion of the Carnatic and dismissed the service of the Company by the directors The parliamentary enquiry which ensued proved abortive; and Rumbold continued to sit in the House and play the part of a nabob until his death on November 11th 1791. He was twice married, but left his estates to his children by his second wife, who was a daughter of Edmund Law, Bishop of Carlisle. His eldest son by his first wife, William Richard (1780–1796), was Aide-de-camp to Sir Hector Munro at the siege of Pondicherry and carried home the despatches and the colours of the fortress for presentation to the King. The second baronet, Sir George Berriman Rumbold (1764–1807), was so named after his mother, Frances Berriman, who had married Thomas Rumbold at Madras on June 22nd, 1756. She died at Calcutta in childbirth, August 22nd, 1764 aged 26. Her parents James Berriman and Frances Aspinwall were married at Fort. St. George October 9th, 1736. G. B. Rumbold was born at Fort William on August 17th, 1764, and while Minister Resident at Hamburg in 1804, was seized by order of the French Government and conveyed as a prisoner to the Temple in Paris. He died at Memel in 1807. Two of his sons joined the banking house of Palmer & Co., and are buried at Hyderabad: George, the second, who is here commemorated, and William, the eldest, who succeeded his father in the baronetcy and died in 1835.

The Asiatic Journal (March 1824—p. 150 of Asiatic Intelligence) observes—

"We are sorry to announce the death of Sir William Rumbold, at Hyderabad, by an attack of apoplexy, in bed, on the night of the 23rd August.

"The name of Sir William Rumbold has been a good deal before the public, both here and in England, in consequence of his connexion with the firm of Palmer and Co. of Hyderabad. His retirement from that firm, previously to its ruin, was not a voluntary act, being in consequence of an order from government, withdrawing his license to reside and carry on business in the territories of the Nizam. But although he thereby escaped the responsibilities of the failure, he never ceased to protect the interests of his late partners and their constituents with the warm and active advocacy of his talents and influence at home. After an absence from India of several years, he returned in 1822 with almost unlimited powers from the creditors in England, and with the sanction of the Court of Directors, to aid in prosecuting large claims exceeding the amount of the unpaid debts of the house and considered desperate only under the adverse influence of the British authorities. Actions were brought in consequence in the Nizam's courts, and judgments were obtained, but the sinister (though erroneous) impression of government has ultimately still remained and the parties, being now high in office, continued to act the trustees of the house at defiance. The laws of the country were powerless against a despotic minister and relations. The vigilance of Sir William Rumbold did not fail to apprize the Board of Control of the true situation in which he found himself under the deceptive protection afforded him; and at length the head of that Board, as it is well known by the published proceedings in the matter of the Mandamus against the opinion of a small majority in the Court of Directors took up the case of the Hyderabad House as a case of British claims upon a foreign power in which under the peculiar circumstances of foreign interference, the government stood compromised to something more than a nominal protection. It is understood, that not long since, instructions to this effect were received in Calcutta, and that they have been acted upon by the transmission of corresponding instructions to the Resident at Hyderabad. We have also heard, that in consequence thereof sanguine expectations are now entertained, that very large sums will be recovered for the benefit of the estate. These hopes and the favourable position of things on which they are founded would not have existed but for the energy and talents and indefatigable zeal of Sir William Rumbold, who had the tact to engage the attention of the real rulers of India, and to enable them to see through the mystification of a very complicated affair."

Rumbold Kote in Chudderghaut still preserves their name With the death of William the link which had bound the family to India for more than a century was snapped. Sir William Rumbold, third baronet, was born on May 22nd, 1787, and married at Castle Donington on July 13th, 1809, Henrietta Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Boothby, Lord Ranelcliffe (No 2258). Four of his sons succeeded to the baronetcy in turn: and the baronet, Sir Horace Rumbold, G C B , G C M G , British Ambassador at Vienna, is his fifth son.

"During the reign of Nizam Nasir ud Doulah were constructed two large houses one named Rumbold's Kothe and the other Pertomji's Kothe R. K. was the house of Sir Wm. Rumbold who was a partner in the firm of Palmer & Co He was a grandson of the famous Governor of Madras and came to India, with a fortune of £8000 during the viceroyalty of Lord Hastings having married a ward of that noble man's. He subsequently joined the firm of Palmer & Co and remained a partner till its failure. Sir W. R. died here in 1823. The building is now an annexe of the King Kothe. Pertomji's Kothe is a large building standing well back from the main road erected on an immense stone basement. The erection alone of the engineering [?] works which surrounded the grounds is said to have cost a lac of rupees. The house was built by the famous Parsi bankers Pertomji & Co , who collected the revenues of Berar They succeeded Puran Mal in 1839 In 1845 Pertomji was compelled to give up his districts The Kothi is now named as Mohammul-mulk's Kothe and was purchased by Nawab Mohammul mulk for a lac of rupees."

"The only cloud upon the later years (1820–23) of the Marquess of Hastings' rule in India was caused by the embarrassed state of the Nizam's affairs. The great banking firm of Palmer & Co had become a power at Hyderabad, a power which Sir Charles Metcalfe the Resident (1820–25) pronounced so dangerous that Lord Hastings was compelled to step in between the impoverished Nizam and his creditors. The claims of the former to a yearly tribute for the Northern Circars were wiped out for ever by the payment of a large sum down, most of which went to extinguish the loans due to the English bankers. A year afterwards the house of Palmer & Co. stopped payment. On the Governor-General's return to England in 1823, the Court of Proprietors passed a vote of virtual censure upon him for his conduct in the affairs of Palmer & Co. which was only softened by his acquittal of any corrupt intent. It was not until his death in 1837 that the India House made him some amends by voting £20,000 to his son."

1016	8th Mar. 1864.	Ettie Elizabeth Yule	Ettie Elizabeth, daughter of George and Henrietta Yule. Born Oct. 28th, 1863. Sir George Udny Yule, K.C.S.I., C.B. (1813–86), was Resident at Hyderabad from 1863 to 1867. It was during his tenure of office that Kirkpatrick's Rang Mahal was pulled down. In April 1861, he had officiated as Chief Commissioner of Oudh, and from May 1867 to January 1868, he was a member of the Governor General's Council. During the Mutiny he was Commissioner of the Bhagalpur division in Lower Bengal and received the C.B. for his services. He was as famous as a shikari as he was distinguished as an administrator. Of his two brothers, Robert Yule, the second (1817–57), fell while leading his regiment, the 9th Lancers, in a gallant action before Delhi. The youngest was the well-known Sir Henry Yule (1820–1889), geographer and editor of "Marco Polo's Travels" and of the "Diary of Sir William Hedges for the Hakluyt Society." He was created a C.B. in 1868 and appointed a member of the Secretary of State's Council. On his retirement in the year of his death (1889) he was made K.C.S.I. His first appointment on joining the Bengal Engineers in 1840 was among the Khasias, who inhabit the hills in the midst of which Shillong now stands, and his account of their quaint manners and customs and of the megalithic monuments in their country was his first piece of literary research. The father of the Yules was a Major in the East India Company's Service. William Yule (1794—1839), who was himself an orientalist of some reputation and whose valuable collection of Persian and Arabic manuscripts was presented by his sons to the British Museum.

Quicquid in illo amavimus, quicquid mortale sumus re anet manumungire est.

Roberts was a Punjab Civilian who came out to India in 1857 and was promoted from the Financial Commissionership to a Judgeship of the Chief Court in 1856 As Financial Commissioner he wrote a famous report on Sir John's Lawrence's "8 as si bona norint" circular.

CHUDDERGHAUT CEMETERY

1018 20th Nov. 1867. WILLIAM PALMER.

This monument contains the remains of WILLIAM PALMER, who died on 20th Nov. 1867 in his 87th year He had been a resident of Hyderabad for nearly 70 years, where he was prominently known, and his memory requires no record. But he desires anxiously that the goodness of Hester Palmer, his wife, towards him who survived him, should be known by this record drawn up on his deathbed. She was his comfort for the last 20 years of his life, which was involved generally in distress and difficulties. Her strong mind and good sense supported himself during his sickness, and contributed to prolong his life, and her private means were employed to maintain him in ease and comfort when he was penniless, as indeed they were subsequently to educate some of his grandchildren whom she has loved though not connected by blood with them, as if they were her own, and which she continues to do May the blessing of Almighty and Most Merciful God be with her and her grandchildren and us all!

"King" Palmer, son of Gen. Wm. Palmer, founded the great banking house which bore his name. He married May 18th, 1848, Hester née Sharp, the widow of Cornelius Desormeaux, Surgeon. She was born September 1st, 1817, and died September 6th, 1877 Palmer established his house at Hyderabad in 1814 and shortly afterwards offered to relieve the Nizam's Government of the financial burden of the contingent required to keep the peace of India during the Pindari War, by lending at 2½ lacs a month for two years, the security being an assignment of the land revenue of the dominions and the rate of interest 18 per cent. This was agreed to by the Prime Minister Chandu Lall and sanctioned by the Marquis of Hastings, then Governor-General Three years later Sir W. Rumbold joined the firm, which in 1820 advanced a loan of 60 lacs to Chandu Lall. In 1840 Mr Palmer then the only surviving partner, formulated an exhaustive memorandum of reforms in the Hyderabad administration, which testifies to his abilities as a statesman as well as a financier. Evil days eventually overtook him and at the time of his death pecuniary difficulties obscured the horizon. His daughter Mary by a previous marriage became the wife on August 25th, 1821, of Meadows Taylor, the distinguished writer of Anglo-Indian Novels, who died in 1876 She died at a place called Lingasur on September 20, 1844.

The inscription in Persian may be translated as follows:—

"This new well was dug and faced by Major James Achilles Kirkpatrick Bahadur, Hushmat Jung, the Vazil of the Honourable English Company, 1802." This well was filled up in the time of Sir Trevor Chichele Plowden, and the slab is lying abandoned under a tree near the office of the P.W.D. Supervisor to the Residency.

The Persian inscription may be translated: "This well was dug and faced by Major James Achilles Kirkpatrick, Hushmat Jung, Vazil of the British Government the Honourable English Company Bahadur, for quenching the thirst of passengers and watering the fruit garden and deer paddock, 1804 A.D., 1219 A.H." This slab is fixed above the well known as Pathi Bowree overlooking the City Road running past the Residency.

James Achilles Kirkpatrick, born August 28th, 1764, was the second son of Captain James Kirkpatrick of the Madras Cavalry and his wife Katharine née Munro. His parents were married at Madras, March 14th, 1762, and the mother died January 27th, 1765, aged 22. There is a tablet to her memory on the east wall of Bombay Cathedral. James Achilles, who was educated at Eton, entered the Madras Army, October 16th, 1780. He was invalided home within ten years, but returned in time to serve in the second Mysore campaign. In 1793 he commanded Vizianagram, and from there was appointed Persian Translator with the force serving under the Nizam. The death of Lieutenant William Stewart promoted him to be Assistant to his younger brother William, Resident at Hyderabad. Early in 1797 William was compelled to proceed to the Cape for his health, and James Achilles became Resident. He held the post for nine years and in that time negotiated three important treaties, by the most important of which a British subsidiary force was to replace Raymond's French contingent. Kirkpatrick was an extraordinary instance of an orientalised Englishman. His most famous feat was his marriage in 1800 to Khair-un-nissa Begum, granddaughter of Akil ud Dowlah, Buxey or Paymaster to the British Subsidiary Force. This exploit was made the subject of calumnious reports to Calcutta by Kirkpatrick's enemies, and Lord Wellesley had a searching enquiry held, the result of which was to completely exonerate Kirkpatrick from blame. Two children were born to him, and these two wells commemorate their births. Catharine Aurora Kirkpatrick, the daughter, married Captain James Winslow

Phillipps of the 7th Hussars and died March 2nd, 1889, at the villa Sorrento Torquay. She is the "Kitty Kirkpatrick" of Carlyle's Reminiscences and according to some the Blanche of his Sartor Resartus. (Vide articles in the Nineteenth Century for September 1892 by George Strachey and in Blackwood's 'Magazine' for July 1893 by Sir Edward Strachey.) Her brother William George died young, leaving a widow and three daughters. Chinnery's portrait of the two children in Eastern dress is now at Torquay in Mr Paul Phillipps' house. It was formerly kept in the Rang Mahal or Zenana at the back of the Chudderghaut Residency, which Kirkpatrick built for his Indian princess. This building fell into disrepair and was finally pulled down by Sir George Yule's in the sixties. The old Residency gardener can however recall it (1901), and in Sir Salar Jung's Art Gallery is what appears to be a picture of the place. In the same collection is a portrait of James Achilles. His vernacular name was Hushmat Jung 'The Magnificent in Battle,' a title given him by the Nizam', and outside the principal gate of the Residency is a small grain bazaar still known as Hushmat Ganj.
